Parisians Flee Raid

PARIS, Nov. 23, Thursday (AP).—An airplane, presumably German, circled over Paris at 12:12 a. m. today [6:12 p. m. Chicago time Wednesday] but apparently was driven off by heavy fire from anti-aircraft guns. There was no immediate report of any bomb being dropped.

A warning sounded five minutes before the plane's appearance, giving Parisians time to get to dugouts and cellars. The all clear signal was given 53 minutes later.

Northern France was put on the alert twice by air raid warnings several hours before the sirens sounded in Paris.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Nov. 22.—The war on the sea and in the air broke out with greater ferocity than ever today. The principal developments were:

1. The British admiralty announced that the destroyer Gipsy struck a mine off the east coast yesterday after rescuing three German flyers from a collapsible rubber boat at sea. Forty were missing from the Gipsy and 21 were reported injured.
2. Ten German and two French planes were downed during a day in which the skies above England, France, and the North sea swarmed with hostile aircraft.

German Freighter Destroyed.

3. A British warship destroyed the German freighter Bertha Fisser off the coast of Ireland.
4. The Italian freighter Fianona, of 6,600 tons, rammed a mine off England's southeast coast last night, suffering great damage, but remaining afloat today. She was the 17th victim of the sea warfare off the British Isles in the last five days.
5. The French government claimed one torpedo boat had sunk two German submarines within three days. The communique announcing the success said aircraft directed the torpedo boat toward one of its underwater victims.

Mercy Errand Costs Warship.

An extraordinary quirk of fate drove the destroyer Gipsy into the path of the mine which nearly broke it into two parts. The ship was carrying out her normal patrol along the east coast yesterday when it sighted the three German flyers drifting in their collapsible boat. The three came from a lone German aircraft that reached the outskirts of London on Monday night and was damaged trying to get away.

Two of the flyers were severely wounded and orders were given to put into port. This was done and the Gipsy was returning to its patrol when it struck the mine. The vessel foundered within full view of the east coast port. More than 100 were rescued by boats of every description which rushed to the scene after hearing the explosion. The Gipsy was launched in November, 1935, and completed in January, 1936, at a cost of $1,179,000.

Seventh Lost by British Navy.

The Gipsy was the seventh acknowledged loss of the British navy during the present war. The others were the aircraft carrier Courageous, the battleship Royal Oak, an unnamed destroyer sunk by a mine on Nov. 14, the submarine Oxley, the auxiliary vessel Northern Rover, and the trawler Mastiff, sunk by a mine yesterday.

German aircraft action has damaged four other warships, the cruisers Southampton and Edinburgh, the destroyer Mohawk and the battleship Iron Duke, a demilitarized vessel.

Sir John Simon, chancellor of the exchequer, speaking of the recent losses at sea, mentioned charges contained in the press than the Germans had planted magnetic mines. The magnetic mines apparently are released thru a magnetic impulse whenever a large ship passes overhead. They are too deep, it is believed, to be retrieved by ordinary mine sweeping processes.

German Crew Rescued.

The German freighter Bertha Fisser, of 4,110 tons, sank within sight of watchers on the Icelandic coast after being shelled by a British warship. The freighter's crew started to sink the ship, then took to boats. The warship picked them up. The

GERMAN POLICE CALL STRASSER TOOL OF BRITAIN

Blame Exile for All Murder Attempts.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.

Otto Strasser.

BERLIN, Nov. 22.—The German secret police tonight disclosed that at least four attempts have been made to assassinate Adolf Hitler since 1935. A statement placed the blame for all the alleged plots on Otto Strasser, erstwhile lieutenant of Hitler but now the Fuehrer's bitter enemy.

Strasser, who was accused of organizing the Munich bomb plot which Hitler escaped by 12 minutes on Nov. 8, was accused of being a tool of the British intelligence service.

Two captured British secret service agents—Capt. Richard Henry Stevens and Sigismund Payne Best—were accused of having direct connections with the beer cellar explosion that cost eight lives. It was understood the agents are being held in Berlin and that they are being confronted with many persons charged with having been in contact with them.

Cite Attempts on Hitler's Life.

The secret police in their official statement cited these four attempts on Hitler's life:

FIRST—In 1936 during the Olympic games.

SECOND—In 1936 during the Nazi party convention.

THIRD—In 1937 during the visit of Premier Mussolini in Germany.

FOURTH—The Nov. 8 bomb explosion in the Munich beer cellar. Georg Elser of Munich, who was arrested four days after the explosion, has confessed setting off the time bomb, according to Heinrich Himmler, chief of all German police.

Nazis Provide Details.

German officials heretofore insisted that reports of attempts to kill Hitler were untrue. Today the secret police, in addition to mentioning them, provided the details of one attempt.

This concerned Helmuth Hirsch, a young American whose arrest, trial, and beheading had been shrouded in mystery in 1937. No representative of the American government was allowed to see the youth before his execution, altho one waited for hours in Ploetzensee prison.

[At the time of his execution Hirsch, a young Jew, was reported to have tried to kill Julius Streicher, Nazi Jew baiter, but many persons suspected Hitler was his real target.]

The version made public by the secret police alleged that Hirsch conferred extensively in Prague with plotters of Strasser's "Black Front German Revolution." The police asserted that Hirsch then started for Germany and was seized after crossing the German border en route to Stuttgart. The statement said he was carrying two infernal machines containing 22 pounds of explosives which were to have been set off thru a timepiece. Hirsch was beheaded on June 4, 1937. At the time the Germans

FIRST PROCLAMATION OF THANKSGIVING, AS WRITTEN BY BRADFORD

The first Thanksgiving proclamation was made by Gov. William Bradford of the Massachusetts Bay colony three years after the Pilgrims settled at Plymouth Rock. It established the first Thanksgiving as Nov. 29, 1623. The text of the proclamation follows:

TO ALL YE PILGRIMS:

"Inasmuch as the Great Father has given us this year an abundant harvest of Indian corn, wheat, peas, beans, squashes, and garden vegetables, and has made the forests to abound with game and the sea with fish and clams, and inasmuch as he has protected us from the ravages of the savages, has spared us from pestilence and disease, has granted us freedom to worship God according to the dictates of our own conscience; now I, your magistrate, do proclaim that all ye Pilgrims, with your wives and ye little ones, do gather at ye meethouse, on ye hill, between the hours of 9 and 12 in the day time, on Thursday, November ye 29th, of the year of our Lord one thousand six hundred and twenty-three, and the third year since ye Pilgrims landed on ye Plymouth Rock, there to listen to ye pastor and render thanksgiving to ye Almighty God for all his blessings.

"WILLIAM BRADFORD,
"Ye Governor of Ye Colony."

Here's Great Idea: Bride Puts a Zipper on Turkey

Albany, N. Y., Nov. 22 (AP).—Mrs. Norbert A. Pfaffenbach just couldn't see how to keep the stuffing in her Thanksgiving turkey where it belonged. So with all the ingenuity of a young June bride, Mrs. Pfaffenbach carefully sewed a slide fastener into the bird, inserted the stuffing, and zipped. She'll know the result when the unzipping is performed before several dinner guests tomorrow.

20 Americans in Berlin Can't Find a Turkey

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Nov. 22.—A group of 20 Americans in Berlin started their preparations early for a Thanksgiving dinner which they hoped would be a substitute for their feasts of the past—the dinners that mother cooked at home.

The hunt for a turkey started three weeks ago, but to this writing the bird has been elusive and the Americans' plans for having dinner together tomorrow night have been dropped. The quest for the bird, however, proved interesting.

The owner of the restaurant where the Americans gather almost daily went to all the markets and wholesalers and couldn't buy a turkey.

15,000 Ahead of Him.

One Berlin store has a list of 15,000 persons who may buy a fowl when their turn comes. Since the list was started in late September, a total of 500 customers have had their chance at a bird.

The Americans wrote to poultry farmers who replied that the lack of high grade fodder had slowed the fattening of their turkeys, which were not plentiful anyhow. They hoped to have some birds ready in a few weeks—they were expecting to receive grain from Russia.

The Americans saved the bacon they were allowed to import from Holland at 65 cents a pound. They had intended to provide a blanket of bacon for their bird because the restaurant proprietor didn't have a sufficient supply.

No Beans Till January.

Lacking a turkey, the Americans thought they might substitute a big crock of baked beans—what with the hoarded bacon in readiness—but beans are rationed and none will be sold until January when, the authorities announce, the population may expect a half pound of dried beans or peas.

One among the Americans had promised to give up his extra reserve of half a pound of coffee. To make it go farther and avoid the risk of the cook or a waiter sneaking a cup, the party prepared to take a percolator to their table and do their own brewing. Another prospective diner was willing to provide some small cans of evaporated milk to take the place of the usual skimmed milk.

Another was to contribute pumpkin pies. He found a pumpkin after four days' search, but he could obtain no cinnamon in the stores because all spices are being held back under official order.

Still Has Two Pounds of Butter.

One American who recently arrived from home had two pounds of butter which he would contribute, but with the turkey missing, he saved his butter.

Another had offered to buy candy for after dinner. He went to a store and bought five ounces and said it was delicious. But when he went to buy more, he found that the five ounces he had bought with his food card was his chocolate candy ration for a whole month. He had eaten it in 10 minutes.

So, while their folks at home are enjoying turkey with all the trimmings, the Americans here will be pulling out their meat tickets, their general food cards and butter and bread cards and taking what seems to be the most attractive on the restaurant menus.

Pumpkin Pie and No Coffee.

Only the donor of the pumpkin pie kept his offer open and those who are weakened by homesickness will drop into his office to get a wedge of pumpkin pie. But what's pumpkin pie without coffee? The American with the coffee withdrew his offer when he learned there would be no turkey.

If the Americans discover a turkey fat enough to be sacrificed next week, they are prepared to celebrate Thanksgiving on the non-Rooseveltian date next Thursday.

TRAINMAN KILLED, 130 PASSENGERS ESCAPE IN NORTH CHICAGO WRECK

Harry Anderson.

The engineer was killed and two other railroad employés were injured late yesterday afternoon when the northbound Winnebago limited of the North Western railroad struck a railway motor car and was wrecked a mile south of 22d street in North Chicago. Altho four cars of the train were derailed none of the 130 passengers were hurt.

Harry M. Anderson, 3857 Augusta boulevard, was the engineer. He was crushed to death when the locomotive overturned and rolled down an embankment. The injured are the fireman, Stanley Mack, 345 Oak Lawn avenue, Elmhurst, and Abe Cohen, 1054 Granville avenue, a baggageman. Both were taken to the Victory Memorial hospital in Waukegan, where it was said Mack's condition is critical.

Four section hands who were on the motor car said they did not see the oncoming train until it was too late to get the car off the track. They saved themselves by jumping aside. The derailed engine and cars tore up ties for nearly a half mile before halting.

'Golden Angel' Letters Bared in Kuhn Trial

BY WILLIAM FULTON.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Nov. 22 [Special].—Blushing furiously as his fervent love letters to his "Golden Angel" were read to the jury, Fuehrer Fritz Kuhn of the German-American bund today gave several conflicting versions of his romantic activities. Finally he admitted he had been lying.

"Golden Angel" is Mrs. Florence Camp, erstwhile blonde sweetheart of the bund fuehrer, who will take the stand later in the week as a witness against Kuhn in his trial for larceny. The state claims Kuhn lavished bund funds upon her.

At first Kuhn insisted he never had asked Mrs. Camp to marry him or told her that he was divorced when he wasn't. Then when Assistant District Attorney Herman J. McCarthy read the correspondence to the jury the defendant admitted he had not told the truth.

Chivalry Not Dead, He Says.

His final words on the stand after a six hour cross-examination were to the effect that chivalry was not dead in the bund.

"I was very much attached to Mrs. Camp," he said. "I didn't know the district attorney had all these letters. Of course, I tried to shield myself, but I also tried to shield Mrs. Camp."

Judge James G. Wallace, who is conducting the trial in General Sessions court, admonished the jury that Kuhn was not on trial for his romantic proclivities.

"This defendant is not on trial for writing letters or making love to a woman not his wife or asking her to be his wife," explained the court. "These letters are in the record in connection with the state's examination of his credibility and not for their literary value or anything else."

Counsel Demands Mistrial.

Judge Wallace asked the defendant whether Mrs. Camp had been his mistress or whether he had intimate relations with her.

"Certainly not," snapped Kuhn.

Before the words were out of his mouth defense counsel Peter L. F. Sabbatino was on his feet shouting for a mistrial on the grounds the questioning prejudiced his client in the eyes of the jury. The demand was denied as were several other such requests during the day.

During his testimony Kuhn claimed, in connection with the state's allegation that he took bund funds, that he had a legal right to use the organization's funds in any way he saw fit. He asserted the bund operated on the leadership principle, somewhat after the manner of the dictatorship in Germany.

Kuhn Interested in Astrology.

Like his idol, Adolf Hitler, Kuhn was interested in astrology and in the letters read in court today he told Mrs. Camp that the stars indicated June 25 last year was a good time to start action on her divorce from her husband, Charles.

First in the series of love letters read to the jury was a note penciled on a cable blank. This was the message Kuhn claimed he sent "in fun" to Mrs. Camp aboard the ship Westerneard en route to Europe in February, 1938. It was on that voyage that he first met Mrs. Camp. The letter read as follows:

"Florence—I am terrible in love with you—I beg you to become my beloved wife—I will always be real true to you and I will love you forever, I can't be without you any more because I realize heaven did send you and I never will forget you. Fritz."

Thanks Her for Letters.

The next letter, dated May 20, 1938, was sent by Kuhn from his bund offices in New York and addressed to Mrs. Camp at 10830 Lindbrook drive, West Los Angeles, Cal.

"My most beloved darling Florence:

"I thanking you so much for your letters. I hardly can tell you how much they help me. So you gained 15 lbs. I love that—yes, sweetheart I like it. Of course it makes no difference to me how heavy you are and how you look—I love you and that is all. We are in . . . [the dots and grammar are Kuhn's] but I think it's over by now anyway I think so. You are so good."

Following are additional excerpts from the letter:

"See darling, you understand, if I want to know these things it is be-

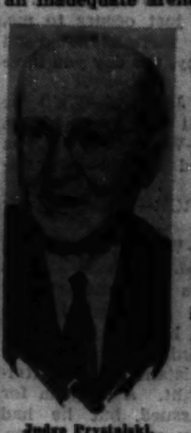
REVEAL O'HARE DEALS, HOLLAND TOLD BY COURT

Rules After Stormy Grand Jury Session.



Judge Prystalski.

A secluded hearing room proved an inadequate arena yesterday when the Cook county grand jury started to get at the real story of Municipal Judge Eugene J. Holland's business dealings with Edward J. O'Hare, slain front man of the Capone syndicate.

Arguments so bitter developed there that Holland and his attorney, Joseph T. Harrington, the grand jurors, and two assistant state's attorneys marched in a body to the courtroom of Chief Justice John Prystalski of the Criminal court to demand rulings on their respective rights.

In the court hearing Harrington charged that one of the grand jurors had called Holland a "punk," and that another had informed him the entire grand jury seconded a motion that the description fit. He also contended that his client's constitutional rights were being violated.

Orders Special Session.

Judge Prystalski ordered that a special session of the grand jury be held tomorrow and that Holland answer all questions unless he desires to plead that answers might incriminate him. No other ground for refusal is valid, the chief justice said.

The court debate started with Wilbert F. Crowley, first assistant state's attorney, telling of Holland's refusal to talk.

JUDGE PRYSTALSKI—Do you say that Judge Holland has refused to answer the questions on the ground that they might incriminate him?

HARRINGTON [interrupting]—No, your honor. It was on constitutional grounds and advice of counsel.

The chief justice ordered Holland to step forward. Harrington protested that he wanted to do the talking and he was allowed to proceed.

Demands Copy of Questions.

HARRINGTON—The reference is to reasonable search of a person's private papers and effects. My client a week ago was asked questions not related to his business deals with the deceased [O'Hare]. I want a copy of that interrogation to see if there's a sincere investigation into this murder or a fishing expedition in Judge Holland's personal affairs.

PRYSTALSKI—Do you refer to the bill of rights, section two?

HARRINGTON—Yes, your honor.

PRYSTALSKI—Then he refuses to answer because the questions might tend to incriminate him?

HARRINGTON—No. I told him not to answer in regard to personal matters. I want that transcript, to see if there's anything in it about the O'Hare killing. I now ask the court to direct the state's attorney to give it to me.

CROWLEY—Counsel can't attempt to regulate the state's attorney's office.

Grand Jury Can Act.

PRYSTALSKI—Judge Holland can refuse to answer questions that tend to incriminate him. The court then can rule on whether they actually do incriminate him, but the grand jury has the power to go into any feature or ramification of a case which would, in its belief, tend to show commission of a crime.

HARRINGTON—If, under the guise of an O'Hare inquiry, the persons are investigating Judge Holland—I protest! They have no right as a grand jury to go into a fishing expedition into an individual's affairs.

PRYSTALSKI—You have no right to know in advance the questions to be asked by a grand jury. I have no right to direct the state's attorney to give you a transcript of the investigation.

HARRINGTON—If the state's attorney will show me the transcript I will permit Judge Holland to answer questions.

Calls Reasons Insufficient.

PRYSTALSKI—I have no right to direct him. The question in my mind is: On what ground does he [Holland] refuse to answer? He is a lawyer and a judge.

HARRINGTON—He refuses on his constitutional rights and on advice of counsel.

PRYSTALSKI—These are not sufcient reasons. I direct Judge Holland to be back Friday at 10 a. m. to answer any question he may be asked. If he doesn't answer, I will take the matter up as it is my duty to do as chief justice. He may at that time offer reasons for his refusal.

CROWLEY—Some of the questions asked were as to when he met O'Hare, what dealings they had, and how long he knew O'Hare.

Incrimination Only Ground.

PRYSTALSKI—If he says answers to these questions may tend to incriminate him, that is a valid ground. There is none other.

CROWLEY—If he will say that, we will abandon our inquiry with him as a witness right now.

HARRINGTON—One of the grand jurors called Judge Holland a punk. He is entitled to courtesy as a public official.

PRYSTALSKI — The grand jury will see that a witness is given respect, but whether the witness is A, B, or C, the grand jury will not refrain from investigating to the fullest extent.

HARRINGTON [indignantly]—Your honor! Another grand juror just said that they all second the motion—that Judge Holland is a punk!

PRYSTALSKI—If the grand jury is investigating the O'Hare case, let it be understood here and now that it has the right to go as far as it believes necessary. If it appears to the grand jury that other crimes have been committed it can go as far as it wishes, as long as it is with the view of bringing in an indictment or indictments against the person or persons who committed such crimes.

HARRINGTON—It's my opinion that a political issue is involved here.

CROWLEY—That is not so!

No Political Issue.

PRYSTALSKI—That couldn't be. Judge Holland and I are of the same political party. Besides, that could make no difference to the jurors.

CROWLEY—It just occurs to me, your honor, that there is no grand jury session Friday, the day you have set.

THE GRAND JURORS—We'll be here, judge. We'll come, your honor.

PRYSTALSKI—Would any of you be inconvenienced by a Friday session?

A GRAND JUROR—I would, your honor.

PRYSTALSKI—Well, you'll have to be inconvenienced. Be here Friday.

Surrender Is "Voluntary."

Judge Holland appeared in the Criminal Courts building yesterday after twice declining invitations by Crowley and Assistant State's Attorney Robert Wright. A subpena for him had been issued, but he had eluded service by policemen. Technically his coming in was voluntary.

Harrington waited outside when Holland entered the grand jury room, where, it was reported, he was asked to sign an immunity waiver. He was said to have brushed the document aside. Had he signed, any statements he made could have been used against him.

He was questioned about the friendships and dealings of O'Hare and [this was brought out in open court] balked. O'Hare was slain by gangsters Nov. 8. Memoranda on the body showed that he and Holland had been in real estate deals together. Another partner was Harry Walsh, a loop bookmaker, who is being sought.

The theory of the state's attorney's police is that O'Hara's death was decreed by the Capone gang, which he had angered possibly by some of his financial transactions after he became president of the Sportsman's Park race track.

State's Attorney Courtney is anxious to learn why and how Judge Holland became involved with persons having underworld connections and the extent of their transactions.

Judge Holland has said publicly that he never knew of any O'Hare gang tieup and was shocked to learn the slain man had any.

Under Judge Prystalski's ruling Holland may be questioned by the grand jury on the 12,634 dismissals of gambling cases he made in the Racket court, against 28 convictions. He has contended that he followed the law in his rulings.

MAYOR APPLAUDS QUICK SEIZURE OF 3 POLICE KILLERS

Singles Out Men on Case for Special Praise.

A policeman never sleeps when another policeman has been slain. Mayor Kelly recalled this tradition last night as he praised the skill and devotion to duty of the Chicago policemen who in less than 29 hours traced and captured the three hoodlums who killed Park Policeman Harry Francois in Humboldt park Monday night.

"The force did exceptionally fine work in solving the murder," said the mayor. "No one rested until the killers confessed. Their work shows that the Chicago force is constantly improving and that its members have minds, not just muscle.

Singles Out Policeman.

"Particular credit should go to Acting Captain Anthony T. McDonough of the North avenue station and the officers assigned to the case."

Here Mayor Kelly named Policemen Tom Green, John Minehan, Walter Thomas, Frank Murphy, Al Bruns, Kevin Ryan, Barney Reilly, William Larkin, and John Knowles of North avenue; Tim O'Connell and his detective bureau squad of William Witry, William Higgins, and Redmond Broderick; Sergt. Frederick Blank and Frank Goldwaite of the park police, and Detectives Edward Oates and Arvid Essen of New City station.

Francois, his gun still in its holster, was shot thru the heart in a lover's lane in Humboldt park. One of three hoodlums who were holding up a couple parked there fired the shot.

"Cop Hater" Admits Killing.

After the roundup of the gang Jerry Mangano, 22 years old, confessed he was the slayer. With him were Italo Begani, 17, who has a record as a juvenile thief, and Joseph Russano, 18, a boxer, who committed robberies between bouts. Mangano has been a "cop hater" since police shot and killed one of his pals, Dan Priori, while Priori, Mangano, and others were fleeing in a stolen car.

The first clew of the series that led the Francois murder investigators to the gang was a remark voiced in a tavern early Tuesday by Edward Skierka, 1811 North Sawyer avenue. Reading a newspaper account of the crime, Skierka said: "I'll bet I know who did that."

When police called on Skierka later he directed them to Miss Sally Zywicki, 21 years old, who lives in the same building. She said she and an unidentified companion were in the same section of Humboldt park Saturday night when a man leaped into their car.

She Recognizes Russano.

She recognized the man as "Dago" [Russano], who formerly lived near her home. Russano apparently recognized her also, for he said: "I won't hurt you. I just want to get out of here. Drive me to Division street."

Russano was arrested in his home at 811 North Francisco avenue. After trying to accuse several others, including a man who was in jail at the time of the murder, Russano supplied the names of Mangano and Begani. They were dragged out of bed, Mangano at 2216 Taylor street and Begani at 2501 Harrison street.

Mother Attempts Suicide.

While Mangano, with cold unconcern, was recounting the story of the crime to Assistant State's Attorney Blair Varnes in the Criminal Courts building yesterday, the slayer's mother, Mrs. Rose Mangano, attempted to commit suicide with a knife and a pair of shears outside Judge Joseph Drucker's courtroom. Walter Kozak, an investigator, and her daughter, Marie, 22, restrained her.

Later mother and son met, and as Mrs. Mangano cried "Jerry, my boy, my boy," Mangano glanced at her, then turned away. The father, James, is a WPA worker.

Identified by Witnesses.

Mangano, Begani, and Russano were identified by Theodore Nelson, 50, of 3331 Fulton boulevard, and Mrs. Ruth Tessmer, 37, of 4255 Monticello avenue, as the hoodlums who tried to force them out of their car in the park before Policeman Francois and his partner, Sergt. Blank, drove up.

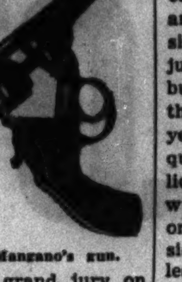
The prisoners were taken to the park to show how the crime was committed. Mangano said the gang got its guns from Alex Hujer, 21, in the latter's home at 1110 Wolcott avenue, last Saturday. Hujer was arrested.

Services for Policeman Francois will be held at 2 p. m. tomorrow in the chapel at 3337 North avenue. Francois was 37 years old, and lived at 4935 Melrose street. His widow, Nellie, and two children, Barbara, 4, and Donald, 2, survive.

Records of Three Held in Slaying of Park Policeman

Following are the records of the three hoodlums who are held for the slaying of Park Policeman Harry Francois in Humboldt park Monday night:

JERRY MANGANO, 22 years old, who admitted slaying Policeman Francois, was arrested at least six times in his 'teens for petty thefts. In 1935 he was seized in a stolen car during a police chase in which a companion, Dan Priori, was slain. He was placed on probation for one year. On Oct. 28, 1936, he was held to the grand jury on three charges of larceny. On Jan. 27, 1937, Judge Rudolph Desort sentenced him to the Bridewell for two years. He was released on Nov. 2, 1938, with time off for good behavior. He has been living since then with his mother, Mrs. Rose Mangano, at 2216 Taylor street.



Mangano's gun.

JOSEPH RUSSANO, 18, professional boxer and robber, whose arrest led to the solution of Policeman Francois' murder, was arrested at least six times as a juvenile for petty burglaries and thefts. Three years ago he was questioned by police in connection with burglaries on the northwest side, but was released.

On the spare tire cover of Russano's car are printed the words: "Joseph Russano, contender for the lightweight championship of the world." His home is at 811 North Francisco avenue.

Russano's gun.

ITALO BEGANI, the youngest member of the gang held for the murder of Policeman Francois, is 17 years old. Police say that he has been arrested as a juvenile offender five times, mostly for small thefts.

He was graduated from Crane Technical High school last June, he told police, after taking a two year course. Since then he has not worked. During the questioning by police and later by Assistant State's Attorney Varnes, he giggled frequently. When police attempted to arrest him in his home at 2501 West Harrison street he fought with them.

THREE ARRESTED IN FIRE PERILING FAMILIES ASLEEP

Shop Owner Confesses Incendiary Deal.

Three men were either in custody or out on bond, and a fourth was being sought by police last night as the climax of a quiet investigation of a fire early Sunday in the M. & I. Produce company, a market and delicatessen at 4635-37 Broadway.

Had the fire gained headway it would have periled several families living in flats above the market. The quick arrival of firemen averted tragedy, while at the same it revealed that the fire was deliberately set.

Shop Soaked with Gasoline.

The blaze was a "flash fire," with flames appearing in several locations in the shop, which had been liberally soaked with gasoline. Even the fruits and vegetables had been sprinkled, and there were wads of paper, also drenched with gasoline, in the corners.

Earl Downes, assistant corporation counsel assigned to fire investigation, established these facts and then called in the state's attorney's office. Assistant State's Attorney Julius Sherwin was assigned to coöperate with Downes.

Morris Ratner, 53 years old, 4643 North Central Park avenue, owner of the market, was the first man seized. He was charged with arson. Sherwin said Ratner told him he was having trouble with a union that was seeking to organize his clerks. He decided to close the market. But a friend to whom he appealed for aid in his labor difficulties advised him to have a "touchoff," an incendiary fire.

Fourth Man Sought.

"It'll cost you $1,000. You have $4,000 insurance. I'll get a couple of torches [men to light the fire] from St. Louis," Ratner quoted this friend as saying. Police have this man's name and address. A message ordering his arrest was sent to all stations last night.

According to Sherwin, the men who set the fire, however, were Phillip Greenberg and his brother, Abe Greenberg, a west side bookmaker. Phillip Greenberg has a record as an arsonist. Detectives Allen Mulvey, William Taub, and Charles Dalton of the Fillmore street station traced Abe Greenberg thru clews obtained from sheet writers in his handbook. The brothers were arrested and were reported still in custody last night, while Ratner has been released in $2,500 bond.

NAMED AS KIDNAPER, HE KILLS SELF IN HOTEL BARRICADE

Topeka, Kas., Nov. 22 [Special].—Accused as a kidnaper by a Davenport, Ia., automobile salesman, a man identified tentatively as A. L. Morford of Vernon, Tex., shot and fatally wounded himself tonight in his barricaded room in a Topeka hotel. He shot himself after police had forced tear gas into the room.

The salesman, Floyd C. Wadden, 30 years old, said he was abducted in his car yesterday and forced to accompany Morford on a 540 mile drive to Topeka. On the way, Wadden said, Morford held up two gasoline filling stations. Wadden was ordered held by Chief of Police Charles D. McKnaught while his story was investigated.

Morford, about 28 years old, carried papers indicating he was a butcher and had a father, F. M. Morford, in Aledo, Ill. He carried a bag of butcher's knives and equipment. McKnaught said both papers and equipment, however, might have been stolen.

"I had to do it; I've got too much behind me," Morford gasped on the way to a hospital, where he died.

LEADERS PRAISE WOMEN JURORS IN RUSSELL CASE

Lauded for Conduct in Inflicting Death Penalty.

Leaders in the campaign to make women eligible for jury service were exultant last night at the conduct of the seven women on the jury that convicted Jack Russell, kidnap slayer, early yesterday and fixed his punishment at death in the electric chair. It was the first time that a mixed jury in Cook county had been called on to inflict the death penalty.

Federal Judge Charles E. Woodward, who presided over the trial, praised the jurors for their diligence, fidelity, and patience. High praise for the women jurors also came from their foreman, William F. Fitzgerald, 5832 North Kilbourn avenue.

Debate for 8 Hours.

The jurors reached their verdict at 6:51 a. m., after eight hours of debate, convicting Russell as the kidnap-murderer of William Scott Hamilton, a Kansas salesman. Seven ballots were taken. On the sixth ballot, Fitzgerald said, the vote was 11 to 1 for death in the chair, with a man holding out for a verdict of guilty without recommendation on the penalty. The jury was unanimous on the next ballot.

Three weeks ago, the first trial before a mixed jury in federal court was declared a mistrial because Mrs. Katherine Merrifield, one of the jurors, renounced the verdict after she had signed it. The case provoked comment on the wisdom of the law permitting women to serve on juries.

"The verdict in the Russell case shows that women will be just as good jurors as men," said Miss Matilda Fenberg, chairman of the Illinois Committee for Women on Juries. "It shows that they won't let their emotions run away with them when they are called upon to judge facts."

Other Women Comment.

Other comments from prominent women were:

MRS. WILLIAM S. HEFFERAN, member of the board of education—"I am much pleased with the verdict. It shows that women are no more emotional, no more hysterical than men."

MRS. GEORGE G. BOGERT, president of the Illinois League of Women Voters—"I'm very proud of that jury. It showed that women jurors aren't going to shy away from the death penalty when the facts justify such a verdict."

MRS. WILLIAM M. BRYANT, president of the Cook County League of Women Voters—"The verdict shows that women can think for themselves, and that they have the endurance necessary for jury service. They spent a whole night in the jury room. There was no fainting or hysterics."

MRS. RENA ELROD, former state representative—"I'm delighted with the verdict and the conduct of the women jurors. They showed that hard facts, not emotions, will guide them."

MRS. JAMES WARD THORNE—"The verdict shows women are capable of deciding difficult cases. We need the woman's point of view on juries."

Lindbergh Law Applied.

Russell was found guilty under the Lindbergh law. He had escaped from the Oklahoma state penitentiary at McAlister, where he was serving a 10 year term for robbery and then, after a foray of crime, he kidnaped Hamilton. He forced Hamilton to drive him to Chicago, then shot him to death near Ringwood, in McHenry county, on July 14. Russell maintained that Hamilton was shot accidentally while struggling for possession of the outlaw's gun.

Russell's attorney, Don D. Rogers, will argue a motion for a new trial on Wednesday. If a new trial is denied, he will appeal the case, the attorney said. The date for Russell's execution will not be set until after Judge Woodward has ruled on the motion for a new trial and fixed a time limit for an appeal. The execution would be carried out in the county jail.

WOMAN, 42, DIES OF BURNS.

Mrs. Rose DeMichael, 42 years old, 624 North May street, died in County hospital yesterday of burns suffered in her home on Sunday.

. . . and on that day, which was Thanksgiving Day, the people of all Chicagoland gathered in pleasant groups everywhere to give reverent thanks, to tell of their gratitude that America, great generous land of liberty and plenty, was at peace. . .

Countess Haugwitz-Reventlow.

Franklyn Hutton.

Mrs. Hutton.

New York, Nov. 22 (AP).—Countess Barbara Haugwitz-Reventlow, Woolworth heiress, who herself has experienced two marital shipwrecks, was credited by friends today with effecting a reconciliation between her father and stepmother.

With her son, Lance, 3½ years old, the countess returned from Europe in October three days after her father, Franklyn L. Hutton, advertised he was thru paying bills for his wife, the former Irene Curley Bodde of Detroit.

Hutton then sought the seclusion of his plantation on Yonges Island, S. C. Barbara, who is separated from Count Kurt Haugwitz-Reventlow, and her child remained here, frequently visiting her stepmother in the Hutton home.

Indication that these visits had a pacific purpose was seen when Hutton returned here yesterday and, after a talk with his daughter, telephoned his estranged wife and sent her flowers. In a newspaper advertisment this morning he stated that the notice published over his name a month ago was in error. "I hereby withdraw it," he added.

REPORT JURORS WANT AN INQUIRY ON VOTE FRAUDS

The November grand jury, it was reported yesterday, is considering asking Chief Justice John Prystalski of the Criminal court to impanel a special grand jury to make a thoro and complete investigation of vote frauds and place responsibility.

Maj. Philip Crippen, director of personnel for the police department, was questioned for 40 minutes yesterday after the jurors asked the assistant state's attorney in charge of jury evidence to leave the room. Previously the jury had obtained a copy of the report made by the last grand jury in which the police department was criticized for not reporting election violations. It was believed the jurors wanted to learn from Maj. Crippen the election duties of policemen.

FIND WHOLESALE VOTE TAMPERING IN APRIL ELECTION

Frauds Aided Democrats, Probers Discover.

James Connery, head of the vote fraud investigation ordered by County Judge Edmund K. Jarecki, said yesterday that ballot tampering had been disclosed in a partial examination of the mayoralty vote last April 4. About 330 precinct ballot boxes—less than 10 per cent of the city total—have been examined since Nov. 6, when Judge Jarecki directed that the hunt for fraud be made.

"We have only scratched the surface," Connery asserted, "but we have found evidence of fraud in almost every box opened. The illegal count uncovered ranges as high as 80 ballots per box and, almost without exception, benefited the Democratic candidates.

Many Erasures Found.

"In other words, we found many instances where crosses in front of Republican names had been erased and other crosses made in front of the Democrats. We also found ballot after ballot on which there were no crosses, yet the Democratic total shown on the tally sheets included these unmarked ballots."

On the basis of these discoveries, 25 suits charging fraud have been filed in the County court against precinct election officials, who are liable to imprisonment for contempt of court.

Much Time Required.

"This work takes more time than a mere recount of ballots," Connery explained. "In a recount we look only for the crosses. This investigation requires that we study the whole ballot carefully for erasures and other evidences of fraud. The mayoralty was the easiest election to examine first because it was the smallest ballot."

The precincts examined thus far were in the following wards: 1st, 4th, 5th, 11th, 13th, 20th, 22d, 25th, 28th, 36th, and 42d.

One of the investigators said the inquiry would extend into some wards "which have been regarded as highly respectable."

Regardless of whether the inquiry shows a vastly different vote than was announced after the April election, one official at the election commission office said the defeated Republican candidates would have no recourse under law, inasmuch as they did not file an election contest. The period for filing such a contest expires 30 days after the election.

To Order Recounts.

At the request of the Better Government association, Judge Jarecki said yesterday he would order a recount in certain precincts of the 43d ward, seeking evidence of fraud in the Waller-Bauler aldermanic contest last spring. Mathias Bauler was declared elected over former Ald. James B. Waller by only a few hundred votes, but the city council refused to order a recount.

F. W. Blaisdell, executive director of the Better Government association, wrote Judge Jarecki that while he believed a complete recount should be made in the 43d ward, particular attention should be given to precincts 1 to 8, and to the following precincts, 22, 23, 27, 29, 30, and 32.

ADVERTISE IN THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE

MAYOR PROPOSES PLAN TO UNSNARL TRACTION TANGLE

7 Cent Fares, Universal Transfers Retained.

Mayor Kelly yesterday submitted to the federal court a compromise plan for unification of the surface, elevated, and bus lines. The plan includes several concessions from the city's previous demands.

The mayor's action came at a time when the transit negotiations were deadlocked and the negotiators had informed the court it was useless to continue discussions.

Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson, who has jurisdiction over the surface and elevated lines, said Mayor Kelly's proposal had averted a court sale of the properties which the court was preparing to auction off separately after breakdown of the negotiations. Instead, Judge Wilkerson called for a hearing Tuesday when the companies will be asked whether they will accept the mayor's plan.

Retain 7 Cent Fare.

High point of the mayor's proposal is retention of the present street car fare of 7 cents for three years, after which the unified system could petition to the Chicago transit commission for a higher fare if insufficient earnings justified the request. This was one of the points on which the discussions split, the city demanding retention of the present fare and the companies insisting on an 8 cent fare.

Other disputed points on which concessions were offered by the mayor covered the following subjects: Use of the companies' cash funds for modernization of the lines, payment of compensation to the city for use of the streets, pension payments to employés, and the matter of interest rates on the proposed new company's bonds.

Besides standing pat for at least three years on the 7 cent fare, the mayor also stuck to the demand that the $8,790,000 cost of equipping the subway system, now being dug, must be paid by the companies. The companies want the city to foot this bill out of the city traction fund.

Details of Proposals.

In detail, the concessions proposed by Mayor Kelly are:

1. MODERNIZATION. That the new unified company use only $20,000,000 of the $30,000,000 in cash now held by the lines to help finance a $60,000,000 improvement program. He suggested that the rest of the cash be obtained by borrowing. This would leave the new company with cash of $10,000,000 as a reserve to guarantee interest payments on its first mortgage bonds. Previously the city had asked that the entire $30,000,000 be used at once for modernization.

2. COMPENSATION. That the city's request for cash compensation for use of the streets be halved for the first three years. He suggested that for these three years the company pay 1½ per cent of its gross revenues to the city, with the other half of the 3 per cent rate accruing as a future obligation.

3. PENSIONS. That the new company have two years to establish a permanent pension plan for employés. In the interim, he suggested a temporary pension plan that would provide payments to employés who are eligible to retire and request retirement. The city had demanded inclusion of a pension plan in the ordinance.

4. BOND INTEREST. That the first mortgage bonds carry an interest rate of 4 per cent. However, he said the city would permit a rate of 5 per cent on condition that the franchise give the city the right to order refunding [exchange] of the issue into lower interest bearing bonds at any time the city thought the money market would warrant such a refunding. Previously the city had demanded a flat rate of 4 per cent; the companies demanded 5 per cent.

Plan Universal Transfers.

Under the plan a new company, to be known as the Chicago Transit company, would acquire and operate all existing transit facilities and would operate the city owned subway. It would be given a franchise that could be terminated at any time the company defaulted on its obligations under the franchise. The system would grant universal transfers [transfers acceptable on bus, elevated, subway, or street car lines].

"Concessions are required by all interested groups," the mayor told the court. "This is necessary to establish a modern transportation system for Chicago. The lines' negotiators should concede something by recommending to the security holders that they invest capital as a 'reasonable business risk.' The car riders must agree to pay the required rate of fare for good service, if and when the need of the fare is proved. The employés should make the concession of accepting a temporary pension plan.

"If the city is willing to forego part of its compensation and the payment of certain other charges; if it is willing to grant a valuable long term franchise in the form of a permit terminable only by purchase in order to establish the company on a sound and firm credit basis, isn't it to the advantage of the security holders to recognize the fact that their capital assets will be seriously endangered by continuing to maintain their present unsatisfactory operation?"

TRAIL 3 JOLIET JAIL BREAKERS; KILL ORDER OUT

Police Chief Nicholas Fornango of Joliet, directing a search yesterday for three prisoners who escaped from the Will county jail early in the morning, ordered his men to "shoot to kill" if the fugitives resist arrest. He said he feared the fugitives are "out to set a new high in their crimes."

Those sought are Herman Valentino, 19; Steve Jasurda, 22, and Walter Gajczak, 24. All have long police records and were being held in connection with a $700 safe robbery.

A car stolen from a parking lot at the rear of the jail in Joliet was found three miles northeast of the city. This is near the former homes of the fugitives. Relatives denied they had seen the trio. Frank Galli, 25 years old, who frequently visited the men in jail, was being held.

Sheriff James O'Neill was investigating to learn how the prisoners obtained a metal saw by which they escaped. They were alone on the top floor. After sawing off their cell door they cut thru the metal roof of the jail and climbed down 40 feet to the ground.

FAIRBANKS, Alaska, Nov. 22 (AP).—Norris Johnson, one of Alaska's ace commercial flyers, died today in a crash landing half a mile south of the airport. He apparently was blinded by a snowstorm and thought he was over the landing field. Johnson came here several years ago from Virginia, Minn.

KUHN'S LETTERS TO GOLDEN ANGEL BARED IN COURT

cause you can imagine how much I am interested."

"They are terrible after me. I am the public anemi number 1. I wish you would be here—they are driving me crazy—you know I start to think these Jews are beginning to be afraid of me."

"I wish realy you were here—I am so lonesome—my thoughts are with you all the time—I love you so much—so much my darling, you're my soul, my wife and my everything." [He thanked her at length for her letters.]

Thanks Her for Present.

"And now my dearest Florence let me thank you again and again for your wonderful birthday present. This watch is on my wrist and reminds me every time I looked at the time how wonderful you are—I have no words—I just cried as I got it. Thank you, my darling, thanks you. You would be surprised how much I would kiss you if I had you here." [Then he added that he was sending a vase to her.]

"You darling I close now—again I thank you for everything and I love you very very much. I kiss you until you tell me to stop. I kiss your hands and everything. I am so lonesome and I tried to call you—so I called your brother's office. I want to hear your voice. You my golden angel—take good care of you until I be able to take the job over. All my love and kisses. Always your Fritz."

Third Letter Sent in June.

The third letter, dated June 13, 1938, likewise was addressed to Mrs. Camp at West Los Angeles. It began:

"My dearest sweetheart:

"I just finished talking to you. It was so helpful to hear your voice, your voice which told me you love me—O, I thank you so much and I try always to be worth it."

Here are other parts of the letter:

"Darling sweetheart, you mean to much to me and we never could forgive ourself if something would happen."

"You know, darling, the whole thing [her divorce] is going so smooth—everything comes our way—that some times I getting a little afraid something may show up and I can be happy, so real happy only then, when you here with me. You understand me, my darling, don't you? I am loving you so much that I sometimes don't know what to do. You be very careful won't you darling?"

Here Kuhn declared that he had just braved a mob in order to address a meeting in Schenectady. He wrote: "The CIO, the Jews, and the communists had a meeting and decided that Kuhn can't come to Schenectady and if he comes they will try to kill him." Kuhn informed Mrs. Camp that as he approached the gathering a shot was fired thru the top of his car.

"You know I believe a little bit in astrologie," he wrote, "so I look your and mine horoskop up and found very interesting things. You know about my theorie of waves—after all I discovered some of it and I have talked to you about these things quite a lot.

Kuhn Proposes Trip to Reno.

"You should not start anything before June 25 after that and special July and August you have a very very good time—whatever you do in this period turns out to be very good and successful. In September for both of us will be a big change in life, that means that we getting married.

"Now, darling, please understand me right. I am loving you with my whole soul and body and it is an absolut fact, that I could not and I would not live without you—life wouldn't mean anything to me without you."

Then Kuhn proposed that he drive to Los Angeles and take his "beloved angel" to Reno, Nev., go back to Detroit, Mich., to have his teeth fixed, and return to Reno to pick her up.

"What does your family say that you are going to marry public enemy No. 1, as the Jewish paper called me again today?" he continued.

"You are my Golden Angel and I thank my stars every day that I found you. I know you came from heaven and I never will forget it.

"You are my precious diamond. I love you so much, God bless you, my life, my everything. I am kissing you and take you in my arms. Always yours forever. FRITZ."

BOY, 16, ADMITS STARTING FIRES TO STEAL PURSES

A Highland Park high school boy confessed yesterday that he started fires on his paper route to attract crowds. Then, he said, he took advantage of the ensuing excitement to steal purses.

The boy is Robert Bergfalk, 15 years old, living at 699 Deerfield avenue in the suburb. Chief Emmett Moroney of the Highland Park police told his men to be especially vigilant in the late afternoons because the fires always occurred about 5 p. m. When the police noticed Bergfalk with a woman's purse, they halted him. He confessed to the chief and Deputy State Fire Marshal Frank Doherty.

GERMAN POLICE REVEAL 4 PLOTS ON HITLER'S LIFE

Strasser Blamed for All Murder Attempts.

refused to disclose the charges against the youth.

The secret police also published a letter which they said was written by Strasser. The persons mentioned in it were described by numbers. The police said the letter implicated a Count Karolyi of Hungary, Herr Spiecker, a former German Catholic leader, Willi Munzenberg, a communist, and a Frenchman.

"There never was a more sinister criminal than Strasser—a brother of Gregor Strasser, former aid of Hitler, who was executed in the June blood purge in 1934—the statement continued.

The police accused him of first having been a tool of the Czech government. After Germany absorbed Czecho-Slovakia he was said to have worked in behalf of the British intelligence service.

Strasser has been waging a violent fight against Hitler and his associates for years. He frequently has said he would avenge the death of his brother.

Break "Radio Relations."

The secret police reported they had broken off "direct radio relations" with British intelligence service headquarters in London.

Discontinuation of this service after 21 days, in which the Germans claimed they tricked the British into thinking they were in direct contact with revolutionary elements in Germany, was accomplished by sending the following message:

"Communication for any length of time with conceited, foolish peoples is dull. You will understand, therefore, that we are giving it up. You are hereby heartily greeted by your affectionate 'German opposition.' The German Gestapo [secret police]."

The Germans said that British operators, named Inman and Walsh, "honestly but stupidly" radioed back the usual acknowledgment of the receipt of the message. German secret agents, it was said, had provided the British with a portable radio receiver and sending set.

The wireless set, the German police said, "was not so good." It was so bad, they asserted, "it was only when improved with good German amplifiers that the desired wireless communication could be carried thru."

German officials disclosed more details about the two British secret agents who were seized on Dutch soil on Nov. 9, the day after the Munich explosion.

Studied at Heidelberg.

Capt. Stevens, who is 46 years old, spent most of his life in India. He studied at Heidelberg for two years during his youth. Best, 54 years old, was a British intelligence officer during and since the world war. Best is married to a Netherlands painter.

German authorities have declined to answer a barrage of questions concerning evidence of the connection between Elser and the two Englishmen.

One of the questions asked in Berlin was: "If the Germans had information of British plans thru the secret radio why was it not possible to prevent the explosion which cost eight lives?"

These and similar questions, the Germans said, will be answered by Reinhard Heydrich, Himmler's right hand man, in the course of the week.

Dutch Protest to Berlin.

The Netherlands government has protested against what it describes as the kidnaping of Capt. Stevens, Best, and a Netherlander which it declared took place in Holland and was carried out by German agents.

[The Netherlands reported that on Nov. 9 occupants of a German automobile alighted, crossed the border on foot and engaged in a shooting with occupants of a Netherlands car near the border at Venloo. One report said two persons were killed. All accounts agreed that several occupants of the Netherlands car were carried into Germany.]

German officials said Stevens and Best would not be released under any circumstances "because they are much too important."

Another official declared: "If the Dutch fuss too much about this alleged violation of their territory, which still is being investigated, we shall protest against the fact that the Dutch allowed British secret service officers to operate in Holland."

Strasser Denies Part in Plot.

PARIS, Nov. 22.—Otto Strasser, leader of the anti-Hitler Black Front, denied today that he knew or had ever heard of Georg Elser, who is said by German authorities to have confessed the attempted assassination of Fuehrer Hitler in the Munich beer hall. Elser's alleged British accomplices, Sigismund Payne Best and Capt. Richard Henry Stevens, also are strangers to him, he added.

"Elser will be made into a second Van der Lubbe," Strasser said, referring to the Dutchman beheaded on charges of setting fire to the reichstag in 1933.

The interview took place in Strasser's room in a small student hotel here, where he has been living since he fled Switzerland last week to avoid extradition to Germany.

"If I were working hand in hand with the British intelligence service, as Heinrich Himmler [chief of all German police] would have his fellow party followers believe," Strasser said, "you would perhaps find me in more luxurious surroundings."

Accuses Nazi Police Head.

Strasser, who is 42 years old, and cannot smoke or drink because he still suffers from world war wounds, has the appearance of a prosperous country grocer.

"The Munich explosion is the work of the Gestapo [German secret police]," he said. "There is no question of anything else. Himmler wants to kill two birds with one stone—namely, get at his domestic opposition, as represented by my Black Front, and at his pet hate, England.

"Hitler will disappear one day, probably by the work of my Black Front, and we will not be ashamed to admit it. So you can accept my word we have had nothing to do with this 100 per cent Gestapo job."

Strasser predicted that Hitlerism will crumple by next spring and that a new Germany will arise. He sees himself as a leader of this new Germany, in which authority will be equally divided among workers, youths, and the army.

"We already have selected the general who will be at the head of the army," Strasser said.

Charged with German Plots

ACCUSED AT DIES HEARING; DENIES LINK WITH NAZIS

Harry A. Jung, honorary general manager of the American Vigilant Intelligence federation, which has headquarters in Chicago, last night made public a denial he had sent to Chairman Martin Dies of the congressional committee investigating un-American activities that he had ever had any connection with Nazi organizations.

"I have steadfastly refused to have anything to do with any Nazi organizations," Jung said in his statement to Dies. "We have had no contact whatsoever with the bund [Ficte bund, a Nazi propaganda agency in Hamburg, Germany]. Yet you place an entirely unjustifiable inference at our door, that we are antiracialists."

Jung's denial was occasioned by letters introduced before the Dies committee on Oct. 21. In one of them Dr. Anna Bogenholm Sloane of New York City, writing to Oscar C. Pfaus of the Ficte bund, spoke of a proposed newspaper to be devoted to "recovering our country from the Jews." She expressed the hope that Jung would be among the editors. He said he had never had any communication with her.

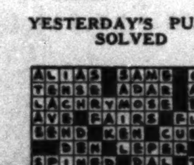
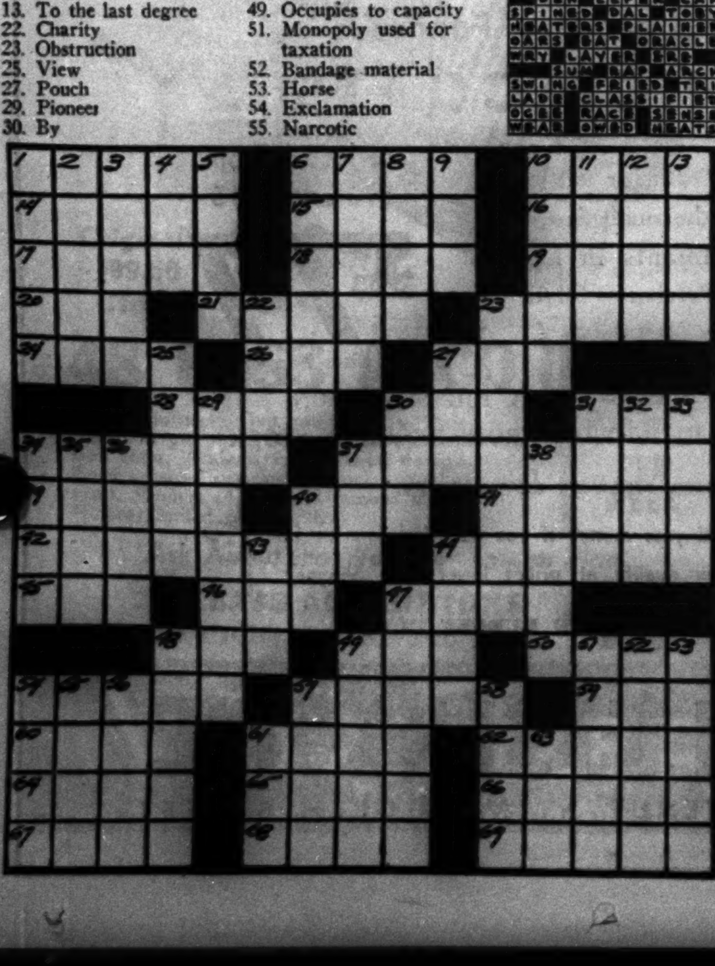
YESTERDAY'S PUZZLE SOLVED





BELGIANS, DUTCH TO PROTEST BAN ON NAZI EXPORTS

Britain's Extension of Blockade Assailed.

BY LARRY RUE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BRUSSELS, Belgium, Nov. 22.—Belgium and the Netherlands tonight were awaiting formal notice of the new British blockade policy preliminary to lodging a vigorous protest. Since the low countries will be the first and most severely hit by the extension of the blockade to include exports from Germany, a common front was discussed at a conference of economic ministers at The Hague, The Netherlands, today.

Neutral Europe believes that the British action, taken in reprisal for the alleged German mining of the English channel, was too hasty. As far as the neutral opinion is concerned, it has not yet been established whose mines have blown up so many ships in the last five days.

Antwerp Hard Hit.

The effect of the blockade against incoming cargoes already has cut maritime activity at Antwerp more than half. Antwerp is continental Europe's most active port. Outgoing cargoes normally are made up of two-thirds Belgian goods and one-third transit goods. Most of the latter, of course, are German.

The contention here is that the cargoes, the moment they are loaded on neutral ships, become the property of those to whom they are consigned.

Since the destruction of the Simon Bolivar, a Dutch steamer sunk by a mine with a loss of 82 lives on Saturday, the Dutch government has forbidden all ships to leave Netherlands ports. A new system for sending ships out in groups, preceded by tugs towing mine-sweeping apparatus, may permit early relaxation of the ban.

Press Attacks Blockade.

Dutch newspapers unanimously attacked the British decree against German exports.

The Socialist paper Het Volk, which has shown a friendly attitude toward Great Britain, said: "Without any trace of proof Prime Minister Chamberlain asserts that the mines are German. Neutral countries are seriously disturbed by violation of international law by laying of the mines. What is Chamberlain doing? He is answering by new violations of international law."

'PIRACY,' GERMANS SAY

BERLIN, Nov. 22 (AP).—Germans today challenged a British declaration that the German submarine weapon had been foiled and served notice that Britain's unrestricted blockade of German exports would bring swift retaliation.

D. N. B., official news agency, asserted that 11 commercial ships, eight of them British, had failed to reach British ports during the two weeks since Britain's first lord of the admiralty, Winston Churchill, on Nov. 8 proclaimed the undersea raiders beaten.

Three English fish cutters and the 5,000 ton freignter Arlington Court have been torpedoed by German submarines, the agency said, and three others attacked, two in the Atlantic and one off Iceland. D.N.B. failed to name the eighth British ship or the non-British craft involved.

"New Form of Piracy."

Authorized sources described Britain's announcement yesterday of an intensified blockade against Germany as "a clumsy attempt to give the cloak of morality to a new form of piracy whereby neutral shipping will be endangered and vital neutral interests hit."

They declared there would be immediate German countermeasures, but declined to say what form they might take. German authorities justified their conduct of sea warfare by saying the British paved the way by putting shipping lanes under military protection and introducing the warship convoy system.

As a result of British action, they asserted that "in shipping to England, trade routes no longer exist."

"The English cannot allege that under the Hague agreement [of 1907] the laying of mines before enemy coasts and harbors is forbidden," the authorities said.

"This is banned only if the purpose is crippling commercial trade. The English themselves are to blame if on trade routes and before her coasts the constant presence of British warships is to be reckoned with, against which the use of mines is permissible."

"Almost Perfect"

[Acme Photo.]

REVEALS BRITISH AIRCRAFT VESSEL WAS NEAR FINISH

New York, Nov. 22 (AP).—Sir Derwent-Hall Caine, former member of England's parliament and adviser to the late British prime minister, J. Ramsay MacDonald, said today the British aircraft carrier Ark Royal was saved by a "miracle" on Sept. 26 when a 500 pound bomb from a German plane heeled it over. Caine spoke to the Overseas Press club. [The Germans have claimed the vessel was sunk; the British have denied it.]

Caine based his information, he said, on a letter from an unnamed Ark Royal officer. He quoted as the officer's account:

"We were steaming along very slowly with four other ships escorting a disabled submarine back to port. Six German bombers appeared overhead, dropping bombs all around us. One of the machines swooped down in a power dive, over 400 miles an hour, straight at our deck. When he was just off the deck he dropped a 500 pound bomb. It fell in the water only a few feet from the ship. The ship heeled over and the port side of the flying deck went awash. Then the miracle happened. The ship righted itself and came back to even keel."

RUMANIA DENIES NAZI REQUEST; CABINET RESIGNS

BUCHAREST, Nov. 23, Thursday (AP).—The Rumanian government headed by Premier Constantine Argetoianu resigned today. The government was formed Sept. 21.

The resignation followed closely upon Rumania's refusal to grant an increase of nearly 50 per cent in the exchange rate of the German mark—a blow at German hopes for greater trade with this country.

What, if any, connection there was between the two developments was not at once apparent.

A German economic mission, having failed to get the rate raised from 41.5 Rumanian lei to 60 lei for each mark, left for Berlin by air last night.

[In terms of American money, such a change would have raised the mark's purchasing power in Rumania from 30.3 cents to 43.8 cents.]

Rumania also declined to furnish tank cars which Germany would need in buying Rumanian petroleum, but did agree to lift an embargo on the export of oil-bearing seeds to Germany.

SIXTH OF CITY'S FIRE APPARATUS FIGHTS 2 BLAZES

Church Hall Is Damaged; Street Cars Delayed.

Fire swept thru the third floor of the athenaeum of St. Alphonsus Roman Catholic church, Wellington, Southport, and Lincoln avenues early today. While firemen who had responded to a 5-11 alarm were using some fifty pieces of apparatus to fight this blaze, a special alarm was sounded calling some twenty more pieces of apparatus to a fire in a basket factory at Milwaukee avenue and Morgan street. Approximately one-sixth of Chicago's fire apparatus was fighting the two fires.

Fire Restricted to One Floor.

Fire department heads said the athenaeum blaze was under control at 5 a. m. The flames had been restricted to the front portion of the third floor, housing a music room and rooms for Boy Scout troops and Cub Scout packs. A 24 inch fire wall protected the auditorium, west of the burning portion of the building. Fire department officials said the church, the living quarters for priests and for nuns, and other structures appeared to be in no danger.

First Deputy Fire Marshal Anthony J. Mullaney estimated the damage at $75,000. Fire Marshal Michael J. Corrigan directed the firefighters.

The athenaeum was built in 1912 at a cost of $475,000. The Rev. F. J. Fagen is pastor of St. Alphonsus, and the Rev. Nicholas Oehm is in charge of the athenaeum.

Street Cars Delayed.

The athenaeum fire halted street car traffic in Southport and Lincoln avenues until the cars could be rerouted. The basket factory fire similarly affected Milwaukee avenue surface cars.

The second fire virtually destroyed a three story wooden structure at 713-717 Milwaukee avenue housing the Raedlein Basket company, a delicatessen, a barber shop, and a rear wooden building used only by the basket company. Chief Joseph Graham of the fire prevention bureau, who directed the firemen there, estimated the loss at $15,000.

Hero with a Khaki Skin Leads New Zealanders

LONDON, Nov. 22 (AP).—King George VI. of Great Britain today approved appointment of Maj. Gen. B. C. Freyburg as commander of the New Zealand overseas forces. In the world war Freyburg, taking part in Britain's Dardanelles campaign, painted his skin khaki and swam half a mile from a destroyer to the Turkish shore. He carried flares and these attracted the attention of the Turks while British troops landed at other points.

CLIFFORD E. BEACH DIES.

Gilman, Ill., Nov. 22 [Special].—Funeral services for Clifford E. Beach, 73 years old, former mayor of Paxton and widely known criminal lawyer in central Illinois, were held here today. He died yesterday. He was a graduate of the Grand Prairie seminary and Wesley law school.

Dies During Test Preceding Cold Treatment for Cancer

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 22 (AP).—Mrs. Rufus Nugent, 30 years old, died in the refrigeration chamber at Queen of Angels hospital today while undergoing a test to determine whether her heart could withstand the five day treatment recently developed by scientists in the fight against cancer. Mrs. Nugent was one of the first patients on the Pacific coast to undergo the ice pack technique thru which the body temperature is reduced more than eight degrees below normal.

WARSHIP IS SUNK BY MINE; 40 LOST; DOWN 12 PLANES

2 U-Boats, 2 Freighters Sent to Bottom.

Shelling began after the vessel failed to respond to four warning shots across its bow. Fourteen shells set the ship afire, after which it grounded on the rocks and split in two before going down.

The destruction of twelve planes made the day notable in aerial activity.

Flyers Down 7 German Craft.

According to British reports, eight German planes were shot down on the western front, seven by aviators and the eighth by antiaircraft guns. In attaining this success the French lost two planes, the British none, it was added.

A German bomber was reported to have fallen in flames near Thourout, in western Flanders, Belgium, killing three of the crew. The pilot saved himself by using his parachute. The plane was wrecked. It apparently had been damaged in battle over France.

Raider Downed off England.

A German plane was shot down off the southeast coast of England, and a companion plane was driven off. It was the fourth reconnaissance flight of the Germans in this district in three days. The air raid alarm that warned the district lasted 30 minutes. Residents of Essex could hear the machinegunning of the above-the-clouds battle.

In an earlier raid today the Germans were driven from the Thames estuary by fighter planes and antiaircraft guns.

Germans Raid Shetland Isles.

In another action, German bombers set a seaplane afire in a raid on the Shetland Islands, which lie north of Scotland and beyond the Orkney islands. The air ministry's communique on the raid said:

"An air raid warning was sounded in the Shetlands this morning. An unsuccessful attack was made on shipping in this area. The attack was driven off by antiaircraft fire. The enemy then attacked with bombs a Royal Air Force seaplane lying at moorings and set it on fire. We suffered no casualties."

Six planes were reported to have been in the German squadron which carried out the raid.

British reconnaissance planes were said to have flown over the German cities of Stuttgart, Frankfort, Hamburg, and Bremen on Monday and Tuesday.

Front Quiet, Paris Reports.

PARIS, Nov. 22 (AP).—The waiting war on the western front settled back into routine, the French general staff indicated today.

[A dispatch from Berlin stated German artillery dispersed French infantry advancing north of Grindorff, south of Merzig, on the northern flank of the western front. French troops are said to have advanced to the edge of a forest south of the Kitzing-Manderen road in the same sector. French artillery generally was reported active about Perl, near Luxemburg.]

RAILROAD FLAGMAN KILLED.

Rochester, Ind., Nov. 22 [Special].—Louis Walters, 52, of Fort Wayne, Nickel Plate railroad flagman, was killed last night while switching freight cars in the yards at Akron, 10 miles north of here.

JAPAN WILL PROTEST LINER SINKING AFTER FIXING RESPONSIBILITY

TOKIO, Nov. 22.—Japan feels grave concern over the sinking of the Japanese liner Terukuni Maru by a mine off the east coast of England and will file a protest and compensation claims when responsibility is fixed, the foreign office said today.

Every Tokio newspaper tonight quotes The Hague convention of 1907 and emphasizes clauses prohibiting the use of unmoored mines and requiring belligerents to notify neutrals of the locations of mined areas. Regardless of the type that destroyed the Terukuni Maru, Japan insists it was not notified of the existence of a mine where the liner met disaster. The press accepts the fact that the liner carried a British pilot as evidence that the mine was not British.

POLISH REGIME SETS UP CAPITAL IN FRENCH TOWN

ANGERS, France, Nov. 22 (AP).—A Polish government-in-exile today officially established its capital here on territory temporarily ceded to form the only soil controled by exiled Poles.

Premier General Wladyslaw Sikorski received military honors as the government was instaled in a château whose grounds, a mile long and a half mile wide, form the new Polish domain.

American Ambassador Anthony J. Drexel Biddle Jr. already has established an embassy near the château.

PROPOSES BASEL MARK BORDER SO PILOTS CAN SEE IT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BASEL, Switzerland, Nov. 22.—A proposal that the canton [district] of Basel mark its frontier more plainly so that belligerent planes will be able to see it day or night will be made at the next session of the city council by Deputy Fritz Schneider. The frontier already is marked by a row of lights on the ground at some points.

Schneider has given notice that he intends to raise certain questions at the December meeting as the result of injuries to two girls here Saturday by fragments of German antiaircraft shells fired at a French plane. He also will urge the Basel and federal authorities to join in demands for compensation from Germany for personal and property damage caused by the fragments of shells.

Basel newspapers today indicated the existence of uneasiness in homes along the border. "Is the government ready to bring the attention of federal officers to the anxiety of the Basel population about such events?" they asked.

LONDON PAPER SAYS KENNEDY WILL QUIT POST

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Nov. 23 [Thursday].—American Ambassador Joseph P. Kennedy will sail for home early in December on the Italian liner Rex, and may not come back to the embassy in London, the Daily Telegraph said today.

The immediate reason for the ambassador's departure, the paper said, is that Mrs. Kennedy, who is in America, is said to be unable to get permission from the American authorities to visit London. The reissuance of passports to American citizens for journeys into the European war zone has been banned under the new neutrality regulations. Mrs. Kennedy, it was said, had planned to spend a month in London between now and Christmas.

The ambassador's decision to leave England in time to get home by Christmas came as a surprise. He will sail from Genoa. Kennedy's future plans appear uncertain. The Daily Telegraph said that he is anxious to participate in the presidential election in America.

FRENCH INNER CABINET PUSHES NAZI BLOCKADE

PARIS, Nov. 22 (AP).—Premier Edouard Daladier announced tonight the formation of an inner cabinet to press economic warfare against Germany in coöperation with Great Britain.

The inner cabinet consists of eleven members, including the ministers of finance, merchant marine and blockade. These are charged especially with obtaining foreign exchange for purchases abroad, transportation and supplies and with trying to checkmate corresponding German activity.

WOULDN'T FIGHT FOR AMERICA IN WAR, JAPS WARN

Say Germany, Italy Back "New Order in Asia."

TOKIO, Nov. 22 (AP).—Toshio Shiratori, former ambassador to Italy, today declared that if the European war should spread into a world conflict "too many Japanese remember the bitter lesson of the Washington [D. C.] conference to feel inclined to fight again for Great Britain and America."

Toshio Shiratori.

[Many Japanese feel that in the Washington conference of 1921-'22 their country was compelled to accept a position of naval inferiority to Britain and the United States of America.]

Shiratori, who was recalled after his attempts to forge a military alliance among Italy, Germany, and Japan had failed, praised Germany and Italy in an interview. He said that Japanese relations with those powers were still close, despite the Russian-German agreement.

Japs Couldn't Stay Neutral.

"If the United States enters the war it will be a world war in a literal sense," he asserted, "because then it would be extremely difficult for Japan to remain neutral."

"The totalitarian nations work to establish a new order thruout the world," he added. "Japan is doing its job in the orient. Germany and Italy are doing theirs in Europe."

Shiratori said Germany was assisting a move for Russian-Japanese understanding by acting as a go-between in their negotiations. A movement within Japan for a nonaggression pact with Russia is growing, he asserted.

In discussing a possible break in trade relations with the United States thru abrogation of the Japanese-American trade treaty, the former ambassador expressed the belief that such a break would strengthen the trend toward Japanese coöperation with Germany and Italy. At the same time it would weaken the position of Japanese who favor coöperation with America and Britain, he said.

Premier Fears Communism.

Shiratori cited a "final reason" why Japan must coöperate with Germany and Italy, saying it would be necessary "to prevent isolation at the next peace conference whenever it comes."

Premier Nobuyuki Abe announced today that Japan would keep troops in China until "China is entirely free from the communist menace."

In a statement published by the Japanese press, the premier said the garrisons would operate under an anticomintern pact which Japan would conclude shortly with a new government for China along the lines of the anticomintern pact of Japan, Italy, Germany, Hungary, and Spain, but separate from it.

The Japanese government, he said, is trying to establish peaceful relations with the soviet union and after demarcation of the border between Japanese-protected Manchukuo and soviet-supported Outer Mongolia another commission likely will be established to mark other borders.

Soviet-Jap Parley Postponed.

The newspaper Asahi in a dispatch from Moscow reported that Russia had asked that a soviet-Japanese conference in Chita, Siberia, on Nov. 29, to discuss Manchukuo boundary differences be postponed. Manchukuo agreed to defer the Chita conference until Dec. 7.

In discussing the American-Japanese trade treaty which the United States has served notice will be terminated on Jan. 26, 1940, Abe said: "It would be fortunate for both America and Japan if their relations were adjusted before abrogation. However, it cannot be helped if the treaty expires before readjustment. Measures for coping with such a situation are being studied in the various quarters concerned."

The British and Japanese governments were said to be considering the best means of regulating their relations, which have been strained for several months.

General Killed in Action.

PEKING, Nov. 22 (AP).—Lieut. Gen. Norihide Abe was killed in action southwest of here, near Paoting, on Nov. 7, Japanese army headquarters said today. He was the first Japanese division commander lost in the present war, tho Japan has lost other generals in the fighting. Abe was struck by a trench mortar shell while leading a detachment to the relief of a besieged regiment.

Nanning Threatened.

HONGKONG, Nov. 22 (AP). — The Japanese army reported today that its advance guards had reached a point only ten miles from Nanning, the immediate objective of the drive the Japanese launched in South China a week ago to cut Chinese "lifeline" supply routes. Nanning is the headquarters for the powerful Kwangsi province Chinese armies and the terminus of a highway from Hanoi, French Indo-China.

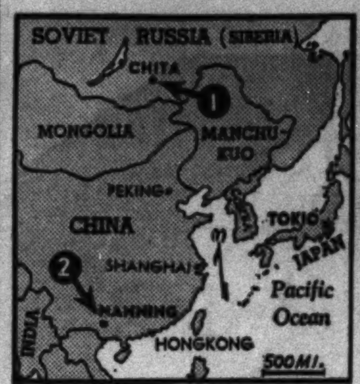
The Japanese said that the vanguard of their central column had advanced 15 miles in the last three days to reach the south bank of the Pearl river 10 miles from Nanning.

Nanning, which has a normal population of about 68,000, is on the north bank of the river, which is several hundred feet wide and is expected to be a formidable obstacle if Chinese defenses hold.

Nanning is about 80 miles north of the point on Tongking bay at which the Japanese landed under covering fire of about 40 warships.

Japanese Advance

(Story in adjoining column.)



Soviet Russia has requested postponement of a Japanese-Russian conference on boundary lines which was to have been held in Chita (1) next week. Advance guards of the Japanese army have reached a point near Nanning (2), objective of drive.

WELLES DENIES TALKS TO DRAFT NEW JAP TREATY

Washington, D. C., Nov. 22 (AP).—Sumner Welles, acting secretary of state, told his press conference today that no negotiations are under way looking toward the drafting of a new commercial treaty between the United States and Japan.

Welles made this declaration to clear up what he termed confusion regarding the status of Japanese-American relations. Welles asserted that Ambassador Joseph C. Grew constantly is in communication with the Japanese foreign office on the subject of relations between the United States and Japan and problems which arise in connection therewith.

"There are not going on, either in Tokyo or in Washington, negotiations in regard to commercial treaty relations between the two countries," Welles added. The existing treaty of amity and commerce between this country and Japan was denounced last summer and will expire Jan. 26.

ENGLAND TO CUT IMPORTATION OF LIVE STOCK FOOD

War Transport Demands to Reduce Supplies.

BY DAVID DARRAH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BRISTOL, England, Nov. 22.—Disgruntled stock raisers who have been protesting the scarcity of animal food tonight were told by Minister of Agriculture Dorman Smith that supplies of imported food for animals will be further curtailed owing to the wartime demands on sea transport.

Imports of feeding stuffs for pigs and poultry will be reduced one-third, Smith said. He said, however, that no wholesale slaughter of stock would be justified. The British farmers are being urged to grow more animal feed on their own farms.

Shortage Explained.

Adjustment of the shipping programs to wartime conditions and the heavy demands on cargo space for munitions and troop shipments are responsible for the shortage of cereal imports from abroad, particularly barley and maize, the minister declared.

Rationing supplies for pigs and poultry, Smith said, would release more ships to carry arms and planes across the Atlantic ocean.

In order to maintain milk and meat supplies, he indicated cattle and sheep farmers would get preference in the distribution of available foodstocks.

Supplies of oil cakes and meal for winter fattening already on hand, Smith assured, should be sufficient to keep the animals in good condition this season.

The minister said pig clubs which contributed 5,000,000 pounds of pork yearly in the last war will be started again. Every cottager and householder with a back yard or garden will be encouraged to keep a pig or poultry to increase the home supplies of bacon and eggs.

Blow to West Country.

The new restrictions on the importation of animal foodstuffs will come as an especially severe blow to this west country region. Already the farmers in Cornwall, Devonshire and Somerset are worried about the animal food shortage. They point out there is no shortage of food stocks and no thought of rationing anything but butter and bacon in the immediate future, but say that the government burocrats forgot about feeding the animals in the kingdom.

"The trouble is that the government did not anticipate the necessary requirements in food for livestock as they did for human consumption," William Webber, general manager of the Western Counties Agricultural Coöperative association, said today.

Lady Astor declared that the difficulty is because ships carrying animal food are not allowed to dock in Plymouth, port of supply for western England.

The farmers are enraged. They declare the shortage is because government agencies have taken animal food supplies under control. If the supplies had been left to the general trade there would have been no shortage, they say. Cornwall and Devon are demanding greater distribution of barley, maize, and wheat for animal feeding.

Milk Trade Spurts.

The presence of thousands of persons, evacuated from big cities, especially young children, has brought on a boom in the milk trade in the west country. Many milk producers are taking advantage of the increased wartime turnover to equip their businesses for bigger services after the war. Old milk cans are being scrapped and new tanks are being installed along with bottling plants and sterilizers.

England's west country provides the nation with a heavy contingent for the navy. Every time there are losses at sea in this war there are many mourners in Cornwall, Devon, and Somerset.

BRITAIN REVISES ARMY COUNCIL; OUSTS ALL BUT 2

LONDON, Nov. 22 (AP).—Britain revamped her army council today in a shakeup in which only War Minister Leslie Hore-Belisha, president of the council, and Sir Victor Warrender retained their posts. Named as new council members were Viscount Cobham, who will serve as vice president; Gen. Sir William Ironside, Gen. Sir Robert Gordon-Finlayson, Lieut. Gen. Sir Walter Venning, and Sir Percy Grigg.

Hore-Belisha today told the house of commons that the allies are becoming stronger daily and that Germany will "have to break thru allied defenses" to win. "An assault on these is awaited confidently by the French supreme commander [Gen. Gamelin]," he added. "On our side we can afford to choose our opportunity."

Britain is sending thousands of men each week to France to reinforce the original force of 158,000, the war secretary said.

26.3% warmer—61% longer wearing—1½ pounds lighter—and still at last year's price of

$40

You could write a book about this overcoat—it has so many marvelous features. There's its weightless warmth—its long wear—its lustrous blend of alpaca, guanaco, mohair and wool—its smart style in ulsters, balmacaans, single and double breasted raglans and box coats—then there's its amazing scientific duplication of an animal's fur coat (illustrated below). Regardless of skyrocketing markets, you get this overcoat at last year's price of $40. No wonder it's America's largest selling overcoat. See it by all means

ISOLATION WON'T WORK IN EUROPE, SAYS PROFESSOR

Co-operation Necessary for Peace, He Asserts.

Dr. Quincy Wright.

Political coöperation among the nations of Europe to prevent the erection of economic barriers for solely strategic purposes is one requisite before the continent can be stabilized and peace assured. Dr. Quincy Wright, professor of international law at the University of Chicago, asserted yesterday.

"Such coöperation," he said, "is needed to replace the tolerance that has been exhibited by some European countries toward the illegal resort to violence by other countries. That tolerance might be called the Munich attitude, which allowed Germany to take a slice of Czecho-Slovakia at that time.

No Peace Without Justice.

"It is based on the fallacious idea that the best way to deal with an aggressor nation is to throw raw meat—in the shape of a piece of land—to that nation. The present war is evidence that the idea has not worked out.

"There can be no peace in Europe until its nations coöperate to suppress illegal violence and to make the success of such violence impossible. There must be substantial restoration of the states which have been invaded with only such boundary rectifications which would commend themselves to a general sense of justice."

Another requisite for stabilization of Europe, Dr. Wright said, is the willingness of non-European powers, such as the United States, to provide the continental nations with constant and sufficient foreign markets for their products.

Isolationism Provokes Conflicts.

"If the European nations don't have such markets," he said, "their alternative is to try for isolationism and economic self-sufficiency. And that provokes conflicts.

"The United States need not send troops abroad to establish peace in Europe. Such peace can be achieved thru guarantees that there will not be sudden and swift tariff adjustments which deprive a foreign nation of its markets in this country. Without coöperation from us, there can be no practicable solution of Europe's difficulties. For without that coöperation, it is impossible for most of the countries of Europe to maintain standards of living."

NICARAGUA PLEDGES TO PROVIDE SOLDIERS IF U. S. GOES TO WAR

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, Nov. 22.—Members of the United States congressional delegation inspecting Panama canal defenses were honored at a banquet given by President Anastasio Somoza last night.

At the conclusion of the banquet President Somoza, after drinking a toast to President Roosevelt, said: "If the United States should ever get into a war, which is against our hopes, Nicaragua will put 10,000 well trained men at the service of the United States within 24 hours. There will be 40,000 within 60 days, besides our landing fields and other facilities."

ARMY DESIGNERS TAKE A NEW STEP IN STREAMLINING

Regiment to Use Cavalry Transported by Truck.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 22 (AP)—The war department announced today that motorcycles, light armored cars, and cavalry horses transported by motor truck will be combined in a special fast moving scouting regiment which would set new precedents for the army.

The latest development in current army "streamlining" moves, the new regiment will be formed Dec. 1 by reorganizing the 6th cavalry at Fort Oglethorpe, Ga.

Unit to Get Thoro Test.

Incorporating some of the advanced military ideas tested by Germany in the Polish campaign, it will comprise about 1,100 officers and men. The unit will be given a thoro test next spring near the close of the mass training maneuvers already in progress in the south.

The announcement disclosed a general staff decision to employ motorcycles in a troop for the first time, and also represented official approval of the transportation overland of cavalry horses in motor trucks. This means of increasing the range and speed of cavalry has been tested experimentally for years by the 1st division in Texas.

Provide for Reconnaissance.

The regiment is to be formed to provide a corps commander of two or more divisions with means to make both near and distant ground reconnaissance regardless of the weather or of road conditions.

It will consist of two squadrons and a headquarters troop. One squadron, armed with rifles, will be equipped with horses to provide means of travel over rough ground and with motor trucks to transport men and horses quickly when good roads are available.

The second squadron will be mechanized and will include two troops with scout cars and one motorcycle troop. A pioneer and demolition platoon is included, to build or destroy bridges.

British Spend 23½ Millions on War a Day; Urged to Save

LONDON, Nov. 22 (AP).—In a plea for investment in national savings certificates Sir John Simon, chancellor of the exchequer, said today the war was costing Britain at least £6,000,000 [$23,580,000] a day.

Germany Takes Over All Polish State Properties

CRACOW, Nov. 22 (AP).—Hans Frank, German governor of conquered Polish territory, decreed today confiscation of all properties of the former Polish state, including claims and investments, for the announced purpose of safeguarding them. A trustees' office was established to supervise the transaction. The amounts involved were not known. Private and community properties were not affected.

New Polish Consul General Takes Up Duties in Chicago

Dr. Karol Ripa, the new Polish consul general in Chicago, has taken up his duties at 1444 Lake Shore drive, it was learned yesterday. Because of the war no reception has been planned. Dr. Ripa was separated from his wife and son during the German invasion of Poland. His predecessor, Dr. Waclaw Gawronski, has not yet been told where he is to be stationed.

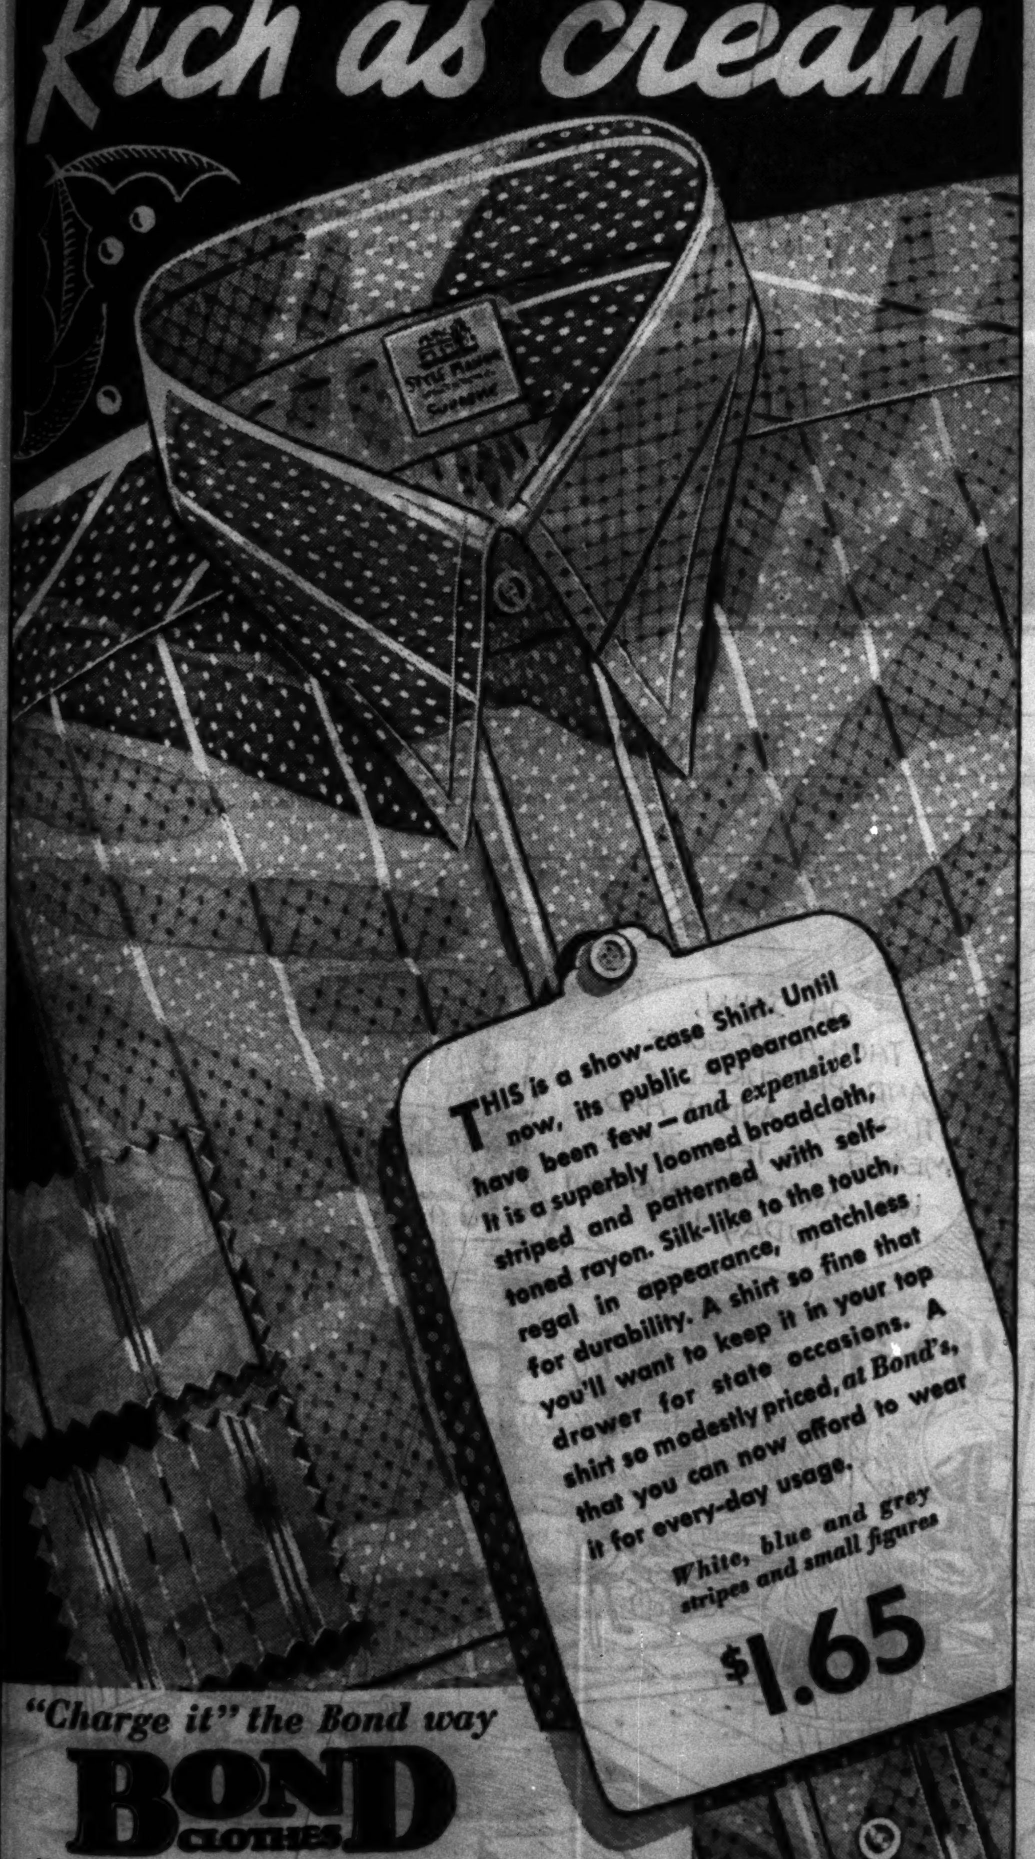
Rich as cream



THIS is a show-case Shirt. Until now, its public appearances have been few—and expensive! It is a superbly loomed broadcloth, striped and patterned with self-toned rayon. Silk-like to the touch, regal in appearance, matchless for durability. A shirt so fine that you'll want to keep it in your top drawer for state occasions. A shirt so modestly priced, at Bond's, that you can now afford to wear it for every-day usage.

Have one on us! It's an "overcoat treat" you may not see again for a long time. Headlines from across the water will tell you why. ★ The wool in these overcoats was clipped from the mountain sheep of Scotland. As hardy a breed as ever locked horns with a snowstorm. Their rugged protection against cold now becomes yours—in fabrics that are exact counterparts of the finest cheviots loomed in England. Custom tailors call them "double-cloths"—because both face and back are so tightly woven, for added wearing quality. And although these grand overcoats are warm as a sun lamp, they rest on your shoulders as lightly as a puff of smoke. The picture we've tried to give you, is only a faint carbon copy of what you'll actually see—when you slip into one of these rich-looking, rough-textured cheviots. TREASURES FOR RE-COUNTING

By CALEB

GRATITUDE, and the demonstration of it among men, is either heartfelt or perfunctory—sacrificial or superficial—depending on the occasions which prompt it.

When the overflowing harvest yield from their scattered plantings of 1621 lay heaped before the dauntless colonists of Plymouth, each Pilgrim survivor tremblingly fell on his knees with joy. Heartfelt was a mild word for such gladness! On a few bushels of precious roots and grains, consigned to the soil months before, that little band had risked everything—and that first New World harvest would decide whether or not the risk had been taken in vain.

With such an occasion for its manifestation, the spirit of our ancestors' first Thanksgiving was doubtless the most impassioned and prayerful ever celebrated in American history. . . .

From that devout and invincible handful, hemmed by forests close to a "stern and rockbound coast," has grown the great America dedicated to remembrance of its blessings today. A land opulent in opportunity; rich in free speech, free thought, free action; and a land still at peace amid the encircling menace of war.

All these are intrinsic treasures of our time that alone give intrinsic value to life. Treasures that could not now exist had it not been for the sacrifice of those other Americans of 218 years ago.

Facts of such meaning should be remembered with profoundest thankfulness; and today is of all days the one most fitting for their recounting. The democratic franchise of "Life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness" represents spiritual treasure that is prodigally ours—to a degree not found in any other land of the entire world. And if we would but intelligently realize what that means, every day's continued living under "the American way" would be greeted with our genuinest gratitude!

Into the harbor of Memory, as we think on such matters, comes sailing a tiny ship. Freighted with humanity's and freedom's most glorious promise, its prow bears a word that has changed man's whole destiny. For, thanks to the Mayflower's coming, we have been made beneficiaries of incalculable personal and national blessings; and to recount those treasures is a duty we owe to yesterday's pioneership, to today's leadership . . . most of all to tomorrow's citizenship—made possible by the sacrifices of our forefathers!

MARINES HAVE LANDED—ON TOP OF THE WORLD!

Recruits Find Service Offers Life of Action.

"In Manila last winter . . ." "When the fracas broke down in Nicaragua and the outfit reached Quilali . . ." "That first morning in Shanghai who shows up but Red Murphy. . . ."

The door to No. 825 in the old postoffice building—marine corps recruiting station for the Chicago district—is open. You have paused to look at a poster, and these broken bits of conversation reach you.

The poster proclaims pictorially that the man on top of the world is the United States marine. He is shown as a bronzed, muscular gentleman in khaki, campaign hat distinguished by the eagle-anchor-globe emblem, hand gripping a trusty Springfield rifle.

Dropping In on a Career.

The voices and the poster seem to tie up. You drop in.

If you're a young and healthy male, somewhere between 18 and 30 years old, with a taste for action and new scenes, the chances are you're dropping in on a career. If not, well, you can ask a few questions of Capt. Thomas A. Tighe, the officer in charge of the station, or Col. John Marston, who has headquarters here as recruiting officer for a district of 13 states.

You learn that when the order came in September to increase the armed forces of the country the marine corps had 18,000 men, 500 less than the maximum permitted. Recruiting has been stepped up to increase that number to 25,000.

Last month the Chicago station enlisted its quota—117.

Here's Why They Join.

Who are the young men ready to give four years or a lifetime to military service, and why do they join?

This is the way it happened with Carroll Herzberg, 21 years old, 919 Addison street, a graduate of Steinmetz High school.

Interviewed on the eve of his departure for the Marine base in San Diego, Cal., he confided, "I wasn't getting anywhere just bumming around, so I went into the Civilian Conservation corps. I stuck for three years, and then decided to join the navy and get a look at the world. The naval station was crowded the morning I came to enlist. I got tired of hanging around. So I came over here and joined the marines."

He Seeks an Education.

Serious Joseph Evans, en route to San Diego in the same contingent, had been working in Chicago as a bookkeeper. He is 28. He completed high school in South Bend, Ind., but being an orphan without means, his hope of a college education was soon dissipated. He had his mind set on the marines from the time he was 16, but he decided it would be better to prove himself at a job in civilian life before enlisting. He figures that the Marine corps should be a school of experience whose training would compare favorably with the more formal education of a university.

Husky Leverett E. Jones, 26, of Shelbyville, decided that he was capable of better things than the jobs he has had as a mechanic and a bartender. Maybe now he'll have a chance to prove it, he says. He hopes to be a flyer.

Red headed John Dean, 20, of 5918 Eddy street, was tired of odd jobs and aimless drifting. "Gee, I'm young, and there's a whole world out there to see," he said. "I want to get a grip on living."

Veterans' Hospital Harvests Bitter Fruit of the Last War

[The following article was written by C. T. Langan of Chicago, a former first lieutenant in the United States marine corps and a former patient in the Edward Hines Jr. Memorial hospital. It is published, in view of the present European war, to show what is happening to some of America's veterans of the last one.]

C. T. Langan.

Just south of Maywood there lies a gray, scarred building flung out on a half mile front. Letters on the roof inform one that this is the Edward Hines Jr. Memorial hospital. It is a half mile of pain, and there are four floors, which makes four half miles of sick and tired veterans of the last venture of these United States in the business of decadent Europe.

The veteran applying at the doors will, after the tedious detail that is an integral part of the government and which takes five or six hours, eventually land in a receiving ward. The ward is dark and a bit forbidding. In and around the ward, which is fitfully lighted, grope men in faded and ragged robes.

Grin Is a War Cross.

There is a nurse who drops in at intervals during the five hour wait to take your temperature—her husband has been in Hines for years. Misfortune has daunted her plucky soul, and she wears the war cross of a defiant grin in a way that heartens the veterans she attends.

[If you want to start something in that receiving ward, I'd suggest you get up and shout: "Vive La France."]

After you reach your bed, the machine starts to function. There will be meals and good ones, medicine, sleeping pills, thermometers, young and earnest doctors, blood tests, X-rays, eye, ear, nose, and throat, dental, and lung tests.

A week or more passes and one day just as you begin to think that your record got lost, you move into the ward in which you belong. The ward doctors know their business. They will find out what's wrong with you.

Seven Major Groups.

The wards are divided into seven major groups, beginning with the "chest" ward and ending with the "mental" ward. My experience was in the chest, or "A" ward.

The head of this ward is a short and stocky man with a somewhat forbidding scowl. The forbidding front is a fake—he is a great hearted man who is a bit overworked. When he talks to you, the sharp brown eyes grow suddenly gentle and he is more like a father confessor than a cranky doctor.

There are four floors to "A" ward. The gravity of the patient's condition dictates the floor on which he is placed. The higher you go, the worse your condition. The highest is inescapably called "St. Peter's ward."

I landed on A 1. I had a small room to myself. There were marble slabs on the side of the north wall, and I was given to understand that it formerly was the morgue. This didn't lull my ragged nerves any at night.

A veteran entering Hines is shocked at seeing his former associates in the quaint business of making the world safe for democracy. Just what it is that shocks one is puzzling at first. I tried to tell my wife about it, and she wanted to know just what it was that shocked me. All I could think of was that there were too many sick people there.

There is more to it than this. It isn't just the loss of youth—one expects that. I think it is the beaten something that crouches like a grey ghost behind the tired front of their glance. Then, too, each man sees in the age and defeat of his fellows grim things in himself that he has sturdily relegated to the subconscious.

This is particularly noticed when one gets to the discharge room. Then if ever should the veteran be glad and the wisecrack be reborn. Well, he isn't, and it isn't.

A Pre-occupied Air.

They sit with a pre-occupied air. If you smile at one of your fellows he looks stupidly at you as if uncertain whether you can possibly mean him. God knows, there may be a reason. Perhaps there are matters of unfed children and despairing wives that haunt his heart.

If you are inclined to feel sorry for your less fortunate brothers you will get many a twinge in your chest. There was, for example, the robust fellow I saw being wheeled to chapel one Sunday morning. I was envying him his ruddy color and peaceful expression. Then I saw that he was happily shaking a rattle.

There is a little garden shelter that I used to occupy when the morning sun was too hot and bright. There was one bench in it that could accommodate four. I was sitting there one July morning when three veterans came along. I watched one of them who was dressed in the best of taste. He seemed the brightest of the trio. Then with a shock I noticed that he was looking wide eyed at the blazing sun. I learned that he was blind, and I found out that his mind was going, too.

Many Similar Pangs.

There are dozens of similar cases that would tie your heartstrings into a bowline and a bight.

The day we went down to get our chest X-rays I sat in a long line of sick men. One chap brought his report to me, said he had difficulty reading without his glasses, and asked me to read his report. He had a hopeful smile on his face. I read the report and found it to be "Pulmonary Tuberculosis." I handed the report back to him and said: "I can't read it either, buddy. You'd better let your doctor see it."

They give preference to men in wheel chairs, and there were about a dozen ahead of us. While I was sitting there I could hear what seemed to be a cow mooing.

The last wheel chairs moved near me. The fellow in the last chair had a desperately sick look, and his lips were twisted in pain. Then we heard again that sound like the mooing of a cow. It came from the twisted lips of the man in the last chair. The room suddenly got terribly hot for me.

Drafts on Funds of Youth.

Hines hospital is a great one. Here is surgery as good as you can buy. Here is diagnosis that would cost hundreds of dollars. Here are doctors that put their heart and soul in their craft. And it is free.

Hines also is the house that pain built—the clearing house for the gallant drafts that youth drew on the funds of life. These drafts, with the compound interest of 21 years, are due now. The interest is in the form of tuberculosis of the spine, the bone, lung, and cancer, and nerves that are cracked. It is the age old interest of war.

PAPER BOTTLES DELAYED AGAIN BY COUNCILMEN

Decide to Await Outcome of Suit Against City.

The sale of milk in paper containers, which has been recommended by the board of health, was delayed again yesterday. The city council health committee, to which a proposed amendment to the milk ordinance had been referred by the council, voted to defer action pending the outcome of a suit brought in federal court by the Fieldcrest Dairies, Inc., in an effort to force the city to permit the use of paper cartons.

Hearings in the Fieldcrest case have been going on for weeks before Jacob I. Grossman, federal master in chancery. The case may be decided in another month, Corporation Counsel Barnet Hodes told the council committee yesterday.

Escape from Slow Death.

Altho the committee action definitely delays the granting of such a permit, it was regarded as an escape from a slow death for the proposed milk ordinance amendment. It was voted after Ald. James B. Bowler [25th] was defeated in an attempt to shelve the proposal.

Ald. William J. Cowhey [41st] asserted, "This matter must be kept before the committee so we can go into it as soon as the court decides."

Ald. Joseph C. Ross [40th], chairman of the committee, was downed in an effort to hold public hearings on the question. He maintained that the matter is of sufficient public importance to merit committee investigation even tho the suit has not been adjudicated.

Kelly and Bundesen at Hearing.

The committee hearing, which lasted three hours, was called by Ross to determine why four weeks elapsed before the recommendation of the board of health, which was voted Oct. 16, reached the council. Mayor Kelly, as well as officials of the health and legal departments, addressed the hearing.

The mayor had an open discussion with Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, health board president, about the mayor's attitude toward paper containers previous to the board recommendation.

"Anything I did in the last six years [relative to paper containers] was done on your recommendation," Mayor Kelly said.

"That's right," Dr. Bundesen replied.

Mayor Asks About Costs.

Mayor Kelly then asked if paper containers would increase milk prices.

"The board of health has nothing to do with price," Dr. Bundesen replied.

"That is something that should be considered, along with sanitation and the question of a possible monopoly," Mayor Kelly said.

During the hearing Dr. Bundesen related in detail the procedure that was followed by his board. He said that on Oct. 16 he recommended to the board that in accordance with recent action by the United States public health service, single service containers be permitted, provided they meet health service standards.

Ald. James J. McDermott [14th] questioned the power of the government health service to set regulations for Chicago.

Dr. Bundesen replied that he did not know of the origin of the health service, but that it was regarded as the authority on municipal health matters and that the Chicago milk ordinance is patterned after the health service model ordinance. He said the service does not regulate, but advises.

Dr. Lloyd Arnold, health board milk expert, who has both approved and opposed paper containers at various times, told the committee "I do not think paper containers are as sanitary as glass as it is handled in Chicago."

"You don't know how they would handle paper in Chicago. We must make proper comparisons," Ald. Ross stated.

One of the Most Thankful of All Thanksgivings!

Like the sighs of gratitude our Pilgrim Fathers must have uttered when they set foot on this fair land—we, too, sigh with happiness that we're in America, the last stronghold of freedom on earth. Let us today remember to give thanks for this great blessing. And let us not forget to be on guard against the many "isms" that seek to destroy these God-given rights of Free Enterprise, as symbolized by the First Thanksgiving—our most precious heritage, the safeguarding of which is the bounden duty of us all. With best wishes for a Happy Thanksgiving to everyone.

GEORGE WASHINGTON SAID:
"Excessive partiality for one foreign nation and excessive dislike for another cause those whom they actuate to see danger only on one side, and serve to veil and even second the arts of influence on the other."—From the Farewell Address.

GOOD WHEN THEY WANT TO BE.

The early hours of yesterday were a bad time for killers. While a jury in federal court was agreeing on the verdict that sentenced the kidnap slayer Russell to the electric chair, the Chicago police were rounding up and getting confessions from the three young gunmen who murdered a park policeman only a little more than 24 hours before.

The Russell verdict should tend to counteract the suspicion under which women jurors have fallen by reason of occasional oddities of some of their sex in reaching verdicts. The women on the federal jury demonstrated that under proper circumstances they are willing to inflict the supreme penalty.

The solution of the murder of Policeman Francois was good police work. It was achieved in simple fashion. The department put twenty men to work on the case. They set out to talk to people who might know something about the murder. A tavern conversation led them to a man who led them to a girl whose companion had been forced to drive one of the fleeing killers from the scene. They found that member of the gang, who named his accomplices, and arrests and confessions followed.

The solution of the case might not have been so quick if good fortune had not supplemented the diligence of the police. But it was a fresh demonstration that Chicago has a great many competent policemen, who almost always can catch a murderer when they want to or, more important, when they are allowed to.

It is bad medicine to kill a policeman in Chicago. It is almost equally bad medicine to kill a respectable citizen in a holdup or other crime. Gang killings are less hazardous. Such men as the late Edward J. O'Hare may be no great loss to the city, but the gangsters who had him killed are obviously even less desirable citizens, a fact which police seem to overlook.

But disregarding crimes of passion, in which the fault lies with the aberrations of juries and not with police, the safest murder to commit in this town is one in connection with a labor dispute. As a single instance, the murder of Lloyd Rourke in connection with the strike at the Del Prado hotel took place on Feb. 10, 1938. No arrests have been made. A great many more people have knowledge of the deliberately planned killing of Rourke than had of the spontaneous killing of Policeman Francois, yet the latter is solved in 29 hours and the police have turned up no essential witnesses in the former case in twenty months. Who is holding them off?

WHEN THE MONEY RUNS OUT.

Toledo has been obliged to close its schools because the money has run out. More than 40,000 children will be on the hands of their parents until Jan. 2 at least, according to present prospects. The board of education is $600,000 in debt. Except for the shutdown this would have been increased by another $400,000. The voters had refused to grant a 4 mill levy and the board had exhausted its borrowing powers. The teachers have been paid only for the first two weeks of September.

Chicago can sympathize with this predicament because it went thru the same experiences some years ago when, because of political waste and the demoralization of the taxing system, all the money had run out. A great many communities in this country have been running close to the danger point because their expenditures are exhausting the ability to pay and because taxation cannot bear the burden.

The national government sets the example of wasting money and trusting to miracles and most of the political units in the country have the same financial weakness. People know this and there is constant talk of economy, but nobody gets the expenditures down. The prevailing monetary idea is that more deficits cure deficits. The Toledo schools say that this is not so.

EASY GO.

Ben and Herbert Jones, former county treasurers of Will county, have been acquitted of the charge of forgery by order of Judge Casper Platt of Danville. Herbert Jones was acquitted of a charge of perjury also.

More than half a million dollars of Will county funds were missing, according to an audit made in 1936. The statute of limitations had run against charges of embezzlement or larceny, but indictment for forgery was still possible and was resorted to. The state alleged that Ben Jones had forged a passbook showing a nonexistent deposit of $123,000 of county money in the Manhattan State bank, but the book had been destroyed by Herbert Jones and the court ruled that no evidence had been presented to prove conclusively that either of the defendants had issued it.

Somebody went south with Will county's money, but apparently no one will be punished. We have had similar experiences here in Cook county. Mr. Sweitzer, whose vest pocket became nationally famous, was acquitted and Mr. Zintak also escaped conviction. The failure to punish the gentlemen who allow public funds to disappear is not exactly wholesome. It encourages the belief among politicians that they can let the taxpayers' money stick to their fingers without running any risk.

BEGINNING THESE THANKSGIVINGS.

For this and a number of other states today is Thanksgiving, whether or not you can quite get the feel of it. In New England and some states in other regions the turkey will be carved next Thursday, and Texas, great producer of the bird of Thanksgiving, is strongly for the celebration of both days. A little more advertising might help Texas and other turkey regions to persuade the country that any day is a good day for that bird.

Probably by the time dinner has been put to its purposes most of us will have made an adjustment to the new tradition which starts today, even if in the morning there was a feeling that this was just a misplaced Sunday. Many people are inclined to think that the prevailing reason Mr. Roosevelt had for bringing the festival in a week earlier was to be found in his desire to prove to himself, in a small way, that a tradition could not intimidate him. Some sensible reasons have been given for the change, such as that of spacing out the time between the Thanksgiving and Christmas holidays a little wider. But Mr. Roosevelt is an innovator and probably with him any innovation is a good one. From this little one he may go on to a big one.

Whatever the day of the month may be, the greater importance is in the reasons for the giving of thanks and, comparatively, we still have many of them. We still have the chance to preserve some and to improve others. At least we have peace, if we can keep it.

FORECASTING THE FORECASTS.

The year-end prophets will soon be taking their pencils in hand. Already some of the publications which publish a great number of predictions have asked their correspondents to have the soothsaying copy in early. What can be read from business developments of the next few weeks will therefore determine the tone of the reading matter in the annual business review sections of our magazines and newspapers.

Coming events cast their shadows before. And so six weeks in advance it is possible to give the contents of the columns entitled "The Outlook for the New Year." Omitting the cagey parts, which will permit of any interpretation, the forecasts will say that production went up faster than consumption in the final quarter of 1939. The piling up of inventories [we're advance quoting] will force a setback in early 1940. It will be observed that steel operations in October and November were at a rate never maintained for a considerable period. It will be pointed out that the stock market foretold the recession of the first quarter of 1940, when it failed to show after mid-September the slightest enthusiasm for the record breaking upturn in trade and industry.

All this sounds plausible enough. But it's no secret. Government bureaus have been saying for several weeks that a business setback should be looked for early in 1940. Bankers have advised caution about increasing inventories if they could not be worked off before the end of the year.

The stock market's action has been particularly persuasive. Many believe that its action is an expression of the composite judgment of well informed people about future business. When stock prices have gone down, despite large business volume, corporate managements were influenced, and commitments have been withheld. Account has not been taken of the possibility that the market's decline might be due to the sale of privately owned securities by belligerent governments to meet bills for airplanes in the United States.

Now, when any movement of business or prices becomes so well known in advance that every one can prepare for it, it doesn't take place as scheduled. The more widely the belief prevails that a recession in business will come next year the more certain it is that it is being discounted in the slowing down in the rate of expansion this year. Thus we are not only forecasting what forecasters will say next month, but how they will explain their mistake six months later.

Editorial of the Day

WAR SHIPPING.

[Indianapolis News.]

There are three explanations of the President's decision to oppose transfer of American merchant ships to Panama registry. It could reflect independent opinion arrived at after careful study; it could represent a reaction to popular opinion that such a move would violate the spirit of the neutrality act, and it might be a compromise with Secretary of State Hull. Perhaps there was a little of all three. His stated reason for opposition—the unfairness of putting Panama in a position this country would not take—is Rooseveltian; he could not have been unaware that most Americans thought that transfer of government owned vessels would have been a snide trick, and he has no desire to have an open break with his secretary of state.

But the important thing is that he has given the maritime commission a chance to prevent the transfer of these ships. The implication is that if it does not take the hint, the chief executive will attend to it himself. Regardless of reasons, he has taken the position that the people wanted him to take.

If the war lasts much longer congress will have to do something about American shipping. The President, having discretion in the use of large funds, has in effect subsidized the seamen who were thrown out of jobs. If the spirit of the neutrality act is to be put into an expanded law, it will perhaps be necessary to compensate owners and operators of steamships for keeping them off the high seas. The President cannot do that; congress can. The question is whether it wants to and whether the American people want to pay the bill. If they do not, they might as well forget about the spirit of the neutrality act.

THE FOURTH THURSDAY.

After all the nagging and jesting and satirizing about President Roosevelt's Thanksgiving day proclamation, it seems that he may have been orthodox. Today may be the right day. Therefore rejoice, and eat your turkey like a free born American instead of a salaaming subject of the New Deal.

We find this in the Columbia Encyclopedia: "Lincoln revived the custom in 1864, appointing as the date the fourth Thursday in November. Succeeding Presidents have set apart the same date."

But if you take the Britannica as your authority, you will find that President Lincoln selected the last Thursday. The text of his proclamation should settle the matter for all time, but since the numerous Lincoln experts have not taken the trouble to look it up, we will also refrain.

Anyway, today is the fourth Thursday in November.

Thanksgiving day became a national custom largely because of the promotional activity of the editor of a fashions magazine. She was Sarah Josepha Hale [1788-1879]. When she was 40 years old, and a widow with five children to support, she became the editor of the Ladies' Magazine of Boston. Eight years later she became editor of Godey's Lady's Book of Philadelphia, and a major influence upon fashions and manners. Mrs. Hale held sway for 40 years, and the national Thanksgiving day was only one of many things that she "put over."

In 1830 she published a book called "Poems for Our Children," which contained "Mary had a little lamb." Her authorship of this famous jingle, however, has been disputed. See her biography by R. Finley, "The Lady of Godey's."

⁂

DAY OF GRATITUDE.

Thanks be to God
For loving smile,
For understanding nod,
For yearning mile
That measures eager distance covered when
A loved one's guided safely home again.

Thanks be to God
For gracious tree,
For fertile, sprouting clod,
For humming bee,
For children's happy laughter now and then
And blessed peace that lets them grow to men.

Thanks be to God
For right to live
On homeland's precious sod,
For right to give
To Him our thanks in countryside and town
Each in his chosen way, as God looks down.

Imaginary Oration of a Fair Co-ed.

"When yon phone doth clang I'm going to lift ye receiver and say:

"'Hello. Yeah, I'm fine. But what about that floral atrocity which was just delivered? If you think I can appear at the Interfraternity Prance looking like What the Well Dressed Window Box Is Not Wearing, you can think twice more. That funeral piece would drag me down inside of two steps. In brief, it's too big. It makes me look like a flower strewn dell. What are you taking to this dance—a female or an overdone coffin? Take back the blanket thou gavest, or just drag it to the dance without me to support it.

"'And another item: Pink roses doubtless have a place, but the bosom of my flame chiffon is not it. The color scheme screams like a finger nail on a blackboard. Putting Out the Human Eye at Thirty Paces, a best seller by Robert Zilch, in collaboration with Le Petite Fleur Flower Shoppe. If I must wear the corsage I needn't don the gown at all. Except from the rear no one would be the wiser.

"'But mark you my final word: I am not stepping out of this house looking like I had won the Kentucky Derby. That burst of floral glory might look all right hanging from the neck of Seabiscuit, but hanging from the neck of yours truly it—O!'

"O hello, Bob. Yes, it came. And, Bob, it's perfectly lovely. Simply DIVINE!"

⁂

LET US GIVE THANKS.

Let us give thanks, for we have known
  The beauty of untrammeled sky,
The surging glory of each day
  And quiet earth's serenity.

Let us give thanks, for we have found
  True friends upon life's trying road
Whose willing hands have often reached
  To help us bear a weary load.

Let us give thanks that stalwart men,
  Who dreamed and dared in days gone by,
Bequeathed to us in solemn trust
  A heritage of liberty.

Let us give thanks for future years.
  Each day the world is born anew,
And in the darkest hours man knows
  The light of hope still glimmers through.

A Famous Thanksgiving Day.

On Thanksgiving day, 1905, on Stagg [then Marshall] field, the University of Chicago defeated the greatest team in the history of the University of Michigan, 2 to 0. The score came in the last minutes: Eckersall, back to punt from behind his goal line, surprised Michigan by running and advanced to Chicago's 20 yard line. Soon the Maroons were forced to punt. The kick was caught on Michigan's goal line, and instead of letting it stand as a touchback the player [Clark] started to run. He was tackled by Badenoch, tackle, and Catlin, end, of Chicago, and thrown back across his goal. That, in the rule book of 1905, scored a safety against Michigan.

We were there, in the press box, for the Record-Herald.

President Harper, dying from cancer, received play-by-play returns by telephone. Between the halves he sent a message to Stagg: "Tell the boys they must win this game."

WE RETURN THANKS.

HOLIDAYS are wonderful institutions, particularly if they memorialize ideals—landmarks on the pathway of human progress. We owe to Sarah Josepha Hale of Newport, New Hampshire, a writer of distinction, the inauguration of our national Thanksgiving day. It was she who insisted that its observance should be uniform thruout the states. Abraham Lincoln—in the midst of a great crisis—adopted her suggestion. Since then each chief executive has followed his example.

Deep within the hearts of most of us lies a sense of profound gratitude for all that is good. We value our friends, our associates—even the trials of life. Regardless of how little we have we could possess less. Many of our humblest homes are the happiest; they house more love, more genuine devotion to God and country.

Autumn appears to be the propitious time for the return of thanks. Nature has ceased her active labors. Enfolding every bud within her protecting bosom, she settles down to rest. As the fruits of the land are harvested there comes a period of satisfaction—even rejoicing. Everything is rendered snug for the coming of old Boreas.

All peoples in all lands understand the significance of the season. Among the American Indians—long before the coming of the white men—the fall festival was the gala event of the year. In old England harvest dinners signalized the advent of colder weather.

On this continent the custom is distinctly a New England tradition originating with Gov. Bradford of Plymouth colony. History records that wild turkeys graced the table at the initial feast. There were games and military maneuvers, and the governor even essayed some verses expressing the indebtedness of the settlers for the favors of Providence. The natives were not forgotten and King Massasoit and 90 of his braves were gorged with food and entertained for several days.

But the life of the pioneer, as these hardy adventurers pushed westward, was not all "beer and skittles." Drouths, crop failures, grasshopper plagues, and illnesses came upon them and the celebrations so bravely begun in 1621 were commemorated grimly with a determination to win. The establishment of homesteads in the mountains or on the plains required courage of high order.

Along every frontier, physicians were utilized if and when they were available. Many who combined the offices of nurse, apothecary, and diagnostician were obliged by the nature of their calling to combat the most dangerous maladies. For the most part they served well and faithfully. Like old Dr. McClure of Ian MacLaren's famous tale, they fought valiantly for the lives of their patients. But how little they had to do with as compared with our modern equipment. The bleeding lancet, herbs from the woods, and a few simple remedies comprised their working tools.

Early American medical writings are replete with descriptions of "ye melancholie" and, as we look back, we can see why "griefs" and "megrims" were common. The ascetic life of our forebears could not fail to generate open and flagrant emotional rebellion of the spirit. A favorite prescription for "ye lowness" included canary wine, fruit juice, loaf sugar, and nutmeg. It is to be hoped that some revival of the inner man ensued.

Perhaps we boast a bit too blatantly of the lifesaving achievements of modern science. Mayhap those who come after us—a century hence—will find but little merit in what we do now. But we must keep our faces steadfastly to the front as did our great-grandfathers. They won thru and so shall we. We may take a "mite" of comfort in the doggerel of the old deacon:

"Kneel straight down, in all the muss,
And thank your God it ain't no wuss."

WHY SOME EDEMA PITS.

L. B. writes: What difference is there in edema that pits on pressure and that which leaves no mark?

REPLY.

A pitting edema is due to disturbances in circulation, allowing the fluid to collect in dependent parts. Nonpitting edema is occasioned by a retention of fluid in the cells of the tissues because of a change in the chemistry of the body—for example, too much common salt.

CAUSE DETERMINES TREATMENT.

S. T. writes: For excessive bleeding at the menopause why are some patients given X-rays while others receive glandular products?

REPLY.

Hormones from glands may control the condition. If not, X-ray exposures may prove successful. The presence of tumors or growths influences the type of therapy advised.

THE WORLD WAR 25 YEARS AGO

[From Tribune Files.]

Nov. 23, 1914.

[118th day of world war; 84th day of present war.]

LONDON.—A compilation of fighting forces showed an estimated total of 5,000,000 European soldiers in the trenches or on battle lines.

ROTTERDAM.—Inhabitants of St. Nicholas, a Belgian town of 40,000 and an important railway junction southwest of Antwerp, have been ordered by German authorities to leave their homes immediately. They have been offered vacant houses at Antwerp. The move was thought by military observers to be the first step in a large scale plan to fortify the Belgian coast and use it for an air base for an attack on England.

PETROGRAD.—After a five day battle the Russians captured Gumbinnen by a daring charge which put the German defenders to flight. The Germans did not linger for bayonet fighting and the Russians entered the town in triumph, finding it half demolished by shell fire and abandoned by the populace.

FRIEDRICHSHAFEN.—Three British aviators who attempted to bomb the Zeppelin balloon works here were forced to retreat without damaging the plant. Six bombs were dropped, two near the building. One man was killed and two were wounded.

WHY THE LAST THURSDAY?

Michigan City, Ind., Nov. 12.—May I correct a statement made by "E. G." in today's TRIBUNE, under the heading of "Thanksgiving in Review"? E. G. says "President Lincoln appointed the fourth Thursday of November, 1864, as a day of national thanksgiving."

I have before me a copy of Lincoln's proclamation issued Oct. 3, 1863. It contains this paragraph:

> It has seemed to me fit and proper that it should be solemnly, reverently, and gratefully acknowledged as with one heart and one voice by the whole American people. I do, therefore, invite my fellow citizens in every part of the United States, and also those who are at sea and those who are sojourning in foreign lands, to set apart and observe the last Thursday of November next as a day of thanksgiving and praise to our beneficent Father who dwelleth in the heavens."

In a pamphlet entitled, "Little Known Facts About Thanksgiving and Lincoln's Proclamation," compiled by Louis A. Warren, historian, Lincoln National Life Insurance company, is explained the purpose behind selecting the last Thursday of November. I quote:

> When Lincoln set apart the last Thursday of November as the day for the festival, he was contributing to an ancient religious sentiment fostered by the apostolic church. A period of solemnity was always observed with the coming of the Advent season. Fasting and penance had been practiced during the Advent period from time immemorial by the Roman Catholic, the Lutheran, the English, and the Protestant Episcopal churches.
>
> As early as the sixth century, the first Sunday in Advent was made the New Year's day of the ecclesiastical calendar, and it always followed the last Thursday in November. The Friday and Saturday preceding Advent Sunday were fast days, so the last Thursday in November became the last day of feasting in the church year. This fact made the day available as a day of thanksgiving festivities.
>
> It is not strange that Washington, an Episcopalian, who was acquainted with the church calendar, chose with discretion this last Thursday in November as a day of thanksgiving and praise which he set apart by proclamation in 1789.

A THANKSGIVING SERMON.

Chicago, Nov. 22.—Couldn't some of our friends who have been blessed with the nicer things in life find a cure for their boredom and restlessness in sharing some of their good fortune? Perhaps they might take that recluse in the next block for a short Sunday auto ride, or take that old couple across the alley to the movie. Contacting some orphanage and taking a few unlucky kids to the Field museum or Shedd aquarium is a swell tonic. Try it! Remember real happiness is found by passing a little happiness round. J. E. WIEST.

HUNTERS, ATTENTION.

Chicago, Nov. 22.—Dear sportsmen: May I relate my experiences since the opening of the hunting season in Illinois. Spending eight days of the season going from farm to farm, asking for permission to hunt on their property, I heard "No" from nine out of ten farms that I visited each day. Some farmers were startled when I asked permission to hunt. They said: "Most of the hunters do not ask permission, and even cut barb wire fences so they can even drive their cars on the property." When told to leave they are indignant, saying "the land is not posted so we have the right to hunt here." They say that when some "game hogs" get on a place, they comb it out thoroly, killing all the game because their hunting license says they are entitled to a full limit.

I could go on indefinitely writing of the raw deals given the farmer by some hunters.

In several instances I have heard of live stock being peppered with shot, the gunner getting a kick out of the way they jump. Today I heard of a horse that was so badly shot in the legs that it had to be killed, also of another horse and a pig that were killed by careless hunters. Just try and get on a farm to hunt within 20 miles of that scene.

I would suggest that we visit a few of these farms during the summer and patronize the farmers by buying a few eggs or a chicken so we careful hunters may gain their confidence again. If something isn't done I am afraid that spending an enjoyable day hunting on a farm will be just a memory within the next few years. NORMAN L. BECK.

PRAISE FOR KINSLEY'S WORK.

Chicago, Nov. 21.—The stories of Chicago churches, as reported by Philip Kinsley, have been remarkable examples of accurate newspaper reporting. These churches are close to the lives of thousands of Chicagoans and we know how accurately the facts were reported—how dramatically the life in each church was portrayed.

And this is the reason I am glad: There is so much talk today about "propaganda, half truths, etc.," that it is a satisfaction to know that one, whom we can trust as an accurate observer of things we know, is reporting on an area and a people around which considerable controversy rages. Philip Kinsley is traveling in Tennessee. We want to know the facts on the TVA and its impact on the people. We want to know how these people are living. Are they happy, are they getting along in the American way?

Kinsley's accurate descriptions of Chicago churches offer a usable index of the confidence which we can place in his reporting of remote fields.

Deacon, North Shore Baptist Church.

ABHORS BURNING OF BOOKS.

Chicago, Nov. 20.—While there is much to be said for your editorial: "Gripes and Wrath," I was shocked not to find any indignation on your part for the methods used by the East St. Louis school board. The burning of books resembles the Hitler tactics more closely than advising or even ordering people where to migrate in their own and the country's interest. WALTER A. TRUDE.

LAND CONTRACT.

Racine, Wis., Nov. 16 [Legal Friend of the People].—I bought some lake property about a year ago on a land contract. I improved the property to the extent of about $500, figuring the lumber bill and the carpenter bill together. Sickness came and I was unable to pay the two bills. I have now defaulted on the land contract. The lumber company and the carpenter have filed liens against the property. The questions that I want to ask are:

1. Are the liens that the lumber company filed and the carpenter's lien against the land contract, or are they against the deed, also?

2. Can the owner of the deed foreclose against the liens and get a clear deed to the property?

3. Can the lumber company and the carpenter force the one who held the land contract to pay those bills?

4. Does not the signing over the land contract to the deed owner release the one who held the property on the land contract of all the responsibility toward the property and the liens against the property?

5. Can the deed be considered as a first mortgage which a lien cannot be filed against?

6. Can the equity in the property paid on the land contract be considered as a second mortgage?

7. The two liens mentioned above, are they against the land contract only and not against the deed or the first mortgage in this case?

1. The lien holder would be entitled to priority over your contract vendor to the extent of the enhancement in value due to improvement, if that is what you mean to ask.

2. The right of the contract vendor to forfeit your contract would depend on the wording of the contract and the nature of your default.

3. See 1.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

TRANSFER OF TITLE.

Chicago, Nov. 17 [Legal Friend of the People].—Early this spring my father passed away. My mother is still alive and there are two children, my brother and myself. The extent of my father's estate was two lots of land in Wisconsin. We have learned upon inquiry that according to Wisconsin laws, one-third goes to my mother and two-thirds to my brother and myself. In settling this and drawing up the necessary papers for the transfer of title my mother would like to transfer [or sell, if that is necessary] to my brother and myself her share of the property. The lots are worth very little and we cannot afford to go to very much expense in taking care of these transactions.

1. Can you tell us how to go about changing title to the property?

2. Will it be necessary to go to a lawyer?

3. We are not acquainted with a notary public. By what means can one be identified in order to have papers notarized? A. K.

1. She should execute a quitclaim deed to you, with two witnesses. You can obtain a printed form Wisconsin Deed from a loop stationer.

2. You are in a better position to estimate your capacity in such matters than we are.

3. You could find a notary in your local bank or real estate broker's office.

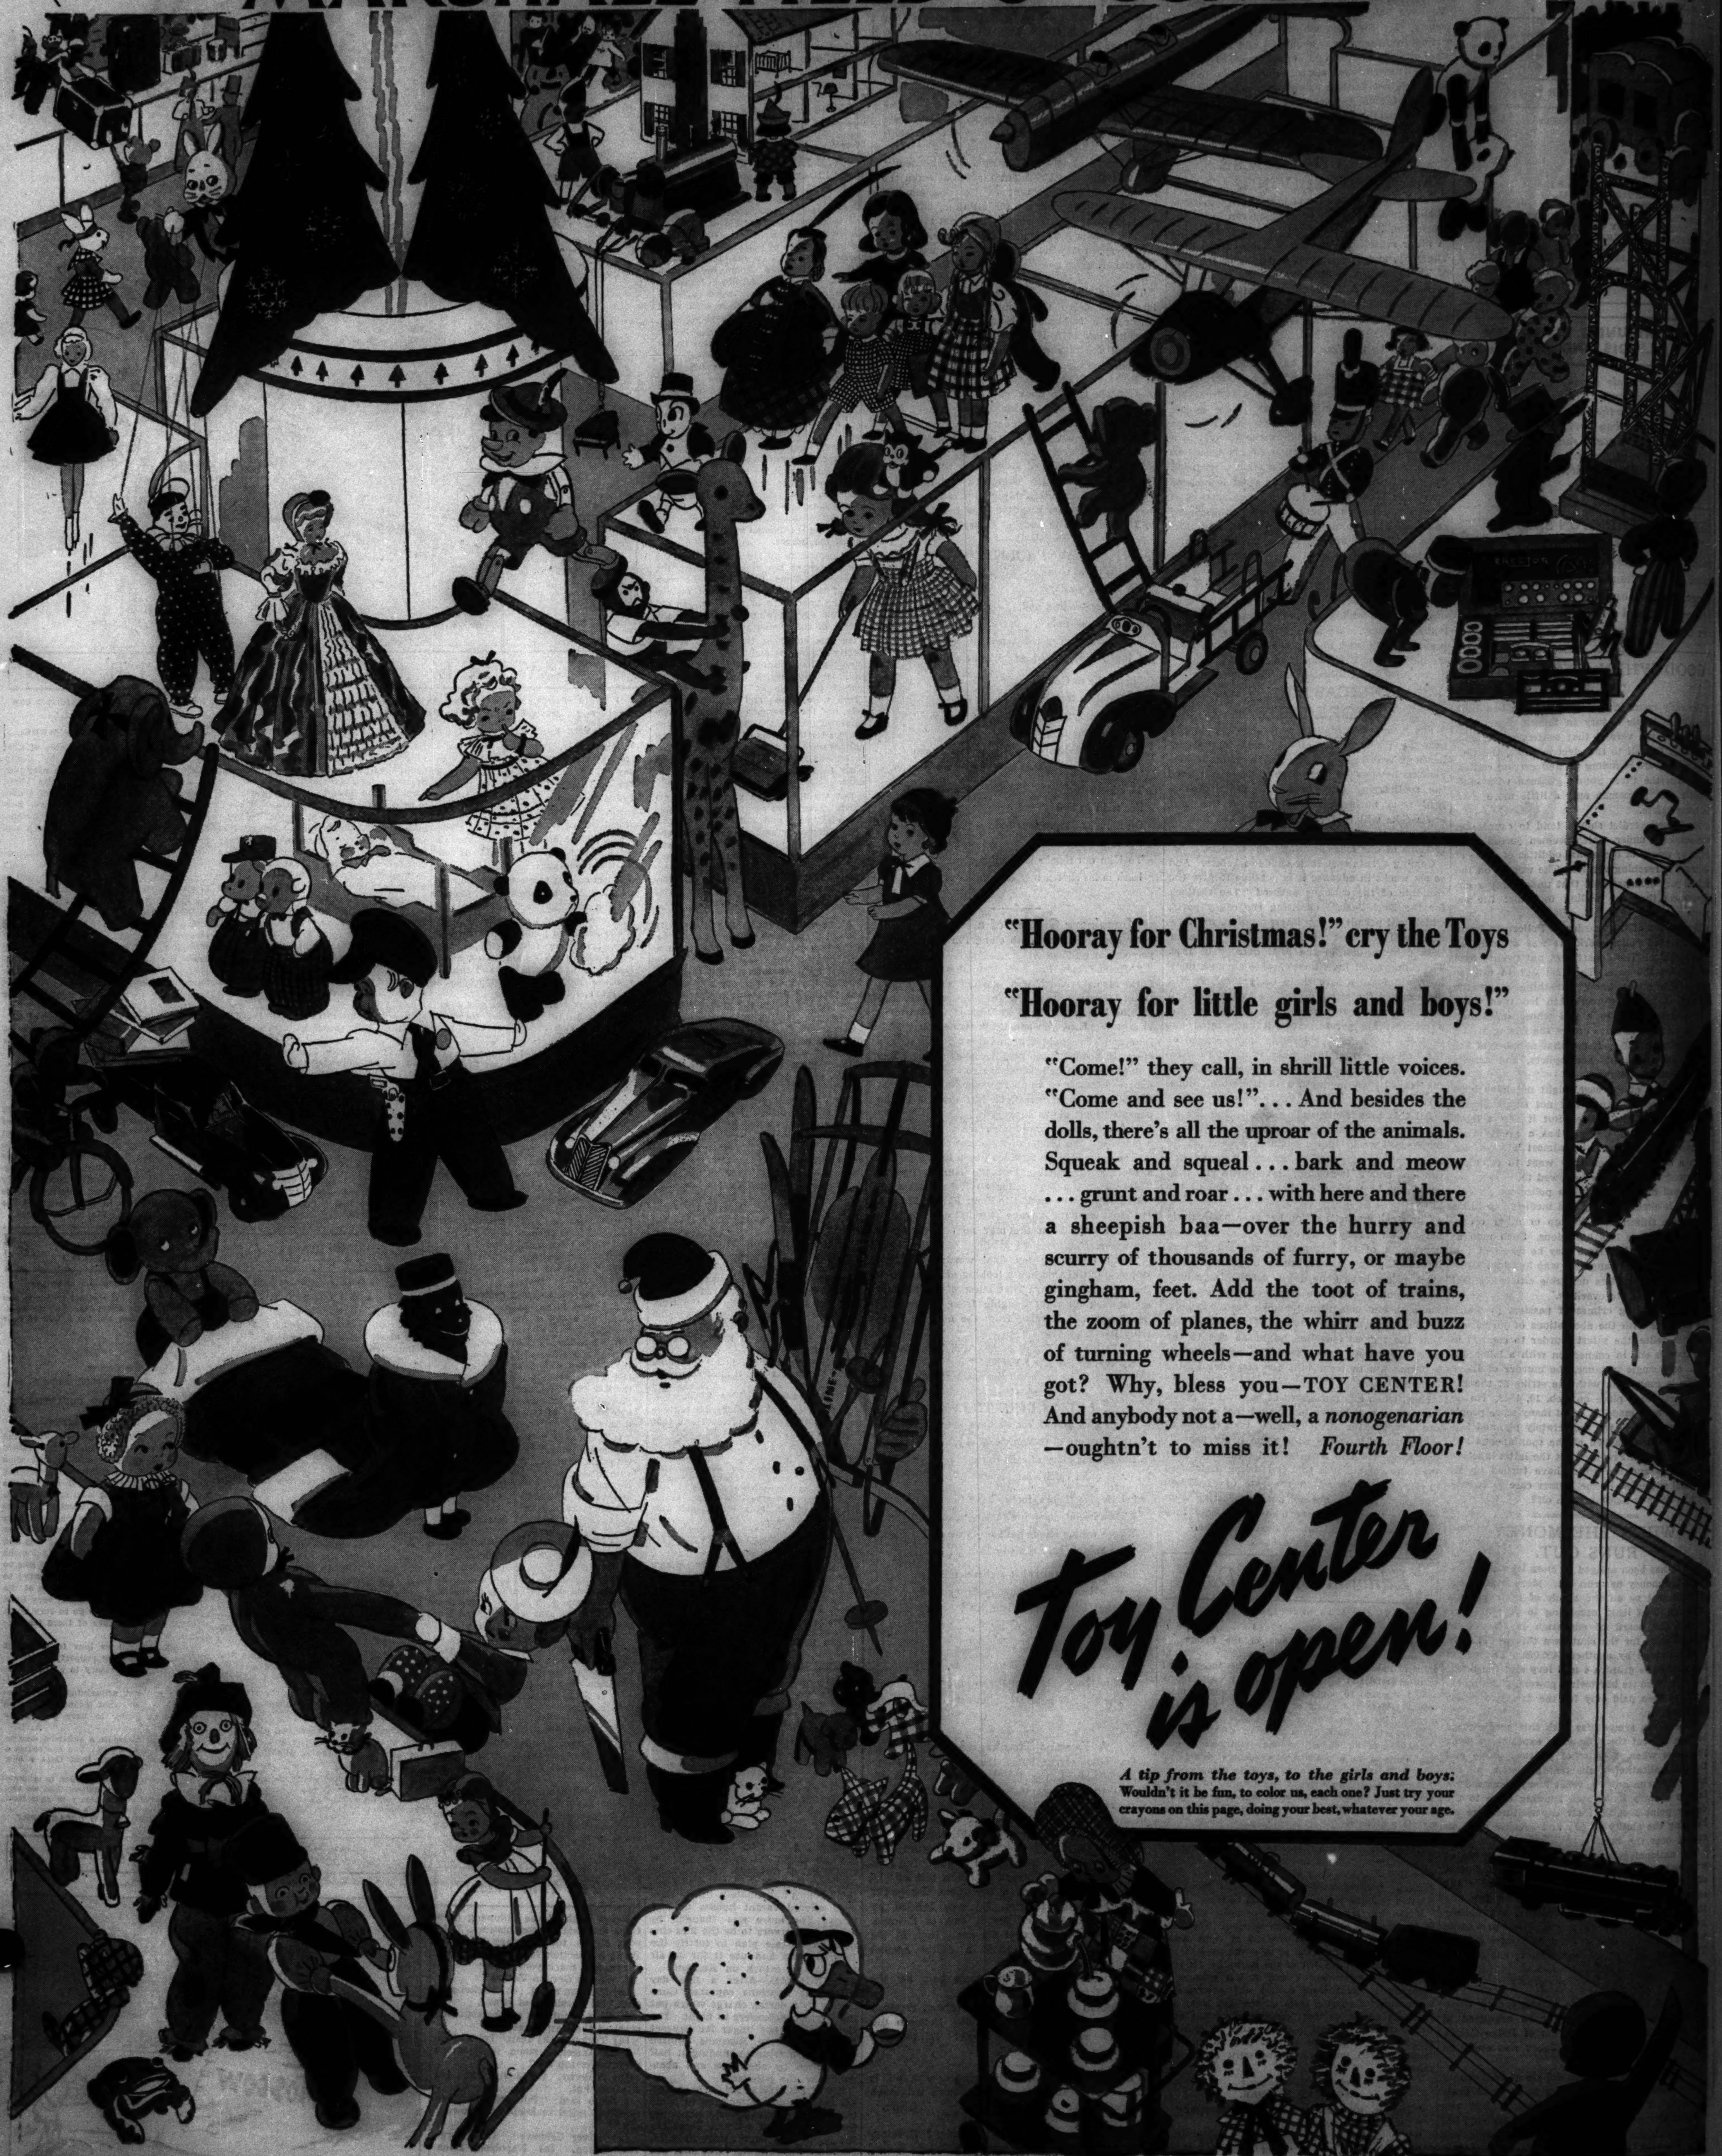
The Store of the Christmas Spirit

MARSHALL FIELD & COMPANY



"Hooray for Christmas!" cry the Toys

"Hooray for little girls and boys!"

"Come!" they call, in shrill little voices. "Come and see us!"... And besides the dolls, there's all the uproar of the animals. Squeak and squeal... bark and meow ... grunt and roar... with here and there a sheepish baa—over the hurry and scurry of thousands of furry, or maybe gingham, feet. Add the toot of trains, the zoom of planes, the whirr and buzz of turning wheels—and what have you got? Why, bless you—TOY CENTER! And anybody not a—well, a nonogenarian —oughtn't to miss it! Fourth Floor!

Toy Center is open!

A tip from the toys, to the girls and boys:
Wouldn't it be fun, to color us, each one? Just try your crayons on this page, doing your best, whatever your age.

DEMANDS RECORD OF ILLINOISANS' FUND COLLECTING

Civil Service Leader Holds Back Own Data.

BY PERCY WOOD.

Clayton F. Devine, president of the Civil Service Protective association, informed the state civil service commission last night that he would not present the financial records of his organization until the commission had received the same data from the Illinoisans—a group which collects Democratic campaign funds from state payrollers.

Devine made this clear in a letter and a supplementary statement to W. Emery Lancaster, president of the commission. It was occasioned by an inquiry conducted by the commission last Wednesday into charges brought by the association that civil service employés were being assessed 2 per cent of their monthly salaries to fill the Democratic war chest for 1940.

Admits Obtaining Money.

Collectors for the Illinoisans admitted during this hearing that they had obtained money from civil service employés on the grounds of state institutions, which is a violation of the state law.

Lancaster rebuked state officials for permitting this practice. He also asked for the records of Devine's association. A query from the association's attorney, Michael F. Ryan, as to whether the commission would also demand the Illinoisans' books was not given a direct answer.

Last night Devine made this statement:

"Our position is this: we are not under investigation. The inquiry made by the civil service commission was at our instigation. We are the complaining witnesses; we are not the defendants.

Demands Information.

"Nevertheless, we are willing to place our records on the table—upon one condition. We will place them there when the commission has obtained from the Illinoisans the same information it asks of us—the names of its officers, the amount of money it has collected from state employés, and the manner in which this money has been disbursed.

"When the commission has obtained this data, then—but only then—will we produce the same information. We have nothing to hide, but we will not permit our own investigation to be turned against us."

Efforts by Attorney Ryan to learn any of the facts Devine mentioned were unavailing at the hearing. The collectors claimed they didn't know any of the officers of the Illinoisans, nor what was done with the money they turned in.

In his letter to Lancaster, Devine declared that his association, "which is nonpartisan and nonpolitical, cannot be charged with partisanship when it exposes conditions and attempts to remedy them by complaints to the proper authorities, including the state civil service commission."

Turn Down Guilty Pleas of 3 St. Charles Fugitives

Three of the thirteen inmates of the St. Charles School for Boys who escaped Nov. 1 attempted to plead guilty to a charge of burglary in the Kane county Circuit court at Geneva yesterday. Because the youths were not represented by a lawyer, Judge Frank W. Shepherd entered a plea of not guilty. The defendants are Leonard Hudzinski, 17 years old, of Chicago; Richard Glissman, 17, of Elgin, and Edward Bertshe, 18, of Waterman. They were captured Nov. 2 after breaking into a store at Sugar Grove.

TERRORIZES CLERK; TAKES $15.

A robber entered a hosiery shop at 428 North Michigan avenue yesterday and, after terrorizing a clerk, Miss Eve Bolotin, fled with $15 from the cash register.

JEFFERSON CREED AGAINST 3D TERM SOLD AT AUCTION

New York, Nov. 22 [Special].—A letter written by Thomas Jefferson strongly disapproving of a presidential third term excited lively bidding here today at the auction sale of rare books, manuscripts, and autographs from the collection of W. R. Hearst at the Parke-Bernet Galleries, Inc.

The letter, which was sold for $775 to an agent of Charles J. Whalen of Chicago, makes clear Jefferson's apprehension that a third term would tend to make the office of president a life term.

"Believing that a representative government, responsible at short periods of election, is that which produces the greatest sum of happiness to mankind," Jefferson wrote, "I feel it a duty to do no act which shall essentially impair that principle: and I should unwillingly be the person who, disregarding the sound precedent set by an illustrious predecessor, should furnish the first example of prolongation beyond the second term of office."

Tavern Owner Shoots Robber; Police Seize Him

A holdup man entered Steve Stoich's tavern at 9104 Green Bay avenue shortly before midnight last night and covered Stoich with a .38 caliber revolver. Instead of throwing up his hands Stoich reached under the bar, got his own gun, and shot the bandit in the leg. Detectives Thomas Powers and Thomas Flynn took him to the South Chicago hospital for first aid and then to the Bridewell. The robber said he was Stanley Styburski, 26, of 8513 Muskegon avenue.

GOVERNOR TO ACT IN INDICTMENT OF 4 AT MANTENO

Horner Drafting Epidemic Prosecution Views.

Gov. Horner was reported yesterday to be preparing a public statement concerning the malfeasance indictments which were returned Tuesday by a Kankakee county grand jury against four state employés. The jury had investigated the typhoid epidemic at Manteno state hospital, which took 53 lives.

Those indicted are A. L. Bowen, state director of public welfare; Dr. Ralph T. Hinton, suspended managing officer of the hospital; Dr. D. Louis Steinberg, assistant managing officer, and Mrs. Lillian Williams, dietitian.

Expect No Resignation Demand.

In Springfield it was said Gov. Horner might comment today or tomorrow on Bowen's indictment. One official predicted, however, that the governor would not ask for Bowen's resignation. He even doubted that Bowen would be asked to take a leave of absence from his duties as supervisor of 27 state institutions, including penitentiaries, pending his trial. Gov. Horner always has expressed the highest confidence in Bowen, the official said.

Bowen talked with the governor yesterday but declined to discuss the executive's reaction to the indictment. Later he said he would post $5,000 bond Monday in the Kankakee county circuit court. He said he understood he would not be arraigned for a formal plea at that time, however.

The public welfare director said his indictment was political and that he would welcome an early trial.

Prosecutor Says He's Willing.

"I hope Mr. Bowen is sincere in that desire," commented State's Attorney Samuel H. Shapiro, who obtained the indictments. "If he is, I am ready. He can have his trial just as soon as he wants it."

At Kankakee it was indicated the cases probably would reach trial stage in the January term of court. Malfeasance is a misdeamor in Illinois, punishable by a maximum fine of $10,000 and possibly by removal from office.

Bond of $5,000 also was fixed yesterday by Circuit Judge Luther B. Bratton for Dr. Hinton, who was suspended by Gov. Horner Nov. 3. Bail in the sum of $3,000 each was set for Dr. Steinberg and Mrs. Williams. None of the defendants surrendered but no orders for their arrest were issued in the belief they would do so Monday.

$19,000 VERDICT IN COFFEE URN BLAST VOIDED

Federal Judge John P. Barnes yesterday set aside a $19,000 jury verdict awarded last July 14 to Miss Eva Brooks, 34 years old, former owner of a St. Louis, Mo., restaurant. He also set aside the damage suit Miss Brooks brought against the Hill-Shaw company of Chicago, manufacturers of glass coffee urns.

Miss Brooks contended she was permanently scarred and forced by the shock to relinquish her business when one of the glass pots exploded two years ago. Judge Barnes held with Defense Attorney Joseph Hinshaw that Miss Brooks had not proved a specific defect in the pot, or that it had exploded.

AL CAPONE'S ILLNESS RESULTS FROM PRISON TERM, BROTHER SAYS

Baltimore, Md., Nov. 22 (AP).—The illness for which Al Capone is undergoing treatment at Union Memorial hospital today was blamed on his confinement in prison by his brother, John, of Villanova, Pa. At a conference with newspaper men John Capone described the condition of the former Chicago gang leader as "good."

He said the patient's appetite was hearty, and that he displayed enthusiastic interest in current events and changes that took place while he was serving time at Alcatraz prison for violation of federal income tax laws.

The brother declined to elaborate on his reference to Al's illness. In a previous announcement, federal prison authorities said he was suffering from paresis, a brain disease.

HISTORIC OLD U. S. BARKENTINE BEAR STARTS FOR POLE

Boston, Mass., Nov. 22 (AP).—Bucking a sample of the storms she will encounter in polar seas, the 68 year old barkentine Bear headed southward tonight for the antarctic after slipping away from this port in a swirling snowstorm, whipped up by a stiff nor'easter.

Back in the service of the navy again for the first time since she fought the Arctic ice floes in 1884 to rescue survivors of the hapless Greely expedition, the historic sealer, revenue ship and veteran of one other antarctic venture completes the fleet for the government's exploratory and possible land claiming expedition to the bottom of the world.

The leadoff ship of the expedition, the motorship North Star, left Boston last week, and now is on the high seas bound for Panama.

FRANK MURPHY HOLDS PARLEYS IN CAPITAL ON ANNENBERG CASE

Washington, D. C., Nov. 22 [Special].—Attorney General Frank Murphy was reported to have held conferences today with opposing counsel in the federal case against M. L. Annenberg, Philadelphia publisher, now under indictment in Chicago on charges of lottery law violation and income tax evasion.

Murphy conferred separately with William J. Campbell, federal attorney at Chicago, and Annenberg attorneys.

The attorney general was reported to have expressed the opinion that in the event a plea of guilty is offered the trial judge should have full discretion to order a fine, jail sentence, or payment of taxes and penalties.

Tony Sarg Files Petition as Bankrupt; Owes $36,259

New York, Nov. 22 [Special].—Tony Sarg, artist and marionette maker, filed a petition in bankruptcy in federal court today. He listed liabilities of $36,259 and assets of $6,572. Sarg lives in Greenwich Village and has his studio there.

SUPREME COURT UPHOLDS PRESS FREEDOM ISSUE

Rules Ordinances to Bar Handbills Illegal.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 22.—The United States Supreme court today further bulwarked the American constitution's guarantee of freedom of speech and of the press as "the foundation of free government by free men."

The court declared unconstitutional Los Angeles, Cal., Milwaukee, Wis., and Worcester, Mass., city ordinances prohibiting the public distribution of handbills and circulars and an Irvington, N. J., ordinance subjecting house to house distribution of such literature to police censorship. The court reversed the decisions of state courts which had upheld the ordinances.

One Dessenting Justice.

The court divided 7 to 1 on the question. The sole dissent was noted by Associate Justice James C. McReynolds, but beyond indicating his view that the regulations were constitutional, he filed no detailed opinion. The late Justice Pierce Butler took no part in the case because of the illness that ended in his death last week.

In the majority opinion, delivered by Associate Justice Owen J. Roberts, the court said that municipalities may lawfully regulate the conduct of persons using their streets so long as they do not abridge "the constitutional liberty of one rightfully upon the street to impart information thru speech or the distribution of literature." Distributors of circulars would have no constitutional right, for example, to stop traffic or litter the streets and could be punished therefor, because such conduct is not essential to "the freedom to speak, write, print, or distribute information or opinion."

Stress Fundamental Rights.

"This court," the opinion continued, "has characterized the freedom of speech and that of the press as fundamental personal rights and liberties. The phrase is not an empty one and was not lightly used. It reflects the belief of the framers of the constitution that exercise of the rights lies at the foundation of free government by free men. It stresses, as do many opinions of this court, restriction of enjoyment of these liberties.

"In every case, therefore, where legislative abridgment of the rights is asserted, the courts should be astute to examine the effect of the challenged legislation. Mere legislative preferences or beliefs respecting matters of public convenience may well support regulation directed at other personal activities, but be insufficient to justify such as diminishes the exercise of rights so vital to the maintenance of democratic institutions.

"And so, as cases arise, the delicate and difficult task falls upon the courts to weigh the circumstances and to appraise the substantiality of the reasons advanced in support of the regulation of the free enjoyment of the rights."

The court cited its previous invalidation of ordinances penalizing "the distribution of pamphlets, which had become historical weapons in the defense of liberty."

The state courts held that the motive of the Los Angeles, Milwaukee, and Worcester ordinances was to prevent the littering of the streets. Justice Roberts disposed of this contention thus:

"We are of the opinion that the purpose to keep the streets clean and of good appearance is insufficient to justify an ordinance which prohibits a person rightfully on a public street from handing literature to one willing to receive it. Any burden imposed upon the city authorities in cleaning and caring for the streets as an indirect consequence of such distribution results from the constitutional protection of the freedom of speech and press.

"This constitutional protection does not deprive a city of all power to prevent street littering. There are obvious methods of preventing littering. Amongst these is the punishment of those who actually throw papers on the street."

Clean Streets Not at Issue.

To the contention that the Milwaukee ordinance was enforced only when the persons who receive the literature threw it in the streets the court answered that the "public convenience in respect of cleanliness of the streets does not justify an exertion of the police power which invades the free communication of information and opinion secured by the constitution."

The Irvington requirement of a police permit for door to door distribution of handbills established a police censorship, the court held. The distributor was compelled to "undergo a burdensome and inquisitorial examination, including photographing and fingerprinting. In the end his liberty to communicate with the residents of the town at their homes depends upon the exercise of the officer's discretion."

"On this method of communication," the opinion continued, "the ordinance imposes censorship, abuse ot which engendered the struggle in England which eventuated in the establishment of the doctrine of the freedom of the press embodied in our constitution. To require a censorship thru license which makes impossible the free and unhampered distribution of pamphlets strikes at the very heart of the constitutional guarantees.

Oppose Police Censorship.

"Conceding that fraudulent appeals may be made in the name of charity and religion, we hold a municipality cannot, for this reason, require all who wish to disseminate ideas to present them first to police authorities for their consideration and approval, with a discretion in the police to say some ideas may, while others may not, be carried to the homes of citizens; some persons may, while others may not, disseminate information from house to house.

"Frauds may be denounced as offenses and punished by law. Trespasses may similarly be forbidden. If it is said that these means are less efficient and convenient than bestowal of power on police authorities to decide what information may be disseminated from house to house and who may impart the information, the answer is that considerations of this sort do not empower a municipality to abridge freedom of speech and press."

"Venus" Sues

Mrs. Genevieve Hallshammar.

Carl Hallsthammar, noted wood carver, won an uncontested divorce from Mrs. Martha Hallsthammar on Wednesday of last week. On Friday he married Miss Genevieve Grant, his model, who posed for his best known work, "Venus in Red Cherry," which won the $500 Logan award at the Art institute in 1937.

Yesterday his bride sued him for divorce in Superior court. She charged that he shook her and struck her the day after their marriage and the day after that. The bride is 28 years old, 14 years younger than Hallsthammar, whose home is at 1638 Berwyn avenue. After filing her suit she received from Judge Rudolph Desort an order restraining her husband from molesting her.

FINE L. J. O'BRIEN $50 FOR IGNORING LABOR SUMMONS

Lawrence J. O'Brien.

Lawrence J. O'Brien, former state representative who once served 14 months in prison for income tax evasion, pleaded guilty yesterday to a charge of failing to respond to a summons to appear before the state labor board on Sept. 9. He paid a $50 fine imposed by Judge Francis Borrelli in Municipal court. The labor department had directed O'Brien to come before its unemployment compensation division to supply records of employés in several taverns allegedly owned by him. He ignored the summons. O'Brien contended that he did not own the taverns.

FALLS DEAD IN UNION STATION.

A man about 60 years old, identified by papers he carried, as S. M. Straus, of Gloversville, N. Y., died of a heart attack yesterday in the Union station.

CHANDLER NAMED FEDERAL COURTS ADMINISTRATOR

Ex-Head of City Bar Gets New Government Post.

Henry P. Chandler, former president of the Chicago Bar association, was appointed yesterday by the United States Supreme court to be the first director of the administrative office of the United States courts. The position was created by the court reorganization act passed last August.

The administrator's duties consist, in part, of supervising the finances of the Supreme court which were previously in charge of the department of justice. He will keep statistics on the work of the federal Circuit courts, to show the speed with which dockets are cleared and other details affecting judicial efficiency.

Post Pays $10,000 a Year.

There is also a general provision in the act under which additional duties not exactly defined may be assigned to him at the discretion of the Supreme court justices and the senior justices of the Circuit courts. The position pays $10,000 a year.

Chandler, whose home is at 1110 East 53d street, was graduated from Harvard university in 1901 and from the University of Chicago law school in 1906. He has practiced in Chicago for 33 years. He is a member of the firm of Tolman and Chandler. From 1929 to 1933 Chandler was chairman of the Illinois committee on child welfare legislation. He has been a special master in chancery in the federal District court here for the last four years.

Accepts with Pleasure.

"I am keenly sensible of the honor that has been conferred on me by the justices of the Supreme court," Chandler said last night. "I hope I shall be worthy of their confidence. It is an interesting opportunity to cooperate with them and with the Circuit judges in finding ways to make the United States courts work more efficiently. I am happy to accept the place."

He said he would require only a few days to clear up his affairs here and that he expected to take over his new duties in Washington on Dec. 1. His first assistant will be Elmore Whitehurst, veteran clerk of the judiciary committee of the house of representatives.

HOLIDAY FINDS THOUSANDS ON MOTOR JAUNTS

Four Day Trips Arranged by Many Families.

BY HAL FOUST.

Gasoline engines will be used in the observance of Thanksgiving day almost as much as kitchen stoves. If the weather is inviting, or even if it isn't inviting, the highways of Chicagoland will be carrying a quarter of a million persons, who prefer a tour thru the countryside to a home cooked drum stick as their main holiday recreation.

Bert Vanderwarf.

Bert Vanderwarf, manager of the Chicago Motor club touring bureau, believes that Thanksgiving is no longer the day of big family reunions that it once was. In his vocation for the last 19 years, he has watched the influence of the motor car on American social life and has seen the windshield replace the fireside as the center of family interest.

Plan Four Day Trips.

"For the last two weeks," Vanderwarf said yesterday, "we have been flooded with requests for maps for four day trips. It's a four day week-end for many Chicagoans, a vacation that many will enjoy in travel either for part or all of the holidays.

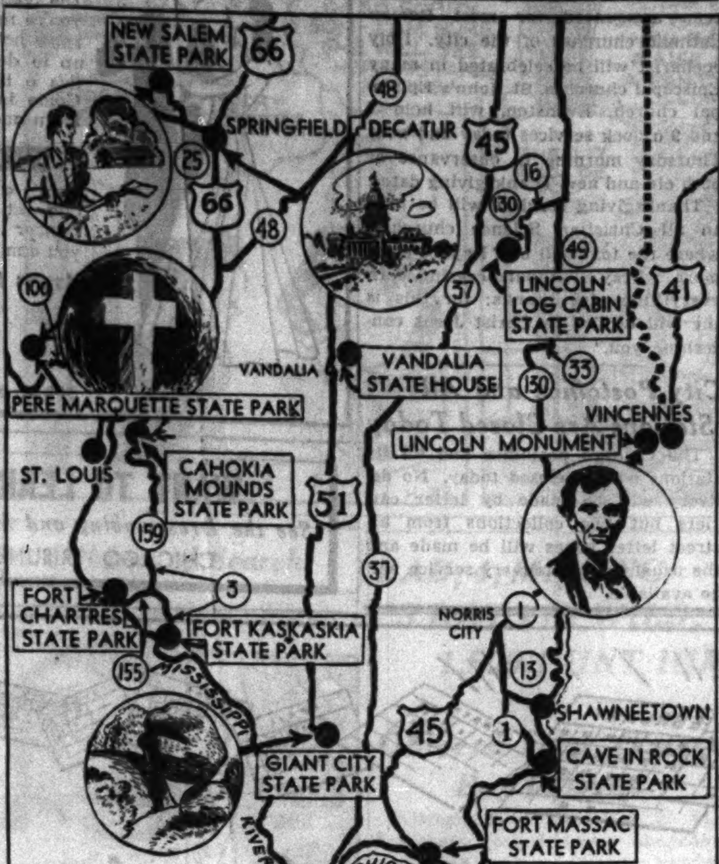
"Some are going to Turkey Run, Clifty Falls, or Pokagon state parks in Indiana. Others are exploring southern Illinois, where the climate discourages summer visits. Some are going to the mountains, to the Ozarks or to the Smokies. Others are going to the gulf coast, to Biloxi or New Orleans."

Brings Families Together.

While the appeal of the pavements will draw many from more domestic environs, the automobile will serve today to bring families together probably even more than to keep them apart. The migrants from small towns who comprise a large portion of Chicago's population, will be on the road, only a few hours' drive from Uncle Bill and Aunt Sara and their turkey and pumpkin pie back in the old home town.

"There isn't any reason to moan over the influence of the motor car," said Vanderwart. "In this modern manner of living, with a large portion of the family leisure spent in automobiles, the shifting scene viewed from the highway as a source of common diversion breeds congeniality."

Thanksgiving Tours Objectives



With several thousand Chicagoans enjoying the holiday week-end in highway travel, a large number are turning to southern Illinois, where the climate discourages summer trips. This map indicates places that will be popular, judging from inquiries for advance information.

TWO GOVERNORS PROVE FIRST GUY HASN'T A CHANCE

Baltimore, Md., Nov. 22 (AP).—Gov. Herbert R. O'Conor of Maryland has been boasting that everything on his Thanksgiving table, from the terrapin soup, thru the cranberry sauce to and including the Washington county cider, is home grown. Only in Maryland could that be done, he says.

Gov. Leverett Saltonstall of Massachusetts, when he heard of O'Conor's statement, asserted that Maryland could not have had a real Thanksgiving dinner if it were not for Cape Cod's prolific cranberry bogs. If the Marylanders tried to get along with Maryland cranberries, he said, they would right away run into a big shortage.

Here is Mrs. O'Conor's menu, which O'Conor hurls as a gustatory defy to the world and environs:

Tangier Sound Oyster Cocktail
Hearts of Celery   Assorted Maryland Nuts
Chesapeake Bay Terrapin Soup
Roast Baltimore County Turkey with Chestnut Dressing   Cranberries
Purée of Sweet Potatoes Aux Marshmallows
Purée of Snow White Maryland Potatoes
Purée of Yellow Turnips   Green Peas
Sauer Kraut
Fresh Pumpkin Pie   Washington County Cider
Coffee
Yellow Mints

FREEDOM'S SONG IS SUNG ON DAY OF THANKSGIVING

Gratitude for Liberties Is Traditional in America.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

> "Then he said unto them, go your way and eat the fat and drink the sweet and send portions unto them for whom nothing is prepared; for this day is holy unto the Lord; neither be ye sorry, for the joy of the Lord is your strength."
> —Nehemiah viii:10.

This text embodies the elements of Thanksgiving day, a distinctive American institution, which was begun by the Pilgrims soon after they landed on Plymouth Rock in 1620 and was made a permanent national institution by Abraham Lincoln in 1863.

The day comes softly, without the blare of New Year's day, the thunder of July 4, or the profusion of Christmas. It was meant to be a day of the home, a gathering of the family, at grandmother's if possible. Its deepest traditions are rural, but its spirit has endured from the horse and buggy to the automobile age.

The Theme of Freedom.

When starvation faced the Pilgrims, when men were shedding their blood in the war for independence against England, Thanksgiving day took on that religious fervor which has clung to it. Later, for the next hundred years, as it was celebrated in various states, chiefly in New England, it became the forum for political sermons. The tone of these was directed strongly against slavery in the years before the civil war.

Thru all the years and thru all the proclamations, however, there runs one theme, the thankfulness of Americans for this goodly land and for the freedom which they had found in religious and civil life.

On the first Thanksgiving day the Pilgrims had a feast of wild turkey, geese, ducks, fish, barley loaves, cornbread, vegetables, and deer meat. They had founded a colony free from civil despots and religious persecutors, "unwatched by the minions of ghostly tyranny." God had given them this harvest and had sent them on this mission.

In 1850 we find the Rev. Nathaniel Bouton telling his congregation at Concord, N. H., that while there was much evil to deplore, the good demanded praise on this day.

Reasons for Thankfulness.

"We should refresh our memories," he said, "with a rehearsal of scenes in which our ancestors took a part, when they freely pledged their lives, their fortunes, and their sacred honor, and poured out their blood like water in their country's defense. We should recall the names of the great, the wise, and the good whom God raised up to be our leaders in the councils of the nation and the fields of war, those who put their hand to the great instrument of independence, or maintained the Declaration with their fortunes and their blood.

"Let the minds of the people be called back to the foundation principles of liberty and law, education and religion, on which the superstructure of our country's glory has been reared. Let the hearts of all men, without distinction of party or denomination, of state or territory, pledge themselves anew upon their country's constitution; and let them invoke by fervent prayer the blessings of our father's God to abide with us."

The rock of American liberty stood in the sunlight or religion, these early Thanksgiving day orators proclaimed. The gospel was a principle of energy and power. Liberty reduced to its foundations identified itself with the doctrines of Christianity.

Whittier Describes Season.

The time of year chosen for Thanksgiving day is described by Whittier as follows:

Our common mother rests and sings
Like Ruth among her garnered sheaves:
Her lap is full of goodly things,
Her brow is bright with autumn leaves.

One of the most notable Thanksgiving proclamations was written by George Washington in 1789, after both houses of congress had requested him to set aside a day of public thanks and prayer.

"Now, therefore, I do recommend and assign Thursday, the 26th of November next, to be devoted by the people of these states to the service of that great and glorious Being, who is the beneficent author of all the good that was, that is, or that will be," he wrote.

He gave thanks for "the favorable interposition of Providence" in the course of the late war and for the peaceable manner in which the constitution had been ratified, for civil and religious liberty and for the means of acquiring useful information which were at hand in this country. He prayed for the promotion of knowledge, the practice of true religion and virtue, and the increase of science.

"Great Lord and ruler of nations," he asked, "render our government a blessing to all the people by constantly being a government of wise, just, and constitutional law, discreetly and faithfully executed and obeyed."

In 1859, after many states had joined in Thanksgiving day every year, Mrs. Sarah J. Hales, editor of Godey's Lady's Book, began an editorial campaign to make it a permanent national holiday, and Lincoln responded to the plea.

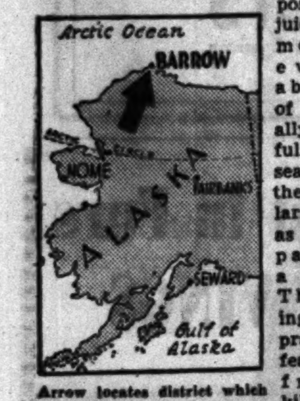
IT'S POLAR BEAR MEAT AND LIKE IT FOR THE ESKIMOS

No Juicy Walrus Steaks This Holiday.

BARROW, Alaska, Nov. 22 (AP).—Eskimos of this farthest north outpost had no juicy walrus meat nor even an abundance of the usually plentiful whale or seal meat in their ice cellars today as they prepared for a bleak Thanksgiving day of prayer and feasting on freshly killed polar bear.



Arrow locates district which feels pinch of hunger.

Adding to the dark picture was the disappearance yesterday of the sun, which will not shine again in this "land of the midnight sun" until Jan. 21.

Many Families Hungry.

Up here, where turkey is unknown, the Eskimos ask nothing better for a holiday feast than walrus meat. But hunger has come to many of the native families, and more than half of the Eskimos' dogs have died of starvation or have been killed.

Strong offshore winds, which drove the ice from the northern beach in the summer and fall, deprived the Eskimos of their hunting on ice for walrus.

Reindeer Supply Dwindles.

Even the reindeer supply has dwindled to less than half of what it was three years ago. Numerous wolf packs rival the natives in the food quest by killing off 20 to 30 reindeer on almost nightly raids.

Traders reported the loss of several boats loaded with supplies during the fall trip to Barrow in turbulent seas.

Several Barrow families have moved inland to follow caribou herds or to seek fish in rivers and lakes until the return of normal hunting in this region.

ROB TAVERN KEEPER OF $800.

Peoria, Ill., Nov. 22 [Special].—Robbers early today held up and robbed Sie Maroon, tavern proprietor, of $800, forced him into an automobile, and left him stranded on state route 150, five miles west of Peoria. Maroon was locking up when two armed men covered him and forced him back into the tavern.

MRS. HARRY WOODRING.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 22 (AP).—A new baby is expected around Christmas time in the home of the secretary of war and Mrs. Harry Woodring. The new arrival will bring the total of babies born in cabinet households during the Roosevelt administration to three. First was Cooper Woodring, who will be 3 years old in February, and youngest is Harold McEwen Ickes, 11 weeks old, son of Secretary and Mrs. Ickes. Mrs. Woodring is the daughter of former Senator and Mrs. Marcus Coolidge of Massachusetts. Marcus and Melissa, the Woodrings' eldest children, were born when their father was assistant secretary of war.

JOHN ALDEN MUM AS EVER, SO CRIER HERALDS HOLIDAY

They must have felt a little strange, John Alden and Priscilla, as they sauntered down State street yesterday with a turkey, an Indian, and a town crier clanging a school bell. None of them seemed embarrassed, however, except the crier who had these solemn words to say: "Hear yez, hear yez! Know that by all these presents, in this year of our Lord, nineteen hundred and thirty-nine, tomorrow, Nov. 23d, is Thanksgiving day." It was the State street council's way of being sure that nobody missed their turkey dinner today.

If the Day Turns Out Nice, Give Thanks to Mr. Donnel

Forecaster C. A. Donnel promises Chicago good weather for Thanksgiving. He said yesterday that there would be more sunshine today than the city has had for a week. Temperatures are expected to range up to 50 degrees in the afternoon.

Prepare for next
C.P.A. EXAMINATION
by new class plan

Thoroughly tested over 2 years, this new plan embodies strikingly different and efficient methods. The quizzer method (so effective in preparation for the bar examinations), an optional laboratory period of 3 hours each Saturday afternoon for practice in answering problems under examination room conditions, an intensive review of accounting, continuous coaching by successful C.P.A.'s, thorough study of A. I. A. examination problems and consultation at any time with an experienced C.P.A.—these are some of the facilities and services.

Evidence of our success in coaching for the examinations is seen in the fact that over 10% of the C.P.A.'s in the U. S. are La Salle members. Furthermore, if you fail in passing the examination, we will continue coaching you without further cost until you do pass.

These loop evening classes begin the week of November 26 and continue for 25 weeks. Classes meet once a week—one on Tuesday and one on Friday—at 6:30 P. M. The cost is moderate and convenient payment terms can be arranged.

CHURCHES UNITE IN THANKSGIVING SERVICES TODAY

Pastors Point to Growth of Good Will.

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

Churches more and more widely are holding union Thanksgiving services across diverse sectarian lines. Pastors and congregations point to this growing interchurch good will as quite as real a reason for thanksgiving as for temporal blessings.

At Fourth Presbyterian church, Episcopalians from St. James and St. Chrysostom's parishes and Congregationalists from New England church will meet with Presbyterians this morning. Bishop George Craig Stewart of the Episcopal diocese of Chicago will preach the sermon.

Baptist Sunrise Service.

The Baptist Young Peoples union of Chicago will conduct its annual sunrise service in three sections. Dr. R. G. Schell, head of the Baptist Illinois conference, will speak before the western district of the union at First Baptist church, Oak Park. For youths of the northern district, the service will be held in the North Shore Baptist church, with Dr. Paul C. Allen of Judson church, Oak Park, the preacher. The Rev. W. Alfred Diman of Elmhurst will preach the Thanksgiving sermon at the union's south side service in Englewood Baptist church.

The Lakeview district union Thanksgiving service will have a double purpose. Not only will nine churches and institutions join in giving thanks to Almighty God for His benefits, but they will aid in the promotion of the Lakeview weekday church schools. The Rev. Paul H. Fuller will be the preacher at the service in St. Paul's Evangelical Lutheran church, Orchard street and Fullerton parkway.

One of the oldest suburban community Thanksgiving services is held in Park Ridge, where four of the principal churches have celebrated together annually for 25 years. These churches are St. Mary's Episcopal church, where this year's service will be held, St. Luke's Evangelical Lutheran church, whose pastor, the Rev. Dr. Walter D. Spangler, is this morning's preacher, and the Park Ridge Methodist and Community churches.

South Shore Baptist, Methodist, and Lutheran churches will hold their service today in Tabor Lutheran church. Morgan Park churches meet at Morgan Park Congregational church. The Evangelical and Reformed, Methodist, and Baptist congregations of Forest Park will meet for Thanksgiving in the village Baptist church. Blue Islanders will unite at the First Congregational church. Dr. Albert Buckner Coe, of Oak Park, will be an Evanston union service preacher at the First Presbyterian church. Another Evanston united service will be held at Emmanuel Methodist church.

Service at College Chapel.

Lake Forest College chapel will be host to the Lake Forest union service this morning with the Rev. Nelson Hall, chaplain of North Chicago Veterans' hospital, the preacher. At Norwood Park the service will be at Norwood Park Presbyterian church.

Special Thanksgiving masses have been announced for most Roman Catholic churches of the city. Holy eucharist will be celebrated in many Episcopal churches. St. John's Episcopal church, Evanston, will hold 7 and 9 o'clock services today and next Thursday morning in observance of both old and new Thanksgiving dates.

Thanksgiving services will be held in all Christian Science churches, where the text will be "Rejoice evermore. Pray without ceasing. In everything give thanks: for this is the will of God in Christ Jesus concerning you."

City Postoffice and All Stations Are Closed Today

The Chicago postoffice and all its stations will be closed today. No delivery will be made by letter carriers but two collections from all street letter boxes will be made and the usual special delivery service will be available.

LIMIT ON TAXES GIVES OHIO NEW RELIEF CRISES

Cities Seek Millions to Last Year Out.

Cleveland, O., Nov. 22 (AP).—Ohio's constitutional 1 per cent limit on realty taxes for all community purposes brought a clash tonight between forces opposed to additional taxes and reliefers crying, "We want food." The relief situation is serious thruout the state.

In Toledo a survey by the council of social agencies showed 5,193 persons—employable residents and their dependents—were suffering from lack of food, fuel, and clothing. In addition the schools closed today until after Jan. 1 because of lack of funds.

Cleveland, with 60,000 persons dependent upon direct relief, discontinued all except emergency rations and discharged a fourth of its administrative staff. District relief offices will remain open to give such limited relief as still can be supplied to the most distressed and needy cases.

Cities Need Millions.

Toledo's relief deficit for the year was around $800,000; Cleveland, reporting only a few thousand dollars to last until Jan. 1, said it needed $1,000,000. Columbus, Lima, and Youngstown were among other cities demanding state action.

Cleveland's mayor, Harold H. Burton, ordinarily mild mannered, suggested today to labor officials that they "give the devil" to Gov. John W. Bricker for his disinclination to call the legislature. He said the current situation in Cleveland is inexcusable and a "crime."

Gov. Bricker apparently was standing by his insistence that other means of meeting the situation could be found. He expressed doubt whether rural legislators, frequently skeptical of cities' demands, would agree to appropriate additional funds for the state to match with cities' relief appropriations. Several legislative leaders joined him in doubting whether a special session would be fruitful.

Sales Tax Main Revenue.

Ohio gets its principal revenue from a 3 per cent sales tax, and Gov. Bricker expects the state to end the year with a balance in its treasury. Communities get their principal income from real estate taxes, and under the state constitution these may not exceed $1 a year on every $100 of assessed valuation. Voters, backed by organizations insisting there be no new taxes, have refused in recent years to permit many additional levies.

Gov. Bricker and Mayor Burton are Republicans.

Burton said Cleveland—America's sixth city, with a population of more than 900,000—would use regular operating funds before it would let relief clients starve, but he contended this would be unfair to city employés.

The relief crises have occurred frequently since depression's start. Reductions in federal work relief rolls recently resulted in transfer of some beneficiaries to the cities' direct relief rolls. This transfer, officials said, has tended to offset the reëmployment benefits accruing from better business.

REVEAL DEFICIT IN SINKING FUND OF KANSAS CITY

Kansas City, Mo., Nov. 22 (AP).—Auditors reported today a deficit of $8,854,510 in the city's sinking fund.

In a report to the citizens' audit committee the accountants said money had been taken from special funds for which taxes were levied and used for general expenses during rule by the Tom Pendergast Democratic machine.

They said 11 million dollars of water department bonds will come due in 1942 with the sinking fund almost bare.

A quick general overhauling of the city government to meet the emergency created by the shortages was recommended in the report.

Young Republican Dinner Will Honor Schnackenberg

Young Republicans of the 7th ward will give a testimonial dinner to State Representative Elmer J. Schnackenberg next Thursday night, Nov. 30, in honor of his services during 10 terms in the house at Springfield. The dinner will be held in the South Side Swedish club, 7330 Ridgeland avenue. Nicholas J. Bohling Jr. is president of the club.

Hundreds of searchers are scouring the foothills near Klamath Falls, Ore., (arrow on map) for Jack Maxwell (left), age 4, who wandered away from his home last Sunday.

HALF OF US GET TURKEY TODAY; HALF NEXT WEEK

Washington, D. C., Nov. 22 (AP).—Tomorrow is Thanksgiving in half of the country and families large and small will pull up their chairs to heavily loaded tables and make their annual choice between white meat, dark, or a little of both.

The rest of the nation will wait a week. It lives in states whose governors did not fall in line with President Roosevelt's decision to change the traditional holiday calendar and proclaim a week ahead of time Thanksgiving.

In this nationwide division there are three neutrals, Colorado, Mississippi and Texas. Their holiday schedule constitutes a double threat to the descendants of the wild turkeys which were Thanksgiving fare for the Pilgrim fathers. The neutrals will have Thanksgiving both tomorrow and Nov. 30.

MOONS AROUND SATURN ECLIPSE STAR TOMORROW

If you have a small telescope or go to Dearborn observatory of Northwestern university, you may see a unique drama of the heavens tomorrow night.

The event will be the partial eclipse of the star "B. D. plus 6 degress 259" by the semitransparent rings surrounding the planet Saturn. The first phase will take place at 9:17 p. m. as the star passes behind the planet. At 1:25 p. m. it will reappear to be seen dimly thru the planet's rings. These rings are composed of tiny "moonlets" revolving about Saturn.

Saturn is in the southern sky. It is 800 million miles from the earth and the star is trillions of miles away from Saturn.

Dearborn observatory, which has just been moved to its new location back of Patten gymnasium on the lake front, will be open to the public. Dr. Oliver J. Lee is the director.

LAD, 4, MISSING 3 DAYS IN WILD; 1,500 HUNT HIM

Officers Fear Oregon Boy Is Dead.

Klamath Falls, Ore., Nov. 22 (AP).—Searchers looked into abandoned wells and trod over brushy hillsides in an ever widening circle today, but found no trace of Irwin Jack Maxwell, 4 years old, who wandered from his parents' yard Sunday.

Nearly 1,500 persons, including Boy Scouts and school children, were examining the countryside for several miles on all sides of the Maxwell home. Nearly every able bodied man in Klamath Falls aided in the hunt. Searchers reported they covered all the area within the walking distance of a boy of 4.

Officers tonight virtually had abandoned hope of finding the lightly clad boy alive, fearing he had perished from hunger and exposure in subfreezing temperatures. Nevertheless, searchers prepared to renew the hunt tomorrow over the area previously covered.

Mother Still Hopes.

The lad's mother, Mrs. Wayne Maxwell, however, remained steadfastly hopeful that he would be found, and recalled the recent successful six day hunt in Arizona for Bruce Crozier, 7 years old, who survived near freezing temperatures.

The lad's father, Elmer Beebe, a mill worker, was with the posse. The child was given the name of Maxwell when his mother remarried.

Footprints are Found.

The youngster, who was freckled and redhaired, was last seen by a neighbor near the edge of town at 5:30 p. m. Sunday. Footprints believed to be those of the boy were traced for a distance east of town.

The Maxwell boy's disappearance is not unlike that of Harold Hixon, 6, and his brother Charles, 4, who wandered from a fishing camp near Elk mountain, southeastern Wyoming, last June. Eight hundred men who searched for them found footprints, but never a trace of the two boys, who were the sons of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hixon of McFaddon, Wyo.

PRESIDENT VISITS GEORGIA SPRINGS ON HOLIDAY TRIP

Warm Springs, Ga., Nov. 22 [Special.]—President Roosevelt returned to the Warm Springs infantile paralysis colony today for his annual Thanksgiving visit and a few extra days of rest. A special train brought him from Washington and he motored from the station to the little Pine mountain cottage he calls his "other home."

The President lost no time in taking a dip in the glass inclosed swimming pool. After his swim he retired to the seclusion of his cottage and had no visitors for the day. Members of his White House entourage said his principal purpose here is to get a good rest.

Tomorrow he will preside at a five course Thanksgiving dinner. Straws were drawn by 350 foundation patients to select 10 who will sit at the President's table with him and Mrs. Roosevelt. To Ann Smithers, 6 years old, of Frankfort, Ky., went the privilege of sitting at the President's right.

DAD POSTS $50,000 SO CHILDREN CAN COME TO DINNER

George R. Joslyn posted a $50,000 bond yesterday in insure that he will give his three children back to his wife after taking them for a Thanksgiving holiday on his farm in Michigan.

Joslyn is an electrical supply manufacturer. Mrs. Charlotte C. Joslyn, who lived until recently at 616 Center avenue, Lake Bluff, has a divorce suit pending. Yesterday Joslyn asked Judge Rudolph Desort's permission to take the children from their mother's care for the holiday. She objected. Joslyn offered to post the bond and the judge approved.

Walks Under Guard Gate; Woman Killed by Train

Mrs. Katie Vukovich, 48 years old, of 2417 Delaware street, Gary, was killed yesterday by an eastbound Pennsylvania railroad passenger train when she walked under a lowered gate at the crossing in the 2000 block on Broadway in Gary.

Bakeries Win Right to Put a Bit o' Grog in Mince Pies

Newark, N. J., Nov. 22 [Special].—It's o. k. for bakeries to sell grog-flavored mince pie, Commissioner D. Frederick Burnett ruled today, provided the customer can eat it with a fork. "If it is nought but something to eat with a fork and it is flavored with not more than one-half of one per cent of alcohol by volume—well and good," he said. "If it is afloat, however, and requires a spoon to partake—that's different."

The Gay Gift Buying Season Gets a Busy, Bustling Start

BY RHEA SEEGER.

The gift buying merry-go-round is in full swing. All the gift courts are freshly painted and filled with a new season's ideas. More concentrated information in convenient spots could not be desired. From Christmas cards to the last word in tricky new electrical equipment for the housewife, from luxury hosiery, perfumes, and jewelry, to swanky leather for exacting men on your lists, nothing has been neglected.

The newest hosiery in every high fashion shade is available in filmy chiffons for party clothes, in street shades for all the new suits, coats, and ensembles of dark and highly colored woolens and velvets, and in stunning shades for spectator and active sports costumes.

Winter sports togs sport the new long socks in bright or neutral colors. These are made of knitted string, smooth yarns, and the fuzzy featherweight angora in interesting cable stitch or chevron diagonals, or the vertical ribbed effects. White beige and stone gray are the popular all-purpose shades.

Queen's lace pattern hosiery in dull black is an extremely popular buy for the smart all-black costumes . . . velvet, velveteen fine wool, and stiff silks. It goes well with a cocktail costume or with the dress parade's suave dull black suede footwear in sandals, pumps, and French-tie oxfords for dress parade.

Intriguing silver fox hosiery, aptly named after the frosty silver color of the fox pelts, is new and just the gift for the conservative woman who wears dull black. So are the gunmetal shades with black heels that assure a sleek slenderness to the ankle lines.

Delicate side clox make tissue-thin chiffon hosiery the decorative accent for all the elegant ensembles of brocade, bengaline, stiff taffetas, and clinging silk jerseys. Some are mere traceries of dainty dots in leaf and stem design; others are more effective with wider bands, and some even shine with twinkling rhinestones or gold or silver beads.

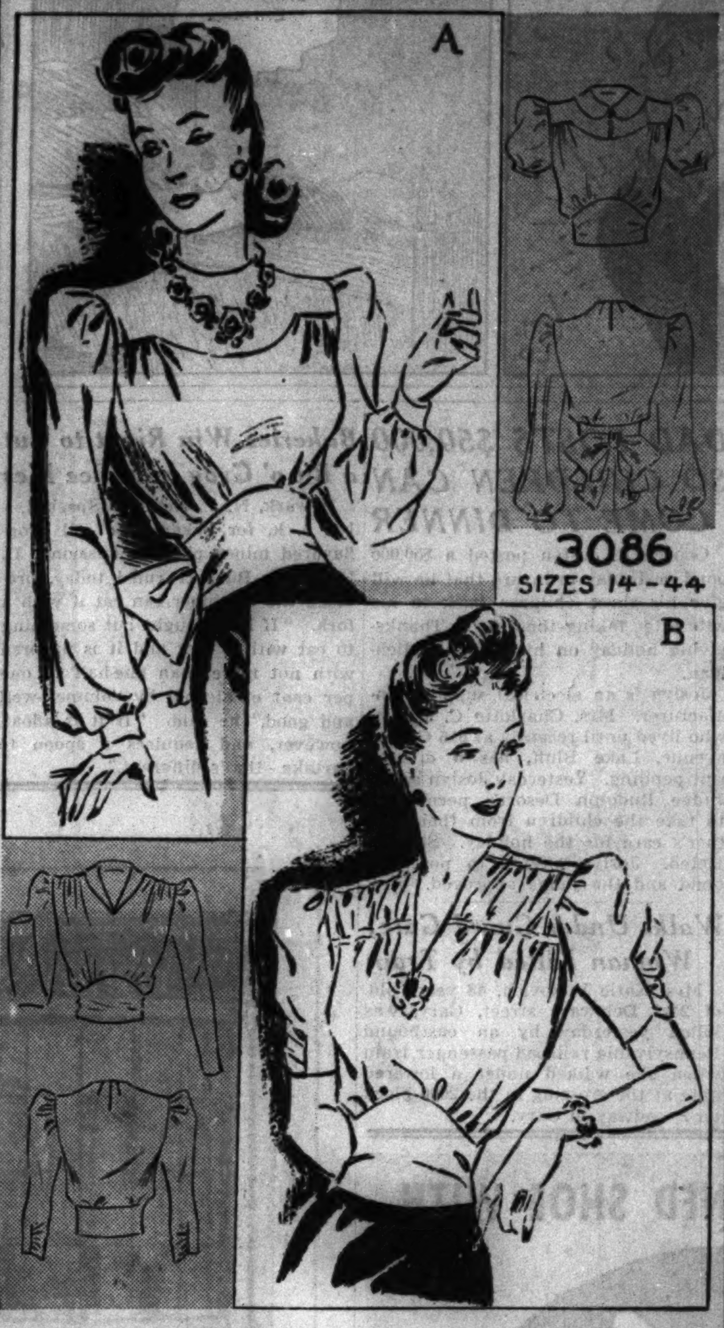
Two Smart Blouse Models



WOMAN'S AND MISS' BLOUSES.

This is a big season for the blouse and skirt idea. The pattern today creates two dressy models which are ideal for afternoon occasions and informal evening events. One version has an unusual shoulder yoke, very full sleeves, and a wide, corseted waistline. The other makes ingenious use of shirring at the shoulders and its sleeves are short. The waistline is one that dips up into the bodice. Both these models make up beautifully in satin and crêpe.

Style No. 3086 is designed for sizes 14 and 16, and 36, 38, 40, 42, and 44 inches bust measurement. Size 36 requires 2¼ yards of 39 inch material for yoke blouse; 2 yards of 39 inch fabric for shirring model.

Address orders for Clotilde patterns to Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central annex, NEW YORK CITY, including 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred—wrap it carefully) for each pattern ordered. IMPORTANT! Be sure to state clearly the number of the pattern and the size desired, and write your name and address plainly.

Dunham Dance Group Puts on a Dandy Show

BY CECIL SMITH.

One of the best shows in town is being presented at the Goodman theater this week by Katherine Dunham and her Negro dance group. The opening bill of the Art institute dance series, the program will be repeated tonight, tomorrow, and Saturday evenings, and is open to the general public.

The program touches upon a wide range of characteristic racial dance art, from the mystical, symbolic ceremonial movements of Haitian ritual to a group of riotous caricatures of "le jazz hot," in the Harlem manner. Rumbas from Cuba and Mexico are presented in striking contrast to lyric Peruvian peasant dances.

The concert ends with a sequence after Joel Chandler Harris' favorite Uncle Remus stories, entitled "Bre'r Rabbit an' de Tah Baby."

It is all illuminated by the high imagination, good taste, and solid command of choreography which are typical of Miss Dunham's work. Two notable male dancers, Talley Beatty and Archie Savage, figure exhilaratingly in her supporting company.

Only one poor attempt, the phony "Tableaux of Spanish Earth" [quite out of Miss Dunham's real metier], and badly planned and timed lighting mar an otherwise superlatively rewarding evening in the theater.

A gift of $2.20 signed "Subpena Fees" was received yesterday by Tribune Charities, Inc., for the Camp Algonquin fund. The summer camp for underprivileged mothers and children is operated by the United Charities. Yesterday's gift brought the total donated this year by Tribune readers to $935.77.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

A day of leisure is a wonderful day on which to take stock of your good looks or the lack of them. And if you find the lack of them overwhelming, to do some beauty chores that need doing.

Some time in the lazy intervals before or after eating turkey give yourself a merciless inspection in the mirror. What's the state of the familiar face? Sans makeup, does your skin look drab and dry? Reach for your jar of rich, rich cream and give it an oiling. While you're oiling, give it a little "exercise" by way of massage or gentle patting. Moderate stimulation will do a lot to erase the drab look—and, of course, you know what intensive creaming will do for the dryness.

Take a good, searching look at your eyebrows. Are they scraggy? Or is the line just too, too unflattering? Rearrange it just a bit by lifting it or drawing it down with the fingers. If you see an effect that's decidedly an improvement get out your tweezer and eyebrow pencil and go to work. Nothing extreme, remember! But a grooming and a little temperate trifling with nature won't do any harm.

Check on the state of your hair. Today is a perfect day on which to give it the brushing of its life.

It's also a good day on which to clean your brushes, your combs and your powder puffs.

How about your neck? Is it at least one shade darker than the skin of your face? It could do, then, with some judicious bleaching and some careful creaming.

Give thanks for what looks you have—but keep a weather eye on wear and tear and DO something about it every chance you get.

Looking at Hollywood

By Ed Sullivan

So This Is Hollywood?

Hollywood, Cal., Nov. 22.—It is a town of catch phrases. . . . Ann Sheridan's "oomph" made her celebrated, altho she has yet to make a decent picture or give a sock performance. . . . Orson Welles' beard has won him more publicity than the House of David. . . . Everybody is identified by easy references. . . . Claudette Colbert showed her legs in "It Happened One Night" and has had difficulty ever since in focusing attention on her mumming ability.

John Barrymore is better known out here because he has to read his lines from a blackboard than he is for being a pretty fair country actor. . . . Hugh Herbert will be known forevermore as "Woo-woo." . . . It took Clark Gable eight solid years of solid performances to get away from the "big ears" references.

There never is a story written about Greta Garbo in which the "I vant to be alone" phrase doesn't occur. . . . Poor Ned Sparks can't crack a laugh unless he isolates himself in an air raid shelter.

Norma Shearer—at heart a jitterbug, no clowning—always must pretend to be a great lady. . . . There is a group of so-called movie "intellectuals" who must get very exhausted trying to act intellectual all the time. . . . They knock themselves out seeking liberal causes to prove they're intellectual and yet invariably they are the ones who are the studio stinkers, forever battling and rowing in a most unliberal manner.

Errol Flynn, because of his buildup as a daring hero, never can take a train; he has to do everything the hard way. . . . If he travels from Beverly Hills to Los Angeles he simply MUST go by plane and make his landing in a parachute jump. . . . Edward G. Robinson, off the screen, loves to do dialect comedy, but he's gotta be a tough guy. . . . If Boris Karloff grows prize orchids it is a page 1 story because orchids and horror rôles don't go together.

The studios, and the fans as well, "type" their favorites. . . . Bette Davis was a hell raiser in "Of Human Bondage." . . . What she did to poor Leslie Howard was a caution. . . . Since then she's been a meanie in nine out of ten pictures. . . . If she didn't badger the hero the audiences would feel they'd been cheated.

Even the studios become type, and sometimes stereotyped. . . . The Warner Brothers turn out more gangsters in one year than you can find in the graduating class at Alcatraz and balance this gory total with a series of patriotic shorts. . . . Universal runs the gamut from the sweetness and light of Deanna Durbin to the horror flickers of Karloff, Lugosi, and Rathbone. . . . M-G-M features arty pictures, Mickey Rooney, and Tracy. . . . Columbia has had Capra and Joan Blondell.

Paramount has all of the radio favorites in personal appearances, including Miss Lamour and her non-radio sarong. . . . R-K-O is built around Ginger Rogers. . . . 20th Century-Fox has a corner on the kiddie market with Shirley Temple and Jane Withers, and co-ed appeal in Tyrone Power, Alice Faye, and Richard Greene. . . . Selznick puts libraries in technicolor and Disney skids between whimsy and Donald Duck.

It is bounded on the north by Menjou's mustache and on the south by Will Hays' choker collar. . . . It is a town in which the technicians are the finest group of craftsmen ever assembled. . . . If the actors, the authors, and the directors could keep in step with the technical experts this would be the renaissance of art. . . . Yet if the technicians strike for more dough the business men of the industry scream murder, which does not make sense to me.

It is bounded on the east by Jimmy Stewart's cowlick and on the west by C. Aubrey Smith's mustachios. . . . It cans its product and its ex-stars. . . . It's an industry where producers take yes for an answer and the only negative in town is the film.

It is a town of large families: The Marx brothers, the Ritz brothers, the Young sisters, the Lane sisters, the Bennetts, the Beerys, the McLaglens, and the Chaplins. . . . Yet Hitler and Mussolini, who encourage large families and give bonuses for 'em, won't play the pictures.

As Frank McHugh says in "Four Wives" when he learns that his wife is adopting a baby, "It destroys a man's initiative." . . . Johnny Weissmuller yelled his way into fame in the "Tarzan" series; Tracy won two academy awards for underplaying.

It is a community of page 1 flirtations, page 1 marriages, and page 1 divorces.

The cameras can make black appear to be white, and the process shots can make you believe that you're looking at a guy flying in the air when he's only 10 feet above the studio floor. . . . As yet, however, they haven't invented a trick to make a bad picture look like a good picture, but they are working on it.

Good Morning!

Kay ["How yo' all?"] Kyser addicts have been pacing the [illegible] waiting for the popular bandman's first movie to finish a-borning. And here it is at last, a nice wholesome happy "kid," genially satirizing Hollywood and showing up Papa Kay as a very good actor, who, after all, doesn't really do any acting at all—because the story of "That's Right—You're Wrong" was wisely written so as to permit him to be just himself. Which is, as most agree, a downright [illegible] guy.

The picture opens in the offices of a famous Hollywood motion picture company, where boss and staff are discussing the annual reports. . . . Business hasn't been so good, owing to the fact that four star pictures have been handing their dear public what they thought it should have instead of what it palpably wanted.

The boss has decided to do an about face. . . . Give the baby what it cries for. What it apparently is crying for is Kay Kyser and his band, who have been making a stupendously successful personal appearance tour of motion picture theaters.

Says Boss Forbes: "I WANT THAT BAND IN A PICTURE!"

The scene changes.

You discover Kay, the boys and his pretty songstress, Ginny Simms, just being themselves and having a whacking good time of it.

Comes Forbes' telegram. Will Kay et al. come to Hollywood and make a movie?

"NO!" says Kay, a thousand times no. His granny had told him to stay in his own back yard, and movie pictures AREN'T that. . . .

But the lads and the lassie are not. THEY want to be in pictures. SO, at last, Kay, who loves them true, gives in and off they go to sunny California.

Where they learn about movies from their makers. . . . The band starts to "go Hollywood," but is thrown back on its everyday haunches by Kay, who seeing how the wind blows, pretends to go likewise. This the lads and lassie cannot take.

They remove themselves and their beloved leader from besetting danger—but not until said leader has shown a chiseler how to really chisel and has put a bunch of smarties where they belong. . . . Back in their old hunting grounds, Kay Kyser and his band are having more wonderful times when—from a furious Boss Forbes who has returned from a convention to find his best laid plans all agley—comes another summons to Hollywood.

WHAT do you think happens?

I'll NEVER tell you. . . .

This is an all around enjoyable picture. Lots of laughs, lots of music, lots of good gags, some entertaining and unusual ensemble numbers and a strictly A1 cast.

Also on the Palace screen is "Call a Messenger," featuring Mary Carlisle and Billy Hallop.

At 6 o'clock this afternoon, Edward Everett Horton, now playing on the Erlanger stage in "Springtime for Henry," will make a personal appearance at the Palace in conjunction with the Kay Kyser picture in which he has a featured rôle.

See you tomorrow.

Good Earnings Reported from Fall Benefits

BY JUDITH CASS.

"It does not seem like Thanksgiving," every one has been complaining this week. Perhaps this is because the holiday is a week earlier than usual; it might be because the weather so far this fall has been unseasonably warm, or it may be that Americans are so thankful to be Americans every day in these troubled times that it is difficult to be especially full of thanks on any one day.

But whatever the reason, it hasn't been possible for most of us to get into the mood for a big, old fashioned Thanksgiving celebration this year. Probably a turkey dinner will do much to induce that mood!

Truly thankul, however, are the groups of hard working women—and men—who have given successful benefits this fall and the thousands whom those benefit parties will help during the winter to come. Many philanthropic organizations depend largely upon annual entertainments to balance their budgets, and in most cases it is the women's boards or auxiliaries who have the job of arranging the entertainments.

St. Luke's Fashion Show Earns $29,000.

The St. Luke's fashion show earned for the woman's board of the hospital about $29,000, not as large a sum as has been netted in other years, but a goodly one, nevertheless, and the top one of the list, as usual. The Service club will dispense $8,115 to the forty odd charities in which it is interested as a result of its 25th musical revue on Nov. 4.

Arden Shore was enriched by $10,000 by a dinner-dance given at the Drake hotel several weeks ago and a similar party netted $3,500 for the Margaret Etter crèche. The Evanston Junior league netted $7,800 from three performances of its famed Follies. Most of the money will go to the dental dispensary the league maintains. The Chicago league raised $1,000 at its all day open house at the Drake.

The woman's board of Grant hospital realized $4,700 by sponsoring the second performance of Katherine Cornell in "No Time for Comedy," a remarkable sum for that kind of undertaking. The St. Chrysostom's parish house Christmas Windows netted about $4,500 and the Chicago Lighthouse for the Blind will be richer by about $3,000 when the proceeds from the Javanese and Balinese dancers' performance at the Civic theater last Saturday night are all counted.

The Bowl of Rice supper-dance for Civilian Relief in China netted $842 and the Rector's guild of Trinity church in Highland Park cleared

The Bachelors' and Benedicts' annual Thanksgiving eve ball, one of the gayest parties of each winter, made its usual late start last night in the Grand ballroom of the Palmer House. Members of the receiving line, who are wives of the Benedicts on the committee, make an effort to be in their places at 11 o'clock, but what's the use of being too prompt when there's nobody to receive before midnight?

Dozens of dinners before the ball and the "Let's not be the first ones at the party" feeling cause the general tardiness.

Early comers found a faint odor of balsam lingering from the rather Christmasy decorations. Simple to the "nth" degree, but so effective were these decorations.

Rows of silvered firs banked the receiving line, which formed just outside the entrance to the ballroom. Entering between the two orchestras, that played continuously, guests found themselves on an oval dance floor, generous in size, across which they could glide to their tables. More of the fir trees, some silvered, some natural, were used on the balcony that encircles the room. Dramatizing these simple props and, incidentally, introducing a new color into traditional burgundy and gold, were hidden spotlights that cast a beautiful, pale blue light. More of the blue lights picked up the pale blue backgrounds behind the orchestras and the trees in the receiving line.

If the wives of three of the governors, Mrs. George A. Poole Jr., Mrs. Peter Fortune, and Mrs. James O. Heyworth, had peeked they couldn't have worn gowns that would have suited this new color more charmingly. Mrs. Poole's gown of pale blue that appeared almost gray was especially suited to her blonde curls and fresh complexion. The dress had cap sleeves, gathered into a knot at each shoulder, and was trimmed with a belt of gold links that fastened with ties of the dress material. Mrs. Poole and the other women who received, as well as many others, wore long white kid gloves.

Pinning to their shoulders the stunning corsage of dark centered white orchids the committee gave to their hostesses was the first duty, and a pleasant one, of the eight who received. The corsages were tied with bows of burgundy and gold ribbon. The men of the committee wore gardenia boutonnieres tied with the same colors.

The wives of three of the governors were not receiving: Mrs. George A. Ranney Jr., who is mourning for her grandmother, the late Mrs. Edward L. Ryerson; Mrs. Gaylord Donnelley, who is ill, and Mrs. William B. Cudahy, who has a severe cold. Those who greeted the guests in addition to Mrs. Fortune, Mrs. Poole, and Mrs. Heyworth were Mrs. Wyndham Hasler, Mrs. Hugh McBirney Johnston, Mrs. John Jay Borland II., Mrs. Potter Palmer III., and Mrs. Garfield King.

Mrs. Johnston's gown was a charming one of black taffeta and lace. Crimson velvet ribbon trimmed the taffeta underskirt, over which the lace fell. Mrs. Hasler wore a white fringed gown and pearls. Arriving with her husband from the Borlands' dinner party, she wore a handsome red velvet wrap trimmed with ermine.

Mrs. Fortune, a bride of last winter, was receiving for the first time. She is tall, slim, and very brunette. Her gown was a romantic one, consisting of a full, full skirt of tulle, and a long, tightly fitting bodice of lamé. She, too, wore pearls. Her evening wrap was of eggplant tweed, trimmed with a mink collar, and she carried a muff of mink.

The B's and B's ball calls for one's newest and best evening gown. One of the most unusual and striking ones at the party was not a new one, however. It was a ball gown of two generations ago, one that Mrs. Charles H. ReQua of Winnetka won beaux and dances in before the turn of the century.

Wearing it last night was Mrs. ReQua's granddaughter, Mrs. Alexander Chartis Bell, one of the six debutantes of last year who were attending their first B's and B's. And Mrs. Bell looked as up to the minute as any of her contemporaries, for the dress had long sleeves, a wasp waist, and a bustle, all in high fashion again. The heavy material of which it was made was embroidered with pearl sequins. Mrs. Bell wore purplish flowers in her hair.

Miss Mary Hale, Miss Sally Perry, and Miss Peggy Sargent all made their debuts at the B's and B's in white. Miss Perry, who usually does wear white to a ball, gave a dinner at home before the party. Miss Hale, whose full skirted marquisette gown was trimmed with silver, entertained at the Casino with her brother, George E. Hale. Miss Sargent, in bouffant tulle, was among the jolly group that gathered for cocktails at Miss Mary Harrington's and then had dinner Dutch treat at a hotel.

Gamma Kappa Delta of St. Luke's procathedral, Evanston, will hold its third annual Thanksgiving ball on Saturday at the Orrington hotel. David Terrill is chairman of the party.

According to CULBERTSON

[Copyright: 1939: By Ely Culbertson.]

One of the worst foes of good defense is panic. No one likes to go to sleep with an ace. But it is far better to let the opponents make an occasional overtrick than to hand them all close contracts without a struggle. In today's hand it was East's haste that permitted South to make his contract.

North, dealer.
East-West vulnerable.

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
Pass	1 diam.	1 spade	Pass
2 hearts	2 clubs	Pass	3 diam.
3 spades	4 diam.	4 spades	Pass
Pass	Double	Pass	Pass
Pass

North's two heart bid was too ambitious for his actual holding. He might have known that he would have to show spade support sooner or later and, since his hand was worth only one bid, he should have raised to two spades at once.

West opened the queen of clubs and East discouraged a continuation of the suit by playing his deuce. He was in a hurry to get whatever diamond tricks were coming to him, but his failure to insist on a club continuation ruined the defense of the hand.

West obeyed orders by shifting to his fourth best diamond and East dropped South's diamond king under his ace. East now led the king of clubs, forcing dummy to ruff, but it was too late. A low heart was returned from dummy, East winning with the ace. East returned a trump, dummy winning with the jack. Declarer now ruffed a diamond and ruffed a second club in dummy. He returned to his own hand once more by a diamond ruff and drew trumps. He thus made six trumps in his own hand, two ruffs in the dummy, and two heart tricks, fulfilling his contract.

Notice the difference if East signals for a club continuation at the first trick. West leads a second club and dummy ruffs. When a low heart is led from the dummy at the third trick East takes his ace and returns a trump. If declarer wins this trick in the dummy he cannot return to his own hand to get a second club ruff. If he attempts to do so by leading a diamond East will take the diamond ace and kill the ruff by leading another round of trumps. And if South wins the trump lead in his own hand he can ruff a second club in dummy, but then has no way of returning to his own hand. East can trump a heart lead or win a diamond lead with his ace. In either event he then will cash a high club to defeat the contract.

Edith Mason Repeats Famed Butterfly Role

BY EDWARD BARRY.

Edith Mason returned to the Civic Opera house last night after a two year absence to give her famous enactment of Madame Butterfly, a rôle with which she was closely identified during the fabulous 1920s. She brought the music gloriously to life, and made it convey vividly to the audience the delicacy, tenderness, and faith of the luckless little Japanese.

Miss Mason's voice was dewy and fresh thru most of the part. Her colorings were beautiful in themselves and apt in their relation to the emotional states which she was trying to communicate. Only in a very few places, like the climax of "One Fine Day" and one or two peaks in the entrance music, did her voice become thin and strained.

The Pinkerton was Joseph Bentonelli, who started the part rather stiffly, but who allowed the heady music of the last part of the first act to warm him up. When this warming up was accomplished, he did several moving things with the music.

Ada Paggi made Suzuki a tragic girl right from the word go. George Czaplicki's Sharpless was sonorous and dignified. Giuseppe Cavadore, complete with straw hat and wing collar, made a comical little Goro. Douglas Beattie, Lillian Padorr, and Anthony Marlowe sang the Bonze, Kate Pinkerton, and Yamadori, respectively. Henry Weber's baton helped keep the whole performance alive.

Mrs. Dorothy White Wed to Col. Stehlin in New York

New York, Nov. 22 [Special].—Announcement was made today of the marriage here last Sunday of Mrs. Dorothy M. White to Col. Joseph Stehlin of Miami Beach, Fla. The ceremony was performed at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Alfred Stamford White, by Judge John J. Freschi. Gordon Hoover, a son of the bride by her marriage to Earl H. Hoover of Chicago, was best man. The bride's father, the late Alfred Stamford White, was three times president of the Chicago Board of Trade and a founder of the Boy Scouts in America.

Front Views and Profiles By June Provines

Famous Invitation.

Quip picked up over short wave radio from Berlin (by Ted Weber from a CBS listening post): An entertainer named Charlie, who broadcasts parodies of American popular songs from "Charlie's Cabaret," made the observation that Mae West was to be part of Mr. Chamberlain's campaign against German submarines. Mae was slated to go along with the English convoys and repeat her famous invitation, "Won't you come up and see me some time," to German U-boat commanders lurking on the bottom of the Atlantic.

Bookies' theme song (as paraphrased by Clarence Johnson): "O, we ain't gonna bet no Moe."

Cuff Notes.

Self-punishment note: When Kirsten Flagstad, opera's greatest drawing card, who arrives to sing in Tristan and Isolde with the opera Friday evening, thinks she has sung well, she allows herself a pint of champagne after the performance. If she is not pleased with her performance she punishes herself by drinking beer. . . . That ring that sparkled on William Gaxton's hand at the opening performance of Leave It to Me once belonged to Diamond Jim Brady. Brady gave it to Raymond Hitchcock. Hitchcock's widow, Flora Zabelle, gave it to Gaxton as a memento of her husband.

John Barbirolli, conductor of the New York Philharmonic-Symphony orchestra that will play a concert at the Auditorium Sunday afternoon—a benefit for the Children's Memorial hospital—is a cellist, but he started out to be a violinist. As a lad of seven he was playing the violin, walking nervously up and down in his home in London as he practiced. His grandfather, irritated by his ambulatory habits, once said irritably:

"Let him take up some other musical instrument—the cello, perhaps. At least he will have to sit down for that." And by the time he was 11 Barbirolli was appearing at Queen's hall, London, playing the cello.

Star Gazing for Health.

Mr. and Mrs. William R. Becker and daughter, Marcelle, motored to Chicago Sunday, where they spent the day visiting with relatives. They also visited Adler's sanitarium.

Danger on the Border

By FREDERICK R. BECHDOLT

[Copyright: 1939: By Frederick R. Bechdolt]

SYNOPSIS.

Leonard speeds west by car after finding that the sample of ore sent to him by his sick friend, Dillon, is rich in gold. In Copper City he picks up two strange companions, Mrs. Sebastian, who owns a Mexican roadhouse, and Louis Mestres, who claims to be a line rider. They leave just after the pay car of the Golconda mine. In a lonely spot they come upon the car—all occupants murdered, and the three holdup men still on the scene. They chase Leonard's car with a machine gun. Mestres drops tacks in the road and stops their pursuit. He recognizes one bandit as the mine's paymaster. Paul Collins, a crooked local assayer, tests Dillon's ore and gives him a false report. He enlists the aid of another rascal, Kent, to cheat Dillon. Dillon breaks the sad news to Pat, an orphaned girl who runs an old hotel, and who had staked him, then goes off to collect his tools. Arriving at Pat's hotel Leonard doesn't get a chance to ask her about Dillon. He sees her slip out in the night with a gun. Distrusting Kent, Collins sends two hirelings to follow Dillon and locate his claim. Kent, suspicious, puts Papago, an old watchman on the trail. Taylor, the Golconda's paymaster, arranges with Kent to have Leonard blamed for his crime. Kent demands that Collins show him Dillon's ore.

INSTALMENT X.

KIDNAPED.

There was a certain high grade stringer which had awakened large hopes in Collins when he first came to Golconda, a tight little streak of quartz whose richness had promised great things until it feathered out within 20 feet of the surface. Collins had some specimens from it in his desk drawer. He could guide Kent out to this claim which was abandoned now, and in the meantime he could jump Dillon's ledge, while Kent was learning that this ground was worthless.

"I'll take you to the office and turn the ore over to you," Collins said.

"Let's go." Kent rose from his chair. He was thinking, "I'll get the rock, that's all I need. I'll know where it comes from before midnight." He smiled. Collins saw the smile and it was as if the air in the room had turned chilly. The two of them set forth for the assay office.

. . . .

When Pat left the old hotel the plan which she had made after Dillon's departure that afternoon did not seem so alluring. There is something about darkness that dampens enthusiasm, it produces all manner of fancied complications with which it surrounds projects which looked easy in daylight. And this affair on which she was embarking would have an ugly name if it were to happen that some one caught her at it.

The feeling of guilt which comes to every honest person who is undertaking to violate the printed laws in cold blood, made her glance over her shoulder more than once as she hurried along the deserted road toward Golconda. But the pursuers whom she imagined did not materialize. When she reached the first street light in the new town she slackened her pace abruptly, it seemed as if she could not go on. Then she pressed her lips tight.

The block was deserted, the nearest persons in sight were several loafers before a doorway beyond the next cross street. She turned a corner, and when she reached the alley which paralleled the main street, she plunged into its shadows. She had no trouble finding the back door of the assay office.

A narrow flight of wooden steps led up to it. She was trembling so badly when she reached the top that she had to try three times before she was able to insert the pass key which she had taken from the lobby desk. The room which she entered was dark, the air was heavy with the biting odor of chemicals. She felt her way to the door beyond, and when she opened it, the faint light which came through the windows fronting the street showed her the desk. She stood there for a moment gazing at it.

Some one was passing on the sidewalk, she waited until the man had gone by. She took a small flashlight from her handbag and crossed the room to the desk. She glanced at the street again—there was no one in sight out there. She turned on the flash and a small bright circle fell upon the desk top. There in the middle lay the paper she was seeking—the correct assay report which Collins had left after handing the false returns to Dillon.

She had been sure that she would find it here. And, now that she had it before her, she forgot the ugly premonitions which had been assailing her, her hand was quite steady when she picked it up. Her back was to the street, she held the flashlight in one hand and the paper slip in the other. The instinct which had told her of Collins' dishonesty had not needed this confirmation as far as she was concerned, but the realization that she had the proof here in her hand left her exultant.

She did not hear the key in the lock of the street door. She did not hear the latch as it was turned. The two men on the sidewalk took good care to make no sound. The first knowledge she had of their presence came with a gush of cooler air. She turned and faced them, the paper in her hand. She caught her breath sharply and her eyes widened, but she did not speak.

She remembered the little pistol which she had taken from the cash drawer in the hotel. She had placed her handbag on the desk, now she laid the flashlight down beside it. But that was as far as she got.

Kent plucked the paper from her fingers. He was smiling, but his opaque black eyes were poisonous as he bent them on the report.

"So?" he said.

Collins was standing a pace behind his companion. His face was colorless, his lips were twisted. Kent turned to him quickly.

"My car is parked across the street from the office. Go, tell the driver to bring it here. The other departed without a word. When he had gone, Kent nodded to the girl.

"We'll talk this over by ourselves." His voice was even softer than usual. She shivered a little as she looked into his eyes. "There is," he went on quietly, "no need to make a fuss about it."

She did not believe him. She knew, as well as if she had been reading his innermost mind, that he was lying, that he had some other plan in mind. For an instant she thought of screaming, and then she remembered what would follow if she gave an alarm. The knowledge that she had done what she had, in order to gain possession of this evidence, made her forget its importance as a means of defense against any accusation that he might bring. When the car drew up at the curb, she preceded Kent out of the room.

The driver was holding the rear door open. She stepped inside. Collins was standing on the curb. Kent spoke to him under his breath.

"I'll look after her. I'll see you tomorrow morning." He got in beside her.

The car was going away from Kent's office, not toward it. Pat stirred in the seat. Her handbag was in her lap. There had been no effort to search her. She could feel the hardness of the little pistol. It held two cartridges, but she could not bring herself to open the bag. At the next corner they turned toward the right. They were, she told herself, going toward the boundary now.

The driver was making good speed. But in the beginning he had held down to a conservative pace. Neither he nor Kent nor Collins, who was entering his office at the time, had seen the dark figure in the shadows of the next doorway, and there was no one else nearby to get a glimpse of it as it shot forth into the street and pulled itself up on the spare tire rack.

During the most of that first half-mile, Pat was in a daze. The thing which she had gone through had left her badly shaken. Her mind began to function slowly. She was well on her way to San Ilario before it dawned on her that she was in grave danger. She obeyed the impulse which came over her, and she screamed.

"That won't do any good," Kent said. He laid his hand on her as he spoke, and the springs lurched to a chuck hole, the hand slipped to the bag in her lap, his fingers felt something hard. He snatched the bag and opened it, he took the weapon from it and thrust it into his pocket.

"If you make any more noise," he told her, "we'll get rough with you." He leaned forward and said something in the driver's ear, the man nodded.

Flattery Is an Able Ally in Game of Love

BY DORIS BLAKE.

[Copyright: 1939: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

How to, and how not to, flatter a man should be classed as one of the fine arts, because it requires subtle technique. Like too many sweets, flattery, when it is administered in too great quantity, sickens the recipient and makes him want to avoid getting himself involved in a sirupy atmosphere soon again.

But knowing what a man-getter this flattery business is, we often advise our readers to flatter their way into men's hearts. That this advice has not always worked is evidenced by some complaints we've been receiving lately from women who've tried this method and failed miserably. As we don't know these disillusioned complainers personally, we can only point out to them certain points in flattery technique that they may not have observed.

For instance, about the only variety most men can get into their costumes is different colored neckties, socks, shirts, handkerchiefs. So a man's lady-of-the-evening is smart to await her opportunity and mention what a pretty tie and color combination he is wearing. This usually pleases, and after a safe period you can tell him you think he has a very nice profile. Care must be taken not to "gush" about your compliments. Just make them casual, and your compliment will "go over."

But the best method of all is telling him with a sweet smile and a soft look in your eyes that you enjoy being with him. No words are really necessary when you know how to smile and use your eyes properly.

Should you fail in either of these flattery attempts, you can almost always win your point by encouraging him to talk about himself, and letting him know by an occasional remark that you think everything he says and does is just about all right!

Good Earnings Reported from Fall Benefits

$1,100 by sponsoring Cornelia Otis Skinner in a performance last week.

Concert Funds Will Go to Clinic.

The money raised by a concert by the New York Philharmonic Symphony orchestra next Sunday afternoon in the Auditorium theater under the auspices of the boards of the Children's Memorial hospital will be used in the work of the new clinic. The interior will be ready for use this winter.

This latest addition to the hospital's group of buildings is the gift of Miss Gwethalyn Jones and is given in memory of her uncle, Thomas D. Jones, at one time president of the board. The new clinic is for the purpose of educating parents in the care of children who come under its observation.

Thanksgiving Rice Bowl teas, sponsored in various communities by the Church Committee for China Relief, will inaugurate a new phase of the movement to interest church men and women in the plight of Chinese war victims.

The first of these teas will be given in the guild hall of St. Chrysostom's church next Tuesday afternoon at 4 o'clock. Mrs. John Alden Carpenter, Mrs. Richard T. Crane, Mrs. Harley F. McNair, and Mrs. D. Mark Cummings are among the sponsors.

Hunt Clubs Will Hold Meets Today.

Thanksgiving to fox hunters means a good meet before dinner, and surely no one is better able to cope with turkey and all its fixings and mince pie than a man or woman who just is back from a drag hunt. The Mill Creek hounds will meet at 11 o'clock at the stables, the Longmeadow hounds an hour earlier at the kennels, the Wayne hunt at 10 o'clock at the Dunham Woods Riding club, and the Du Page County hunt in the early afternoon.

The luncheon that will follow the Mill Creek hunt in the clubhouse will not be the jolly affair that it would have been if it had not been for the fatal automobile accident Sunday of Mrs. John M. Hutchins.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest S. Ballard have invited their fellow members of the Longmeadow to a Tom and Jerry party after this morning's run. Saturday Mr. and Mrs. Frederic Burnham are giving a tea following the afternoon meet of the Longmeadow.

Two Engagements Told at Parties.

Romantic news of interest was revealed at two Thanksgiving eve dinner parties. At their home in Hinsdale Mr. and Mrs. Lee Charlton Budge announced the engagement of their daughter, Suzanne Berkeley Budge, to Frederick Lloyd Baker Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick L. Baker, also of Hinsdale.

At her home in Detroit, Mrs. James T. Keena announced the engagement of her daughter, Aileen, to William McKee Dunn, son of Mr. and Mrs. Morrill Dunn, also of Detroit, but formerly of Chicago.

Miss Budge studied at Pine Manor and in Paris and spent a year at the Chicago Academy of Fine Arts. Mr. Baker is a graduate of the Asheville school and attended the University of Wisconsin. No date has been set for the wedding. Mr. Baker is a nephew of Robert F., Walter S., and George R. Carr, all of Chicago.

Mr. Dunn is the brother of Mrs. Keith Carpenter of Lake Forest.

Yesterday afternoon in Grace church, Hinsdale, Miss Barbara Hanna, daughter of the Philip S. Hannas, became the bride of Edwin Sittler Englebert. The Rev. Richard E. Lee performed the ceremony, and a small reception followed at the Hanna home in Hinsdale.

Musical Clubs at Cornell to Give Concert in City

The Cornell Musical clubs will give a concert in the grand ballroom of the Stevens hotel on Wednesday evening, Dec. 27. Following the program there will be a dance. The proceeds from the performance and the dance will go to the regional alumni scholarship fund, by which the alumni send two students from Chicago to the university each year. H. E. Gardiner is general chairman of the committee on arrangements.

Having Faith in Child Does Not Mean Blindness

By GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

[Copyright: 1939: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

To have faith in your children is not synonymous with making them think they are perfect. It is not synonymous with making them think they can achieve anything and everything. That would be a "buildup," not a building up of a fundamental attitude.

To make a young person think he is perfect, to make him think he is capable of any and every achievement, is to create a false confidence which experience will show up.

It will protect him too much from fact, it will be so totally different from the world and people at large, that when he meets life and people as they are he is sure to be hurt, discouraged, and bewildered.

Naturally we do not want to duplicate in our homes the hard, the unsavory, the unjust situations that at some time all of us find ourselves in as we mix about in the world. But neither do we want to so coddle our children, so falsely build up their ago, that outside experience is a shock and a deflation.

Honest criticism at home, just correction, the frank pointing out of cause and effect, well earned praise, the recognition of ability and talent and success, and also the simple acceptance of limitations [such as: "We can't all shine and excel at everything—some of us can do some things—some others"] give a child a sense of proportion about himself, help him to know himself. With such a realistic viewpoint he can meet the world and find himself in it.

GREEN RAPS PLAN TO PUT UNIONS IN TRUST CATEGORY

Law Forbids Prosecution, He Informs Murphy.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 22.—William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, today criticized Assistant Attorney General Thurman Arnold for announcing that labor unions would face federal prosecution under antitrust laws whenever they used their rights of association in an illegal way.

Thurman Arnold.

Arnold, who is chief of the justice department's antitrust division, listed five types of what he termed unreasonable restraints by unions as examples of cases which will be prosecuted.

Green wrote a letter to Attorney General Frank Murphy inquiring whether Arnold's enunciation of policy was the official attitude of the justice department and the government.

Counter to Law, He Says.

"I am making this inquiry," he wrote, "because the position taken by Mr. Arnold constitutes a grave perversion of the [Clayton] law and runs directly counter to the clearly expressed intent of the congress.

"The act specifically and completely exempted labor organizations, and members and officers thereof, from prosecution under the Sherman antitrust law on any grounds or pretexts."

Green said he wanted it made clear that the A. F. of L. does not contend that illegal activities of any labor union, or its members or officers, should go unpunished. He urged that such offenses be prosecuted under the proper statute.

"But we insist," he wrote Murphy, "that the anti-trust laws cannot and must not be invoked against labor organizations, because these laws themselves do not permit such prosecution. That is fundamental and unassailable."

Reviews Debate on Bill.

The federation head quoted the language of the law and statements made upon the floor of congress to support his position.

"In the face of the clear language of the law and the clear intent of congress, as expressed in the debate before passage of the act, how can the position of Mr. Arnold be justified?" Green asked Murphy.

Green noted that Arnold's attitude was in contrast with other actions he has taken. Joseph A. Padway, counsel for the A. F. of L., has informed Green, he said, that Arnold announced that he was preparing a brief in behalf of the government, intervening as a friend of the court, upholding the contention of a C. I. O. union in the Apex Hosiery case that it could not be sued for damages under the antitrust laws.

ALIENS IN PENN. MUST REGISTER UNDER NEW LAW

Harrisburg, Pa., Nov. 22 (AP).—Registration of aliens is to be started in Pennsylvania Dec. 1 under an act of this year's legislature.

The act has been attacked in federal court, but no decision has been given.

It requires annual registration with the department of labor and industry, a fee of $1 and an identification card. Aliens living in the United States since 1908 or who had children in the United States army during the world war are exempted.

Illinois School Aid Claims Reach Total of $12,500,000

Springfield, Ill., Nov. 22 (AP).—John A. Wieland, state superintendant of public instruction, today reported claims for state aid in Illinois schools during the year totalled $12,540,693. The amount was $457,336 higher than last year's total. Cook county claims aggregated $3,818,856, of which $2,936,650 came from Chicago schools.

HEART ATTACK IS FATAL.

CHRYSLER-C. I. O. PEACE STALLED BY NEW DEMAND

Control of Foremen Is Sought by Union.

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 22 [Special].—Negotiations in the 48 day old dispute in the Chrysler automobile plants were blocked today by what the company contends is an attempt of the C. I. O. to take over the corporation's supervisory forces and thus control both sides of its labor matters.

K. T. Keller.

The new obstacle to attempts to return 100,000 men to work was disclosed by K. T. Keller, president of the Chrysler corporation. He said a collective bargaining conference in behalf of foremen had been sought with officials of the Dodge truck division, Chrysler subsidiary.

Altho the demand, made by the United Foremen and Supervisors union, local 918 of the C. I. O., was withdrawn tonight, it was responsible for stalling negotiations thruout the day and contributing to the deadlock of settlement negotiations.

Try to Control Supervisors.

"Having already obtained exclusive bargaining rights over our employés, the C. I. O. now seeks to take our supervisory forces," President Keller said in a public statement.

"In practice, C. I. O. people purporting to represent management would be bargaining with C. I. O. representatives of the employés. Its people would act on both sides of important bargaining proceedings and management would have little, if any, voice in these proceedings.

"This is the crux of the situation. The C. I. O. again makes apparent its intention to accomplish by one means or another the objective which has been clearly apparent since the slowdown strike started, namely, their people controling our production."

Keller said he received the demand Tuesday from Ralph N. Branson, chairman of the Dodge truck division of the United Foremen and Supervisors' local.

Issue Must Be Settled First.

Tonight R. J. Thomas, president of the C. I. O. United Automobile Workers of America, to which Chrysler employés belong, announced that the foremen's union had withdrawn the request for a collective bargaining conference.

However, Herman L. Weckler, Chrysler vice president, said the mere withdrawal of the demand was not sufficient assurance it would not be made again. He indicated that tomorrow's Thanksgiving day negotiations will be devoted exclusively to the new issue.

THURSDAY. NOVEMBER 23. 1939.

IOWA EXTENDS ANDERSON'S CONTRACT 4 YEARS

BIG 10 PREPARES TO SELECT ITS MOST VALUABLE

Tribune to Award Trophy 16th Time.

Past Winners

WINNERS of The Chicago Tribune trophy for the most valuable football player in the Western conference since establishment of the award in 1924 follow:

1938—Howard Weiss, Wisconsin.
1937—Corbett Davis, Indiana.
1936—Vernon Huffman, Indiana.
1935—Jay Berwanger, Chicago.
1934—Pug Lund, Minnesota.
1933—Joe Laws, Iowa.
1932—Harry Newman, Michigan.
1931—Clarence Munn, Minnesota.
1930—Wesley Fesler, Ohio State.
1929—Bill Glassgow, Iowa.
1928—Chuck Bennett, Indiana.
1927—Ken Rouse, Chicago.
1926—Benny Friedman, Michigan.
1925 Tim Lowry, Northwestern.
1924—Red Grange, Illinois.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Who are the most valuable football players to their teams in the Western conference? And when these 10 young men are elected by their teammates at the conclusion of Saturday's games, which one of them will win the sterling silver football to be awarded for the 16th time this season by THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE?

The first award was made in 1924, and that year Red Grange of Illinois won the silver football. Until 1930 all conference football players were eligible. Since then, however, each Big Ten squad has nominated for its candidate the player it considers most valuable to its team. Each will receive a miniature white gold football with his university's monogram and engraved to indicate the purpose of the award.

Committee Names Winner.

A committee composed of the 10 Western conference coaches, 10 veteran officials, Arch Ward, sports editor of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE; Maj. John L. Griffith, Big Ten athletic commissioner, and the writer, select the most valuable player in the conference from this list of 10. Each elector casts a vote for first place and another for second place. First place votes count two points and second place one point. The largest point total elects.

Howard Weiss, Wisconsin full back, was voted the most valuable player in the Big Ten last year. The runner-up was Ralph Heikkinen, Michigan guard. Other most valuable players for 1938 were: Chicago, Lew Hamity; Illinois, James Hodges; Indiana, Robert Haak; Iowa, Erwin Prasse; Minnesota, Larry Buhler; Northwestern, Robert Voigts; Ohio State, James Langhurst, and Purdue, Joe Mihal.

An Award of Merit.

The most valuable selection at each Big Ten university has come to be the highest award a boy can receive. Its merit is that he is chosen by his team mates to the Big Ten honor group. In the customary mine run of All-American teams, politics, sectional rivalry, and team success or failure are considered as often as individual merit. Moreover, only upper classmen, and generally seniors, are named on the theory that a sophomore can't be that fine a player and if he is he still has two more seasons ahead of him.

In naming the most valuable player on each squad, the players are not confined to seniors or juniors, nor do they have the task of naming for certain positions. The only requirement is that a majority of the squad decides which squad member contributed the most to the team.

When the 10 most valuable players are named, they can all be back field men, linemen, and for that matter, all 10 could play the same position. This has no bearing on the final award by the committee of 23. Last year, Ohio State named Jim Langhurst, a sophomore, as its most valuable player. Iowa named Erwin Prasse, a junior. Langhurst played full back, and Prasse was an end. Three of the conference's most valuable players were tackles. Two were guards.

It's Up to the Players.

No vote will be taken until the list of 10 is completed. No player can be considered, of course, unless he is nominated by his team mates. If Michigan, for instance, believes Forest Evashevski, blocking quarter back, is the most valuable, he will be considered in the final election.

If Michigan believes Tom Harmon, its right half back, should have that award at Michigan, he then has a chance to be awarded the silver football. These men may not be named for all Michigan's players are eligible for selection by the Wolverine squad.

The Big Ten championship team never has dominated the final voting. In the string of Minnesota championships—four in five years—Pug Lund was the only Gopher to receive The Tribune trophy.

The individual winners will be presented in these pages as quickly as possible after the final conference games Saturday.

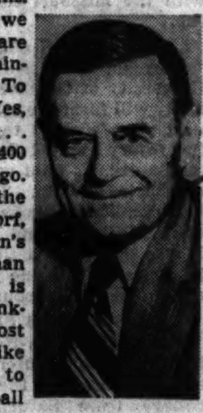
In the Wake of the News

BY ARCH WARD.

JUST to keep the records straight, it may be well to call to your attention that Harry Thomas has not retracted a word of his confession that his fights with Max Schmeling and Tony Galento were fakes. . . . Furthermore you may be certain he won't. . . . Meanwhile let the boxing commissions' hearings go on. . . . The testimony they develop is interesting, as well as amusing. . . . One night not long ago Coach Zuppke kept his players out later than usual for practice. . . . The boys began kidding among themselves about hunger pains. . . . Finally one yelled, "When do we eat?" . . . Zuppke replied, "What are you worried about; you have a training table, haven't you?" . . . To which all the players bellowed, "Yes, but they don't serve breakfast." . . . Ohio State lost approximately $400 on its football game with Chicago. . . . Helper Charles Collins of the Line reports that Bob Waldorf, younger brother of Northwestern's coach, not only is a great lineman for the Missouri Tigers but also is an exceptionally fine student, ranking close to or at the top in most of his classes. . . . Isn't it just like a University of Chicago alumnus to be concerned about a football player's academic rating? . . . Don Ameche, screen and radio celebrity, will attend the Southern California-Notre Dame game Saturday. . . . He now is visiting friends in Chicago. . . . Leo [the Shadow] Hayden, member of the Chicago Blackhawks office staff, and Eleanor Schultz, 4421 South Troy street, will be married in Peace church, 43d street and California avenue, this afternoon. . . .

Don Ameche.



Bob Zuppke.

Headline writers who have been referring to Milt Piepul, Notre Dame full back, as the "Piepul's choice," etc., will be glad to learn that the young man's name is pronounced like Pepple, not Peeple. . . . The outstanding freshman prospect at Michigan this fall is Rudy Sengel, 215 pound tackle from Du Pont Manual High in Louisville, where Ray Baer, former Wolverine guard, is the coach. . . . George Ceithaml, quarter back from Chicago's Lindblom High school, also gets top billing. . . . Tom Turner, Houston catcher obtained by the White Sox in the draft, planned to be a printer until he joined one of the St. Louis Cardinals' baseball schools. . . . The Cardinals subsequently signed him, but lost his services under the rule that limits the number of times a player can be optioned. . . . Cornell has a half back named Richard Cornell Jr. . . . Notre Dame has turned down more than 30,000 ticket applications for the Southern California game. . . . Tris Speaker and Tack Hardwick are in Chicago in the interest of the newly organized Indoor Professional Baseball league. . . . If Elmer Layden looks mad these days it isn't entirely because of the approach of the Southern California game. . . . The Notre Dame coach and his three sons have had three shots of antirabies vaccine within the last week. . . . A postmortem examination showed their cocker spaniel, which died the Tuesday after Notre Dame's defeat by Iowa, had been suffering from the disease. . . . Wagon Wheels.

[A Thanksgiving Thought.]

The wagon wheels of the pioneers
Left their marks on the old dirt roads,
Ruts and ridges and furrows deep
As they toiled along with their loads;
The rumbling wheels of those creaking carts
Sank deep in that prairie mire,
But every onward foot of the way
Was lit by faith's gleaming fire.

The caravans of those pioneers
Left their impress upon our souls,
Beacons of hope and of courage
As onward they pressed to their goals;
The creak, creak, creak of those wagon wheels
Still echo down the years,
To remind us thru them our America
Was freed from the bondage of fears.

O wagon wheels of those pioneers,
Our thanks for the standards you gave—
May the whispering grass of the open plains
Breathe this prayer o'er each lonely grave!

—Jazbo of Old Dubuque.

GRIFFITH OFFERS BASEBALL LAW TO HALT YANKS

Would Curtail Farm Clubs Majors Can Own.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

If the magnates want to do anything about hamstringing the Yankees or any other club which in time might build up a similar baseball autocracy, they'll have their chance when the American and National leagues hold their annual joint session Dec. 9 in Cincinnati.

The subject—not aimed particularly at the Yanks, of course—will come up for vote when the 16 owners go into a huddle with Commissioner K. M. Landis. The fight will be led by Clark Griffith, venerable boss of the Washington Senators.

Griffith's proposal that there be some kind of an antimonopoly law is included in the meeting program as announced yesterday by the commissioner's office.

There Ought to Be a Law.

Mr. Griffith, survivor of the old days when one magnate wasn't afraid to call a fellow owner a bad name, doesn't want one of the numerous New Deal meddling agencies to step in and order that the members of the present Yankee world title ensemble be scattered among the rival clubs. All that the Old Fox asks is that his partners in big league baseball pass a law which will limit the so-called farm systems and thus prevent cornering of the player market.

Griff's suggestion is that farm clubs be so restricted that a big league outfit could control only one franchise in each class or minor league, class D excepted. Under the present setup a law of this sort would hit mainly at the Yankees and the St. Louis Cardinals, each of which owns two clubs in class AA alone. The Yanks control Newark and Kansas City; the Cardinals pull the strings at Columbus, O., and Rochester, N. Y. Setups such as this give one club control of too many players, leaving the weaker major league clubs without a chance to build up, Griff contends.

Adoption Now Doubtful.

Whether the Old Fox will make any headway this year in a scheme which undoubtedly has merit and which is bound to be adopted sooner or later, is questionable. For some unknown reason the magnates who suffer the most as the result of the evils of the farm system are afraid to make a move which might offend their well stocked fellow tradesmen.

However, the feeling is gradually spreading among the magnates that something will have to be done and the fact that Griff has forced the issue to the voting stage indicates headway. Under his plan the offending clubs would be given a year or two in which to adjust themselves to the new regulations.

Voting on such matters as this is a three cornered affair. Each league decides its course separately. If one league should reject the Griffith plan and the other accept it, the final vote would be cast by Commissioner Landis, who long since recognized the dangers of the farm system as it pertained to player control.

HAWKS FEAST AS RIVALS PLAY TWO GAMES TONIGHT

National Hockey league teams play two games tonight, one in Detroit, the other in Montreal, while the Blackhawks enjoy their turkey. The New York Rangers tackle the Canadiens, who have not lost a game in Montreal this year. The New York Americans provide the annual Thanksgiving night entertainment in Detroit.

The Blackhawks return to action against the Red Wings in Detroit Sunday and then play the New York Rangers in the Stadium a week from today. Yesterday the entire squad, with the exception of Earl Seibert, whose ailing right leg will keep him from practice until next week, went thru a full two hour workout in the Stadium. Manager Paul Thompson has ordered another two hour grind today.

Iowa Miracle Man and His Iron Men

Dr. Eddie Anderson, the man behind the lowly Hawkeyes' spectacular revival, who yesterday was rewarded with a four year extension of his three year contract at a salary increase.

'Mike Enich, the strong man of a strong line, who will feel cheated if he doesn't get to play 60 minutes at tackle against the Wildcats.

Erwin Prasse of Chicago, captain and end of the Hawkeyes, and another of those hour-or-nothing athletes.

Pro Football Pauses, Lists Its Blessings

BY GEORGE STRICKLER.

Rejoicing today can be general thruout the National Football league, where half the family still is snatching for the drumsticks. While preparing for the windup of the closest divisional races in the league's history, Green Bay can be thankful that the Bears are given to fits of extreme confidence and the Bears can be thankful for Cleveland.

Not since the play-off system was devised in 1933 have the struggles for the two division titles been so bitterly contested. A triple tie is possible in the west and two teams may have to play off for the eastern pennant before qualifying a representative for the league championship game.

Green Bay in Best Spot.

Green Bay at the moment stands the best chance of coming away with an undisputed claim in the west. It need only conquer Cleveland Sunday and Detroit the following week to eliminate all contenders.

Failure in either of these games or in both will open the gates to Detroit and the Bears, who close their season Sunday against the Cardinals in Wrigley field. Down east the fight, as usual, rests between Washington and New York, and for the third consecutive year the two teams will settle the issue in the final game of the season in the Polo Grounds.

A List of "Thankful" Items.

Green Bay probably owes the Bears a vote of thanks, for it was the Chicagoans' generosity during the third quarter of their game in Green Bay on Sept. 24 that gave the Packers a victory so vital to their present enviable position. Leading, 13 to 0, and apparently in complete control of the game, the Bears relaxed to take a few bows and before they had time to straighten up, the Packers were ahead, 21 to 13, on three quick touchdowns. But for this lapse the Bears might have been leading today instead of the Packers.

The Bears can be thankful for a reputation and an organization that helped sway Sid Luckman, Bill Osmanski, and Bob MacLeod from their decision to forego professional foot-

TEXAS WARMS UP TO TROJANS; SEEKS BOWL BID

San Antonio, Tex., Nov. 22 [Special].—San Antonio fans turned out 2,000 strong and Texas A. and M. officials were very much in evidence today as the Southern California football squad stopped off here to go thru its last heavy drill in preparation for the Notre Dame game Saturday in South Bend.

The Trojans will taper off with a light drill tomorrow morning in New Orleans and warmup Friday in the University of Illinois stadium at Champaign, Ill.

Camera Men Keep Busy.

Practice today was held up a half hour while Texas fans photographed the Trojans whom they declared were "practically as big as Texas A. and M."

Texas Aggies were represented by Col. Ike Ashburn, chairman of the board of regents; Assistant Coach E. C. McQuillan and Publicity Director Byron Winsted. They are hopeful that Southern California will select Texas A. and M. as its Rose Bowl opponent should the Trojans represent the Pacific Coast conference in the Pasadena game.

Grenny Lansdell Ill.

Grenny Lansdell, Trojan back, was suffering from a heavy cold, but Dr. Packard Thurber said that he was improving. He was permitted to participate in most of today's workout.

Coach Howard Jones sent the Southern Californians thru a series of wide open plays featuring long passes and end runs. The Texas fans witnessed completion of a 60 yard pass from Doyle Nave to Al Krueger, and watched the speedy ball carrying of Amby Schindler and Bob Peoples.

LAYDEN PRAISES FOE.

Notre Dame, Ind., Nov. 22 [Special].—Preparations which Coach Elmer Layden hopes will stop what he considers the "greatest football team in the country" next Saturday again occupied Notre Dame's football squad in today's practice.

"Southern California has all the ingredients of a truly great team," said Layden, "and it's no wonder to me that they're undefeated. They have material three and four men deep, size, speed, versatility, poise, and whatever else it takes."

He again sidetracked offensive work to check and recheck the defensive assignments he and his assistants have decided upon in nightly blackboard sessions.

Layden also expressed the fear that his team might let down, or at least level off, after being steamed up for last week's Northwestern game. "We didn't try to point for any game up to last week, but after Iowa defeated us, it was necessary to key the squad for Northwestern. And while we were playing Northwestern, the Trojans were relaxing with an open date," he said.

Tomorrow's practice will be held in the morning, and the squad will get its Thanksgiving day relaxation in the afternoon.

COACH SIGNED UP THRU 1945; SALARY RAISED

Brings Iron Men to N. U. Saturday.

Iowa City, Ia., Nov. 22 [Special].—Dr. Eddie Anderson, who in his first year as coach at the University of Iowa, has cured a mighty sick patient of the gridiron, will watch over the Hawkeyes' football welfare until at least thru 1945.

The University of Iowa board in control of athletics late today unanimously voted to extend the contract of Coach Anderson four years beyond his present three year agreement, signed before the beginning of the season.

Dr. Anderson said he was pleased at the board's action, adding:

"If the board and the people of the state have that much confidence in me, and want me to continue, I will be happy to spend the rest of my coaching career at Iowa."

Only the formality of approval by the state board of education is needed to complete the agreement. A member of the athletic board, who declined to be quoted by name intimated the extended contract called for an increase in salary. Coach Anderson's original salary agreement never has been disclosed.

Hailed as Coach of Year.

Anderson has been hailed as the coach of the year because of the tremendous revival of Iowa as a football power. On the last two successive Saturdays his undermanned squad has defeated Notre Dame and Minnesota.

Since then, hysterical Iowa fans have been shouting, "Anderson for governor," but the board of control, being of a more practical frame of mind, figured that Anderson as a coach, would be much more valuable than as the state's chieftain.

The Iowa coach took over his duties this fall after a successful career at Holy Cross. The Hawkeyes, beaten only by Michigan, end their season Saturday in Evanston against Northwestern. By winning, they will clinch second place in the Western conference, and they can tie for the championship if Ohio State is defeated by Michigan.

Only 15 Experienced Players.

As the Iowa squad, bruised and battered as a result of weeks of 60 minute performances Saturday after Saturday by most of its members, looked to the game with the Wildcats, only 15 game players were left on the roster.

Today the squad worked in line scrimmage against reserves using Northwestern plays and formations. Despite their weariness, the Hawkeyes looked surprisingly well in stopping the aerial and running thrusts of Frank Carideo and Bill Hofer, coaches, who were in the reserve back field demonstrating Wildcat plays.

The Hawkeye cripples, Bruno Andruska, who has a broken wrist; Bill Diehl, another center who is thru for the year; Jim Walker, a tackle who has been on the shelf since the Michigan game, and a number of other players, including Al Couppee, Bill Green, Ray Murphy, Buzz Dean, backs, and Ken Pettit and Charley Tollefson, guards, all practiced, but only lightly, as they favored injuries. Eugene Frye, 185 pound sophomore from Albia, Ia., probably will start at center.

EXPECT 40,000 CROWD

An intensive workout this morning, followed by a bountiful turkey dinner in the Orrington hotel, will constitute the major items on the Thanksgiving day program for Northwestern university's football team.

Today's practice will be the last heavy drill in preparation for Saturday's game with title-contending Iowa in Dyche stadium. A crowd of nearly 40,000 is expected to witness the final game of the season for both elevens.

Thousands of Hawkeye rooters will accompany Coach Eddie Anderson and his gallant band of warriors. An original allotment of 3,500 tickets was quickly disposed of in Iowa City. The Northwestern ticket office has been besieged all week with requests for special orders from many cities and towns in Iowa. Several special trains will bring the big Iowa delegation to the game.

Students to Accompany Team.

The game is the official student trip for Iowa and several thousand will attend. Iowa's famous 120 piece band and the 40 piece Scottish Highlanders bagpipe unit also will be on hand.

Six of the seven starters in the Wildcat line will be playing their final game. They include Bob Daly and Ted Grefe, ends; Nick Cutlich, tackle; Hal Method and Don Guritz, guards, and John Haman, center. Other senior linemen who have seen much action this fall are Frank Young, tackle, and John Goldak and Jim Liddel, guards.

Jack Ryan and Nick Conteas, quarter backs, and George McGurn, full back, are other seniors whose loss will be felt next year. All three have been first string performers for three years.

With the exception of Haman the Wildcats are in good physical condition.

OHIO'S DON SCOTT CAUSES WORRY IN MICHIGAN CAMP

Crisler Admits Need of Pass Defense.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Nov. 22 [Special].—"Stop Harmon" may be the Ohio State slogan this week but Scout Bennie Oosterbaan has come thru with a similar warning for the Michigan team. It's "Stop Don Scott" and according to Oosterbaan that is something which must be done if the Wolverines are to win Saturday.

Altho the coaches have warned the team of Scott's running and kicking, it is the Buckeye quarter back's passing which is being emphasized in practice. Today the Wolverines went thru another session against Ohio formations and pass defense was not neglected.

Coach Fritz Crisler realizes that pass defense is a definite Michigan weakness, and if Scott can pass as well as the hurlers of Yale and Penn, Michigan will be in for a rough afternoon. Hovey Seymour of Yale completed 11 passes out of 25 tries against Michigan and Frank Reagan of Penn connected for 16 out of 30. The Wolverines' only consolation is that they held Nile Kinnick of Iowa to seven completions.

BUCKEYES WEAKENED.

Columbus, O., Nov. 22 [Special].—Ohio State resumed its practice activities today in preparation for the title game with Michigan in Ann Arbor Saturday and once again spent most of the session on offense, despite mud and rainy weather.

For the first time this week, freshmen emulated the Michigan offense and actual scrimmage was held. The varsity had little trouble stopping everything the frosh teams hurled at them but, of course, as Coach Schmidt warned the varsity, Tom Harmon was not carrying the ball.

Frank Zadworney, half back who left the Illinois game Saturday with a leg injury, returned to uniform today but stayed on the side lines. He should be ready to start Saturday.

Depend on Sophomores.

Zadworney's inability to play at top speed would further handicap the Buckeyes' chances against the Wolverines, especially since Jim Langhurst, full back, will not be in uniform. Thus Ohio's hopes are tied rather securely to the fortunes of two sophomores, John Hallabrin, who is understudy for Langhurst, and Tom Kinkade, who is first in line for Zadworney's job.

Due to the holiday, tomorrow's practice will be in the morning. Plans call for the Buckeyes to leave for Michigan early Friday morning and work out in Ann Arbor the same afternoon.

WESLEYAN PLAYS BRADLEY ELEVEN IN TITLE BATTLE

Bloomington, Ill., Nov. 22 [Special].—Unbeaten in 21 games, Bradley Tech descends on Bloomington tomorrow to end its schedule against Illinois Wesleyan. Victory will give Bradley the best claim to the Illinois College conference title, although it has played only three league games. A tie would force Bradley to share the crown with Knox.

Five Tech regulars close their careers in the game. They are: Jim Molnar, full back; Bill White, right tackle; George Rosendall, center; Ed Kiefer and Virg Van Cleave, ends. Chuck Dehner, reserve end, is the other senior on the Bradley squad.

Molnar will be pitted against Bob Morrow, whose followers maintain he is a better full back than the Tech star. Wesleyan fans are willing to grant that the kicking of Ken Olson, Bradley quarter back, will eclipse that of their punters, but they claim Chet Wetterlund, triple threat ace, will be the best passer on the field.

Coaches Don Heap and Bob Voigts are not giving Bradley any edge in the back field, but they admit Tech's line is superior.

Martin, Weiler Bid for A. A. U. Handball Title

Handball observers believe that Dick Martin and Bob Weiler of the Lake Shore A. C. have the best chance of eliminating the defending title holders, Joe Platak and Herb Jensen, in the 1940 Central A. A. U. doubles tournament, opening Monday night in the Midwest Athletic club. Other teams given a chance to win are Bob Quinn and John Stenson of the host club and George Di Re, former city singles monarch, and Paddy Cannon.

Howard Gym Closes; Drills Begun by Day

Howard Carr, who as Kid Howard has conducted various gymnasiums in the loop for 29 years, yesterday closed his boxing emporium at 73 West Randolph street after only 10 months because of lack of business.

Prior to opening the place Howard operated at 32 South Clark street from 1910 to 1925, 62 West Madison from 1925 to 1930, 235 West Madison from 1930 to 1933, and 116 West Madison street from 1933 to 1934, after which he suspended operations until last Feb. 14. Thus Trafton's gymnasium, which was opened by James C. Mullen 14 years ago, once again is the only establishment of its kind in the loop.

Davey Day has opened workouts in Trafton's for a 12 round return bout with Sammy Angott, No. 1 lightweight contender, in Chicago Stadium Dec. 8. He will start sparring drills against Nick Castiglione tomorrow. Castiglione, who recently returned from an unsuccessful campaign in New York, may appear in a preliminary event on the Stadium card.

Clarence Brown, former Catholic Youth organization heavyweight champion, has been substituted for Art Oliver against Andy [Kid] Miller of Sioux City, Ia., in Omaha tomorrow. Oliver is reported recovering from a back injury. Johnny Paycheck, No. 4 heavyweight challenger, and Paul Hartnek will be rivals in a 10 round windup. Marion Mosley, north side heavyweight, is paired with Sheran Bogie of Minneapolis in an additional match of six rounds. . . . Walcott Langford has had the bandage removed from his right eye, which was operated on by Dr. Sydney Walker Nov. 10 in an effort to restore the former middleweight's sight. Langford, who was born Ralph Baskett, says he is unable to see as yet, but he hopes to have vision within a few days. He has been blind for more than 10 years.

Before leaving for a Thanksgiving dinner with his parents in Peoria Altus Allen said that his recent one round knockout at the hands of Lee Oma was an accident. He blamed carelessness for the big upset and hopes Oma will give him another chance. However, Oma, Detroit light heavyweight, has no intention of facing Allen any more this season. Lee maintains he fought Allen for a small purse and he is going to take advantage of his opportunity to earn some money on the strength of the Allen knockout. . . . Five amateur boxers from Waukegan and two from Batavia will appear in Madison Athletic club tomorrow. The Waukegan fighters are Art Alto, Paul George, Jack Miltimore, Bernie Cohen, and Ed Rhodie. Miltimore is paired with Ivory Bates, and Rhodie with Ragner Alm. Bates and Alm are from Batavia.

THURNBLAD IS BEATEN, 42 TO 39, BY FITZGIBBON

Arthur Thurnblad, former world three cushion billiard champion, was beaten, 42 to 39, by Tom Fitzgibbon, last night to provide the Chicago open three cushion championship tournament with its third upset in three matches. The tourney is being played at Bensinger's.

Fitzgibbon went out with a run of five, the evening's high run, in the 62d inning after Thurnblad had built up a 39 to 37 lead. Thurnblad was shooting for the scratch figure of 50. His high run was 4. Previous upsets were scored by Joe Moriarity and Ed Peters over Paul Lewin and Jess Jacobs, respectively.

Len Kenney meets Jacobs in the fourth match at 8 o'clock tomorrow night, and Thurnblad meets an opponent yet to be selected Saturday night.

MINIER FINALLY GETS OWN GYM—A $65,000 ONE

Bloomington, Ill., Nov. 22 [Special].—No longer will the basketball teams of Minier High school near Bloomington be known as the Nomads. For years the boys were forced to knock at the doors of high school gymnasiums in McLean and Tazewell counties to practice. In all that time, Minier never played a home game—because the high school had no gymnasium. But tonight the 1939 team played Delavan in the opening game in the new $65,000 gymnasium.

Coach G. O. Brummet, who has drilled Minier teams in strange gyms for 16 years, chuckled:

"It's great not to have to pile the kids into cars in the cold winter twilight after school and drive 20 miles to get a few minutes' practice."

Two dollar mutuels paid: Ghostflyer, $12.90 straight, $7.00 place, $5.30 show; Star Lina, $22.20 place, $12.40 show; White Eye, $6.70 show.

GHOSTFLYER, showing marked improvement over his recent effort, was kept close to the pace, dropped back around the turn, but came again at the end, winning going away. STAR LINA was rushed into a long lead and held on well. WHITE EYE closed with a rush on the inside. PETE WENDLING came from far back. PRINCE GALE ran a good race.

THIRD RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $1,200. Two year olds. Start good. Won driving, place same. Went to post at 2:35. Off at 2:36½. Winner, b. c., 2, by Pass II.-Spree, by High Time. Owner, Brandon stable. Trainer, T. M. Waller. Net value to winner, $850; second, $200; third, $100; fourth, $50. Time, 1:13 3-5.

†A. C. C. stable-H. G. Bedwell entry.

Two dollar mutuels paid: Pass Out, $16.80 straight, $12.00 place, $2.60 show; Gino Thor, $70.30 place, $4.50 show; Son Altesse, $2.10 show.

PASS OUT, away fast, raced RAWSON into defeat and in the last sixteenth went over to the inside, forcing GINO THOR over on SON ALTESSE, forcing latter to take up abruptly to avoid going down. GINO THOR held on well. SON ALTESSE was moving up fast on the inside when he was shut off. RAWSON had plenty of speed but weakened badly. LOOTING LAD had no mishap. EQUISTONE quit badly.

FOURTH RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $1,200. [Claiming prices, $3,000 to $3,500.] Four year olds and up. Start good. Won driving, second same. Went to post at 3:06. Off at 3:07. Winner, b. g., 5, by John P. Grier-Sea Moss, by Wrack. Owner, Mrs. C. W. Williams. Trainer, C. W. Williams. Net value to winner, $850; second, $200; third, $100; fourth, $50. Time, 1:13.

Two dollar mutuels paid: Zostera, $159.90 straight, $41.10 place, $19.70 show; My Elsie, $11.40 place, $8.10 show; Double B., $7.50 show.

ZOSTERA got away fast, moved up with a rush in the last quarter mile, and won going away. MY ELSIE took the lead in the stretch but weakened at the end. DOUBLE B., well up from the start, ran a good race. SKETCHBOOK finished with good courage. CLINGENDAAL lacked speed.

FIFTH RACE—Mile and seventy yards. Purse, $2,000 added. Handicap. Fillies and mares. Three year olds and up. Start good. Won driving, second same. Went to post at 3:31. Off at 3:32¼. Two dollar mutuels paid: Wise Lady, $5.20 straight, $3.60 place, $2.60 show; Teddy's Girl, $6.10 place, $3.60 show; White Sand, $4.60 show.

WISE LADY, well up on the outside, made her bid in the last furlong and just got up to win. TEDDY'S GIRL closed with a rush on the inside and just gained the place in the final stride. WHITE SAND broke slow as usual and closed a big gap. MONTSIN had plenty of speed and made a game effort. PHARA FROST finished very fast. TODDLE ON had no mishap.

SIXTH RACE—Mile and a sixteenth. Purse, $1,200. [Claiming price, $3,000.] Three year olds and up. Start good. Won easily, second driving. Went to post at 3:58. Off at 3:59. Return of Two Stars Cheers Kansas Team

Lawrence, Kas., Nov. 22 (AP).—In view of their improved condition, Coach Gwinn Henry of the University of Missouri revised his previous announcement and said Dick Amerine, senior half back, and Monte Merkel, tackle, may get to play in the Missouri game here Saturday, which the Tigers must win to clinch the Big Six title.

TIGERS HARD AT WORK.

Columbia, Mo., Nov. 22 (AP).—Thanksgiving vacation began today for University of Missouri students, but not for the Tiger football team, which drilled on fundamentals and defense for Saturday's game with Kansas. Regarding anonymous letters sent to Coach Henry chiding Kansas for playing "touch" football, Coach Don Faurot said no one connected with the Missouri team was the author.

SOONERS CRIPPLED.

Norman, Okla., Nov. 22 (AP).—Four University of Oklahoma players, who likely will form the starting back field next year, worked together today as the injury riddled Sooners practiced for Saturday's final game against Nebraska in Lincoln. The combination included Jack Jacobs, J. S. Munsey, Marvin Whited, and Johnny Martin. It was this quartet that drove to Oklahoma's seventy-one yard touchdown march against Missouri.

KANSAS AGGIES PICK HANNAH.

Manhattan, Kas., Nov. 22 (AP).—Paul Hannah, senior center, will lead Kansas State against the strong Boston college team Saturday in Boston. Coach Wes Fry gave his boys a last signal drill today and review of fundamentals before leaving for the east. The Wildcats will practice on Rockhurst university field in Kansas City Friday, and then go on to Albany, N. Y., for another workout.

Hoosier Coach Stresses Need for Defense

Bloomington, Ind., Nov. 22 [Special].—Not satisfied with the defensive performance of the Indiana university football squad in a scrimmage against freshmen and reserves who executed Purdue plays, Coach Bo McMillin spent more time today drilling on defensive tactics.

Smoother timing of plays also was sought in an offensive session as the Hoosiers polished their running and passing attack. Remembering from past experience that the Boilermakers rush the opposing passer aggressively, McMillin drilled the Hoosiers on blocking for Hal Hursh, Indiana's ace hurler. Taking no chances on incurring further injuries, the only contact work today was in a blocking scrimmage.

The first string back field was composed of Eddie Herbert, quarter back; Hursh and Ray Dumke, half backs, and Tuffy Brooks, full back. Brooks, a sophomore, appeared to be holding down the job formerly held by Joe Tofil, although the latter is recovering from a leg injury.

The Indiana squad will go to McCosmicks Creek State Park to spend the night Friday and return here at noon for the Old Oaken Bucket battle which is scheduled for 1:30 p. m. Saturday.

PURDUE SCRIMMAGES

Lafayette, Ind., Nov. 22 [Special].—While the student body was leaving for Thanksgiving vacation, Purdue's depleted football squad went thru its last scrimmage session of the season today in preparation for the Old Oaken Bucket battle with Indiana in Bloomington on Saturday.

Emphasis was placed on running plays especially devised against a five man line, which the Boilermaker coaches anticipate Indiana may use. Purdue also took to the air frequently with the same type of overhead attack that completed 15 out of 28 attempts against Wisconsin last Saturday.

Fear Mackiewicz Is Out.

Hope that Felix Mackiewicz, injured right end, would be able to rejoin the squad for the game was dimmed as he remained on the side lines. Whitey Johnson, right tackle, who also was injured last week, had a light workout and may be able to play. Fred Montague and Allen Shackleton divided the quarter back post vacated by the injured Ted Hennis.

Thanksgiving dinner for the football squad will be postponed until tomorrow evening after a drill on offense and defense. The Boilermakers will wind up their workouts with a light session Friday afternoon.

The squad will leave for Bloomington at 8:30 o'clock Saturday morning on a special train, arriving at 11:30 o'clock.

BEARS MEET TROUNCERS.

Austin Bears and Riis Park Troucers will clash in their annual Thanksgiving day football game this afternoon in the Austin Bears stadium, Harlem and North avenues, at 2 o'clock.

BADGERS TO USE 3 SOPHOMORES AGAINST GOPHERS

Kolbusz, Farris, Peterson Will Start.

Madison, Wis., Nov. 22 [Special].—A defensive dummy scrimmage against Minnesota plays today virtually completed Wisconsin's preparations for the final game of the season at Minneapolis Saturday. Coach Harry Stuhldreher left the first string lineup unchanged, indicating that three sophomores will face the Gophers at the kickoff. They are Ray Kolbusz at left guard; Tommy Farris at quarter back, and Bob Peterson at left half back.

The return of Johnny Tennant, who was injured in the Illinois game, bolstered the Badgers' passing attack from the key left half back position, where Peterson's understudies probably will be Tennant, Billy Schmitz and Bobby Cone in that order.

The team will take a light workout tomorrow and leave early Friday for a final limbering up drill in Memorial stadium, Minneapolis. The Badgers' last victory over Minnesota was in 1932, a 20 to 13 triumph at Camp Randall. Wisconsin last defeated the Gophers on the latter's home field in 1922. In that year Rollie Williams led Wisconsin to a 14 to 0 victory.

GOPHERS FEAR PASKVAN.

Minneapolis, Minn., Nov. 22 [Special].—It's just one enemy star after another for the University of Minnesota football team, preparing for the windup of the most disastrous Big Ten season in seven years. This time George Paskvan, leading ground gainer in the conference, is the man to stop, following such men as Bill De Correvont, Tom Harmon, and Nile Kinnick in order. He has picked up 404 yards this year, approximately 50 per cent of his team's yardage, to follow in the footsteps of Howie Weiss, who always was troublesome for Minnesota.

DETROIT RANGER POLO PONIES TO ARRIVE TONIGHT

A string of 12 ponies, to be ridden by the Detroit Rangers polo team in the 124th Field Artillery armory Saturday night, will start their trip by truck this morning. They are due at the armory stables tonight.

The Detroit team will oppose the 124th Field Artillery trio in the feature game of Saturday night's double header. This contest will be preceded by a game in the junior division between the Meadowbrook club of Milwaukee and the 122d Field Artillery.

FENGER ENJOYS DAY OF REST AS SCHURZ DRILLS

But Both Teams Go on Turkey Diet.

BY JAMES SEGRETI.

Fenger's unbeaten football team, which is seeking another engagement in Mayor Kelly's All-City charity production on Dec. 2 against Mount Carmel, this afternoon will spend 60 minutes with turkey, cranberry sauce, and other trimmings. However, the members of the Schurz eleven, opponents of the south siders for the Public School league championship in Soldiers' field Saturday, will work out on their practice field before tackling Thanksgiving day dinners.

Chuck Palmer, Fenger coach, sent the squad thru a long workout yesterday, but ordered the players to remain out of uniform today. Several members of the team will not forget football, however. They will drop in on the Pullman Tech-Morgan Park game on Pullman's field this morning. Fenger annually plays Pullman in the far north side's Thanksgiving day feature, but the game was eliminated from the schedule when Fenger advanced to the finals in the Public School league race.

$92,000 Advance Sale.

The Schurz players also worked out yesterday, and Coach Bob Koehler promised this morning's session would be of short duration, allowing them to arrive home just in time to watch the carving of their fat turkeys. All members of the squad were present with the exception of Kirk Perry, 173 pound left guard, who was injured in last Saturday's semi-final game against Austin.

Officials in Chicago's Own Christmas Benefit fund offices also will be delayed in arriving at the dinner table due to extra duties in the counting room. Barnet Hodes, corporation counsel and secretary of the fund, said the advance sale of tickets for the city championship game is the heaviest since the series was inaugurated by Mayor Kelly five years ago.

The sale is approaching the mark established in 1937 when Bill De Correvont and Johnny Galvin helped lure 115,000 to Soldiers' field for the game between Austin and Leo. Hodes said $92,000 already is in the till. Receipts of last year's contest totaled $100,000, which was used to purchase clothing and shoes for Chicago's underprivileged children.

May Exceed 1938 Receipts.

"The sale began to move rapidly several weeks ago," Hodes said, "and there has been a brisk demand for tickets since Frank Meakin and Johnny Andretich, the touchdown twins, won the Catholic league championship for Mount Carmel. Followers of the Fenger and Schurz teams already have placed orders for big blocks of tickets and I am sure the receipts this year will exceed the 1938 total."

Donald [Flash] Griffin, Fenger's brilliant 17 year old quarter back, definitely will start against Schurz, Coach Palmer said. Griffin was hurt slightly in the semi-final game with Tilden Tech last Saturday altho he played every minute of the contest.

The league championship game will start at 1:30 o'clock. Officials selected for the game were announced yesterday. They are W. F. McHugh of De Paul university, referee; H. J. Greeninger, Sacred Heart, umpire; Duncan Annan, Chicago, head linesman, and C. J. Piocar, Armour Tech, field judge.

PABST BOWLERS SCORE 3,172 TO INCREASE LEAD

The Pabst Blue Ribbons bowled 3,172 last night in the Southwest Recreation and won three games from the Pragers to lead the Wednesday division of the Classic league by six games. Power House defeated the Schlitz twice and took second place by one game. The Monarchs won three from Ambrosias and the Michelobs dropped one to Koenig Brau. Thus, the Monarchs, Schlitz, and Michelobs are all in a tie for third place.

Pabsts 1,103 game was high for the evening. Les Fuller shot 219, 279, and 212 for a 710 series.

C. Y. O. CHAMPION IS YOUNG'S GOAL AS HEAVYWEIGHT

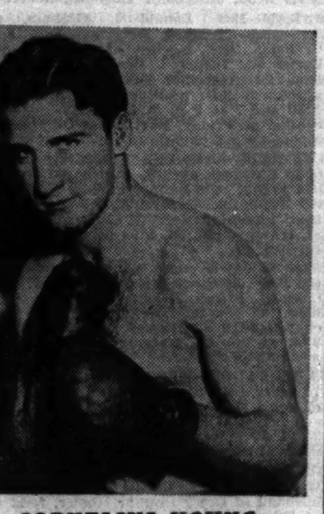
BY HOWARD BARRY.

That lanky fellow, Cornelius Young, is filling out so that you'd hardly know him. It seems no time at all since he was climbing into the ring to fight in the 147 pound class, but next Wednesday night he's going after the Catholic Youth organization's heavyweight championship. A comparative newcomer, James Stift, will be his opponent in the finals of the ninth annual C. Y. O. tournament, which will be held in the Stadium.

In the last four years Young has been gaining steadily in weight, skill, and experience and he has been picking up championships as he has gone along. In addition to his C. Y. O. activities he also distinguished himself in Golden Gloves competition.

Wins First Title in 1935.

Beginning as a welterweight in 1935, he won the C. Y. O. novice championship. The following year he moved up to the middleweight division and won the C. Y. O. title in the open class. He was back again the next season to take the 160 pound Golden Gloves championship. This year he is hoping to grab the C. Y. O. heavyweight title and then go after another Golden Gloves crown.



CORNELIUS YOUNG.

Young now weighs 185 pounds and is still growing. Standing 6 feet tall, he has a big frame well adapted to carry still another 10 or 15 pounds of muscle. The added weight has given him additional hitting power that he uses to good advantage with the ring generalship acquired in his long experience as an amateur fighter.

Young's physique has been further hardened by his work in the steel mills. Until recently he was a student and he plans to return to school as soon as he is able to do so. He went thru four years at Tilden Technical High school and put in two more at St. Norbert's college, near Green Bay, Wis.

Has Had 97 Fights.

Young has had 97 fights and has won 89 of these, 30 of them by knockouts. He takes an active part in other sports, too, showing considerable ability at baseball, basketball, and football. He hopes to make a career as an athletic instructor after he gets thru with his schooling. He lives at 4209 Princeton avenue.

The thirty-two open and novice division boxers who have reached the tournament finals will return to the C. Y. O. gymnasium tomorrow to renew their preparations for the title bouts. They had a rest following Tuesday night's semi-finals, but Coaches Paddy Kane and Dick Fitz-Patrick will keep them going steadily from now until next week.

MANLEY SOCCER TEAM DEALS LANE 1ST DEFEAT, 1-0

Manley handed Lane Tech its first defeat in two years in the Chicago Public High School Soccer league yesterday, 1 to 0. It was the final match of the season for both teams. Capt. Rubin Klafert, center forward, scored the lone goal in the first half when his 20 yard drive ricocheted off the foot of a Lane full back and into the goal.

The disposition of the championship now hinges on the game next Wednesday between Crane Tech and Kelly. If Crane wins or ties it will be the new titleholder. Lane's disputed 1 to 1 tie with Kelly still is to be decided, but even if Lane is awarded the contest Crane needs only a tie for the title.

Nagurski Has an Irish Dish; 5,100 Look On

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

The Coliseum, that old Plymouth Rock of Chicago wrestling, last night saw 5,100 Pilgrims of the pastime land on its stone sides, there to enjoy a pre-Thanksgiving feast the like of which would have done the heart of the late John Krone, first Pilgrim of them all, a deal of holiday good. There were plenty of grunts, groans, and grimaces, served in large helpings to the entire party, which included George Halas, George Musso, Danny Fortmann, and Sid Luckman of the Bears and Charley Bidwill of the Cardinals. There was turkey à la Nagurski, stuffed with O'Mahoney dressing; oyster stew Marshall and mince pie Savoldi.

Main dish of the meal, of course, was that involving Bronko Nagurski, late of Minnesota and the Bears, and Danno O'Mahoney, the broth of a lad who made up the Irish whip, all by himself. It was tasty rassling while it lasted, which was only 21 minutes and 5 seconds. The Bronk, after suffering Danno to outdo him in an elbowing exchange, further deluded the Irishman into thinking that he was going to succumb to O'Mahoney's copywrighted whip, charged up and applied a conclusive body press after a series of slams.

There Was Room for More.

There was a time, when seekers after a rassling harbor, could always find haven in the Coliseum, even tho they could sight no other. That was in the time of James Londos, who was wont, under the sponsorship of Mr. Krone, to stand them in Wabash avenue, while throngs as high as 11,000 screamed for and against the ultimate downing of Champion James, who is now taking his ease in California—for the nonce, at least.

Last night's production was staged by Fred Kohler, a versatile young man who has served as actor and impresario in these strange entertainments. Maestro Kohler has been conducting most of his shows of late in the Fronton and White City, two of the little theaters of the art. His 1939-'40 debut, however, augurs well for a goodly season, if the enthusiasm of the boys and girls who sat in on his party of last night is any indication. They appeared to relish the feast with old time gusto.

Well Mixed Course.

Altho the first course went the full round of the table on a 30 minute time basis, it proved very palatable as draws run. It involved Jack Conley, once a good journeyman light heavyweight boxer from Boston, and Scalie Samara, an imported delicacy from Abyssinia. They mixed themselves with a zest for biting and gouging which proved an excellent appetizer for the evening.

If the Conley-Samara dish whetted their appetites, the guests really tucked in their bibs for the second helping, which consisted of a blending of Friedrich Von Schacht and Len [Cowboy] Hughes. The course was removed at 18 minutes and 28 seconds, when Friedrich spilled the Cowboy with a body slam.

A liberal pinch of Italian flavoring was added when Jumping Joe Savoldi, who has been tucked away in the pantry shelves of rassling since he won the championship from Londos, dropped George Dusette of Boston in 28 minutes and 5 seconds. This was a right interesting helping, Dusette refusing to coöperate with Savoldi in the latter's choice spice, the flying tackle, forcing Joe to resort to old-fashioned kitchen cooking, the body slam.

Everett Marshall, the noted Colorado rancher, didn't have to exert himself in carving up Chief Sanooke, a 325 pound Cherokee Indian who once jockeyed a Chicago cab. Everett finally disposed of the chief in 9 minutes and 50 seconds with a reverse body slam.

PLAY TWO GAMES TODAY.

A football double-header will be played this afternoon in the 124th Field Artillery armory. The Artillery eleven, unbeaten in five starts, will play the Ardale Clippers in the feature game and the Crimson Tides and the Saxons will meet in the first game at 1:30.

A Champion Goes On Parade

Champion Hertzville Blue headliner, owned by Thomas M. Halpin and C. J. Casselman of Chicago, will be among the dogs benched at the Western Specialty Clubs association show which opens Saturday in the Coliseum. He will compete against 70 collies.

No Turkey for Show Dogs on Turkey Day

BY BOB BECKER.

Thanksgiving day may mean extra tidbits for thousands of dogs kept as family pets, but for more than 1,100 show specimens entered in the Western Specialty club's dog show which opens Saturday morning, this is just another day with rations as usual. According to A. Wilson Bow, superintendent of the show, a total of 1,113 of America's top notch purebreds will be benched Saturday morning in the Coliseum where the show will be held.

Two popular features of this year's show, say dog club officials, will be the exhibition of trained schnauzers and the children's handling classes sponsored by THE TRIBUNE.

Events for Children Handlers.

The children's handling classes will be judged at 5:30 p. m. on Saturday. Mrs. Janet H. Henneberry and Livingston Osborne, two of Chicago's most experienced dog authorities and owners of well known show dogs, will judge the handling classes which are for boys and girls under 16 years of age.

Handsome gold plated trophies will be awarded to first and second place winners in each of the four classes. Those that place from second to tenth in each of the four classes will receive gold plated buttons which are being awarded by THE TRIBUNE for the first time this year. Two gold plated cups also will be presented to the boys or girls who place first and second in the finals.

Trick Dogs to Perform.

The trick dogs are scheduled to give two performances each day in order that the maximum number of children may see the act. On Saturday the trained schnauzers and one fox terrier will give their first show at 1 p. m. and again at 7:30 p. m. The same schedule will be maintained on Sunday.

Altho the popular cocker spaniel leads all other breeds in entries in this year's show, the greatest increase of any breed has been registered by the Chicago Collie club. Last year there were 52 collies in the show. This year 70 will compete, including some of the outstanding collies of the country.

Athlete Aid Planned by Illini Body

Champaign, Ill., Nov. 22 [Special].—A six point program to secure employment for Illinois athletes was disclosed today by the University of Illinois Student-Alumni association as the varsity squad continued preparations for its closing game of the year Saturday at Chicago.

The association's board of directors, in making the announcement, said the main point of the program, adopted Monday, was that the association would approach all fraternities, sororities, university dormitories, boarding clubs, restaurants, and business establishments to ask assurance that one or two jobs be set aside for athletes recommended by the athletic association.

Meanwhile Coach Bob Zuppke was warning the Illini players not to underrate the Maroons.

"Don't underestimate Chicago for this game," he said. "Remember, the Maroons have something to fight for—their first Big Ten victory—and they always seem to be able to key up for us."

Jimmy Smith to Start.

Zuppke then put the squad thru a workout, first on defense against Maroon formations, then on offense. The freshman squad disbanded for the Thanksgiving recess, but the varsity teams played against each other.

Jimmy Smith, sophomore left half back who has been resting since the Ohio State game, will be available and will probably start. Indications are that Zuppke will start practically the same team that opposed the Buckeyes. The Illini will work out tomorrow morning, leaving their afternoon free, but will report again Friday morning for their last practice before departing for Chicago at 1:15 o'clock.

MAROONS DRILL TODAY.

A light workout is on the University of Chicago varsity's schedule for this morning, with the afternoon free for holiday pursuits. The freshmen are excused for the day. Tomorrow's final practice before the Illinois contest on Saturday will be a chalk session and signal drill. The Maroons hope to avoid a repetition of last year's 34 to 0 shutout by the Illini, Coach Clark Shaughnessy said after the Maroons' 25 to 0 victory over Oberlin last week he was satisfied that the Chicago defense was as good as it is capable of becoming.

Hutson Breaks Two More Pro Passing Records

New York, Nov. 22 (AP).—Four new individual records have been written into National Football league books as a result of last Sunday's games, making it the sixth straight week in which old marks have fallen.

Don Hutson, Green Bay end, accounts for two of the new marks, and a pair of backs, Andy Farkas of Washington and Davey O'Brien of Philadelphia, set one apiece.

Farkas' record is 11 touchdowns in one season, surpassing the old mark of nine, which belonged to Hutson.

Hutson countered with two new records for yardage gained on passes. His 794 yards for this season smashed the old record of 675 yards set by Gaynell Tinsley of the Chicago Cardinals in 1937. And his 1939 yardage brings his lifetime total of 2,838 in five seasons, surpassing the old mark of 2,755 compiled by Johnny Blood in 14 seasons.

Hutson now holds outright or shares in every pass receiving record in the league.

O'Brien completed 21 passes to break the record of 19 he set a week previously.

Bill Osmanski of the Chicago Bears is the leading ground gaining running back with 699 yards and an average of 5.7 per attempt.

ball and for the Cardinals who in all probability will keep them in the race for at least another week.

Victorious in only one game, the Cardinals can be thankful for Pittsburgh and the fact that Gaynell Tinsley, Bree Cuppoletti, Elwyn Dunstan, Dougal Russell, Jimmy Lawrence, and Rock Reed were the only men fired from the squad which last year was rated as the finest personnel in the league.

Cleveland, of course, must give a few thanks for Dutch Clark, who established early that he knew what he wanted, sank his teeth into the long, hard job of getting it and came up with a football team that would do credit to any town, despite frequent defeats. Philadelphia can be thankful for Davey O'Brien, the boy who plays more football than most men, and Pittsburgh, with Brooklyn, can be thankful that the season is nearly over.

Giants are Opportunists.

Washington owes its surprise return to contendership to the signing of Bo Russell, a tackle, and the development of Frank Filchock and Andy Farkas. New York can be thankful for apponents who make mistakes.

Detroit may find little over which to rejoice today, but by the end of next week there may be room for celebration in the City of Champions. The hardest schedule in the league served only to build up the Lions for a letdown.

SPEEDS THRU RED LIGHT, KILLS ONE AND RUNS AWAY

Hunt Driver of Abandoned Car; 2 Others Hurt.

Thomas Arcuri, 18 years old, of 848 Hudson avenue, was killed and two other young men were injured last night when a heavy sedan, traveling at high speed, shot thru a stop light at Ashland avenue and Harrison street and smashed into their car. The law violating driver abandoned his car and fled after being extricated from the wreckage by passersby.

Arcuri's brother-in-law, Nastasi Batasino, 19, 2447 Flournoy street, who suffered minor injuries, was driving east in Harrison street with his two companions. Also in the car was Lawrence Titone, 18, 2525 Flournoy street, whose right hip was broken. The three young men are musicians and were driving to a tavern where they play. The speeding sedan was southbound in Ashland avenue.

Crash Upsets Both Cars.

Both automobiles overturned. Batasino's car was hurled over the curb and onto a parkway. The license of the abandoned sedan was traced to Mrs. Anna Bednarik, 5144 South Washtenaw avenue. Police were sent to question her as to whether the car had been borrowed or stolen.

Thomas Colbert, 56, of 730 West 61st street, a plumber, died in Englewood hospital of injuries suffered Tuesday night when he was struck by an automobile in front of his home. The driver was Irving Brubach, 5757 Peoria street.

Charles Kramer, 74 years old, 15408 Center avenue, Harvey, died yesterday in Ingalls Memorial hospital in the suburb of injuries suffered Tuesday night when he was struck by an automobile near his home. The driver was August Schmidt, 166th street and Hillcrest avenue, Markham.

Widow, 86, Dies of Injuries.

Mrs. Caroline Peterson, 86, of 3554 Hirsch street, a widow, died in County hospital of injuries incurred Tuesday night when she was struck by an automobile in front of 1405 North Central Park avenue. Paul Caplan, 4938 North Francisco avenue, was driving the car.

Thomas Fleming, 54, of 6648 Drexel avenue, a laborer, died in Jackson Park hospital of a skull fracture incurred Monday when he was struck by an automobile at 88th street and Stony Island avenue. The driver was David Schwarzkopf, 9214 Harper avenue.

Miss Mary A. Begley, 29 years old, housekeeper in the parish house of St. Gertrude's church, 1420 Granville avenue, was injured seriously last night by the automobile of a hit and run driver. The machine, traveling west, veered to the south side of the street, ran up over the curb, and struck Miss Begley, who was on the sidewalk. She was taken to St. Francis hospital in Evanston. Witnesses supplied two versions of the car's license number. Both were traced to a south side garage, which conducts a rent-a-car agency.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday, 782 persons had been killed by automobiles in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of these 603 were killed in Chicago where 19,921 were injured in the same period.

TIPSY MOTORIST GETS SIX MONTHS ON PRISON FARM

County Judge Perry L. Persons of Lake county yesterday sentenced Paul McHugh, 30 years old, 310 Noble avenue, Lake Forest, to six months on the state prison farm. McHugh was convicted of drunken driving. He was also deprived of driving privileges for nine months.

Joseph Cohen, 402 South Karlov avenue, a pharmacist, paid a $100 fine in Safety court in Chicago yesterday when he was given a choice between the fine or 15 days in jail. He was convicted last week of driving past a stop light while intoxicated. After witnesses testified to his good reputation Judge Joseph B. Hermes reduced the $200 fine originally imposed.

Sell Wether Lambs.

Nov. 22, 1939.

THIRTY-FOUR wether lambs from the Du Page county farm flock brought $9.40 a hundred pounds when sold yesterday at Union stockyards. The lambs weighed a total of 2,650 pounds, an average of 77.9 pounds and brought $249.10 gross. Five odd sheep that were sold with the lambs brought a total of $26.10. Selling charges, including commission, yardage, and fire insurance, were $13.46, leaving $261.74 as the net price for the load. The animals were taken to market in one of the farm trucks.

The lambs had been on full feed for 60 days. They were started on a light ration of grain and hay early in September. While on full feed the lambs were given all they would eat twice a day.

Grain Ration Rich.

The grain ration consisted of a mixture of 50 pounds whole oats, 25 pounds shelled corn, and 25 pounds linseed oil meal. They were fed red clover and alfalfa hay and, part of the time, were given small amounts of concentrated molasses feed. Salt and fresh water were kept before them all the time.

Twenty pure bred Southdown ewe lambs were kept on the farm to be added to the breeding flock next year. There still are seven wether lambs in the barn. They will be used as needed for farm dinners during the winter.

The lamb crop was small this year. The breeding flock has been cut down and most of the ewes produced only one lamb each last spring.

Only 98 ewes are left in the breeding flock. Sixty-seven of them are pure bred Southdowns and 31 are grades with mostly Southdown blood. All have been mated with pure bred Southdown rams and are expected to drop their next year's lambs during February and March.

The ewes still are out on pasture. They are being fed this week for the first time since they were turned out on grass with their lambs last spring. There still is a little green grass left in the pastures, but it is getting short.

Red clover hay now is kept in feed racks in the sheep barn so that the ewes may eat it when they come in for water. They are given no other feed. All the ewes are fat and in good condition. The flockmaster says the breeding flock never looked better at this time of year.

Turkey Feathers Fly.

Turkey feathers are being yanked off by handfuls today as the farm families make preparations for Thanksgiving dinners. Everybody on the farm will have turkey tomorrow. The fat young birds were selected from the flock of about 60 remaining in the poultry yard. More than 100 turkeys were raised on the farm this year, but nearly half of them already have been eaten.

OBITUARIES

Wallace M. Alexander.

HONOLULU, T. H., Nov. 22 [Special].—Wallace M. Alexander, wealthy sugar man and philanthropist, died today. He was 70 years old. He was born on the Island of Maui to American parents of English descent. His family had acquired large sugar plantations on the island which he inherited.

Alexander was president of the sugar firm of Alexander & Baldwin, a vice president of the Matson Navigation company, of the Hawaiian Commercial and Sugar company, and the Honolulu Consolidated Oil company, and a director of the California and Hawaiian Sugar Refining company, the Pacific Gas and Electric company, and the Columbia Steel corporation. For a time he was publisher of the San Francisco Bulletin. While a resident of San Francisco he was a member of committees promoting Japanese-American relations.

Alexander contributed large sums of money to church activities, the Boy Scout movement, and the development of tennis. He was graduated from Yale university in 1892.

A. W. Vogt.

Funeral services for A. W. Vogt, former Chicagoan and controler of the United States Steel Corporation of New Jersey, will be held tomorrow in Montclair, N. J. He was born 60 years ago in Württemberg, Germany; came here with his family, and was educated in the Chicago public schools. In 1894 he began his business career with the Illinois Steel company, and at his death was one of the few remaining officials of the United States Steel corporation who was with the organization at its formation in 1901.

John Homer.

John Homer, 68 years old, 7417 Eggleston avenue, a retired policeman, died last night in St. George's hospital of complications that developed after he was injured in a fall on Oct. 11. Homer was a brother of the late Matthew Homer, a police captain. He was an uncle of Lieut. George Homer and Sergt. Matthew Homer of the police force and of Battalion Chief John Homer of the fire department. Surviving are the widow and his mother, Mrs. Elline Homer.

Miss Addie R. Mullin.

Miss Addie R. Mullin, who was one of the first state registered nurses in Illinois, died yesterday at the age of 72 in St. Francis hospital in Peoria. She retired 10 years ago after having been a nurse in Chicago for more than 30 years. She was a former superintendent of the Mary Thompson hospital, now the Women's and Children's hospital, and was the first public health nurse in Hennepin, Putnam county. Her home was in Hennepin. Surviving are an adopted daughter, Mary Stewart Mullin of Hennepin, and a sister, Mrs. Jessie Mahon of Pensacola, Fla. The burial will be held Saturday at Henepin.

William A. Nofs.

Funeral services for William A. Nofs will be held at 9:30 a. m. tomorrow in St. Lawrence church at Elgin. Mr. Nofs, who lived at 891 West Chicago street, Elgin, died Tuesday night at the age of 74. He was a veteran of the traction service in Elgin and the Fox river valley and was at the controls of the first Chicago, Aurora and Elgin train to enter Aurora and Elgin from Chicago. Mr. Nofs served as motorman and later as train starter and station master at Elgin for 44 years. He leaves his widow, Eve, and a son, Capt. Herman W. Nofs of the state highway police.

Dr. Hans S. Linne.

San Francisco, Cal., Nov. 22 (AP).—Dr. Hans S. Linne, 76 years old, musical composer and conductor in the gay Vienna of Emperor Franz-Josef, died today in San Francisco hospital. He came to America in 1896, had successful concert tours, and in San Francisco became conductor of the People's Symphony orchestra.

Oliver S. Richardson.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Nov. 22 (AP).—Oliver S. Richardson, 84 years old, an attorney, oldest alumnus of the University of Pittsburgh and classmate of former Secretary of the Treasury Andrew W. Mellon, died today. Mellon's death in 1937 left Richardson the sole survivor of the class of '72.

Mary E. Gladwin.

Akron, O., Nov. 22 (AP).—Miss Mary E. Gladwin, 77 years old, war nurse who wrote the book "Ethics for Nurses," died today. She served with Red Cross organizations in Cuba, the Philippines, Serbia, and Japan, and was decorated by Japan, Serbia, and Russia.

Harry W. Le Clear.

Waterloo, N. Y., Nov. 22 (AP).—Harry W. Le Clear, 68 years old, president of the Mid-State Body corporation, died today. A native of Jackson, Mich., he resided here 40 years. The corporation manufactures automobile bodies.

Walter C. Hoban.

New York, Nov. 22 (AP).—Walter C. Hoban, 49 years old, comic artist and cartoonist, died last night. He was best known for his comic strip "Jerry on the Job."

DRIVER WHO FLED SCENE OF DEATHS FACES 2 CHARGES

A drinking companion of a couple killed by a hit and run motorist was charged yesterday with driving while intoxicated and leaving the scene of an accident. He is James Clark, 19 years old, 1628 Nelson street.

Clark and Cornelius Dever, 2900 North Oak Park avenue, and the victims—Miss Laura Rusenski, 23, of 212 North Hamlin avenue, and Francis D. Ryan, 29, of 2246 Superior street—stopped their car at Madison street and Albany avenue early Saturday. Miss Rusenski and Ryan alighted and were struck by a passing car.

Witnesses said that Clark, with Dever in the rear seat, drove away, leaving their companions lying on the street where they had been struck.

Dever, who had been in custody, was released yesterday.

Policeman Who Arrested Sacco and Vanzetti Dies

Brockton, Mass., Nov. 22 (AP).—Michael Connolly, policeman who arrested Nicola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti on May 5, 1920, died tonight. He was 58 years old. Connolly picked up the two on a Brockton street car and they later were executed after a seven year legal battle for the murder of two pay roll guards at a South Braintree shoe factory.

Jewish Editor, Communist Leader, Dies in New York

New York, Nov. 22 [Special].—Dr. Moissaye J. Olgin, 61 years old, editor of the Jewish daily morning Freiheit, member of the national committee of the communist party, and a revolutionist in czarist Russia prior to 1914, died here today of heart disease.

WHAT YOU SHOULD KNOW ABOUT FACE PIMPLES

These disfiguring spots affecting the outer or surface layer of the skin often result from a temporary disturbance, or merely from incorrect cleansing.

You can relieve the itchy, burning soreness and help your skin by using an ointment whose medication stays in active contact with the pimply spots. Apply it every night and leave it on all night. It does a world of good.

For nearly 45 years people have used Resinol Ointment to fill this need. It soothes the irritated oil ducts where many surface pimples start, and aids healing. Carefully cleansing the skin with Resinol Soap helps to quicken the pleasing results. Its gently active lather is refreshing and it rinses easily.

Buy a jar of Resinol Ointment and cake of Resinol Soap from any druggist. For free sample, write Resinol, Dept. 89, Baltimore, Md.

WATERMAN PEN FORTUNE SOUGHT BY OUTCAST SON

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Nov. 22.—Elisha Huson Waterman, one time outcast son of the fountain pen family, who lived 13 years in poverty as a dishwasher, short-order cook, and writer of detective stories, today instituted a suit that may give him complete control of the Waterman millions.

Elisha Waterman.

When his father, Frank D. Waterman, who once ran for mayor against James J. Walker, died on May 6, 1938, cutting him off with $100, Elisha indicated that he would claim only a $5,000,000 trust fund left by an uncle.

In his petition filed today, Elisha fired a broadside of charges at the management of the trust and the fountain pen business by his brother, Frank, and an aged uncle, Lewis E. Waterman Sr. He asked their summary removal as trustees of the fund and as managers of the business. The trust fund in question was established many years ago by Lewis E. Waterman Sr., inventor of the fountain pen. Under its terms, Elisha claimed in his petition, the income passed on to him and his daughter.

CHARITIES LEFT $9,500 IN WILL OF MORRIS KATZ

Jewish charities and the Chicago community fund will receive a total of $9,500 from the $25,000 estate left by Morris Katz, one of the founders of the Balaban & Katz theater chain. Bequests listed yesterday when his will was filed for probate were the Marks Nathan Jewish Orphans' home, the B. M. Z., Old People's home, and the Chicago Sinai congregation, $1,500 each; the Jewish Charities of Chicago, $2,500; the Jewish People's institute, $1,000; the American Jewish committee, $250, and the community fund, $1,250. The rest is to be placed in a family trust. Mr. Katz lived at 2912 Commonwealth avenue. He died last Friday at the age of 70.

WHEN YOUR LIVER ACTS UP • • • YOUR SPIRITS GO DOWN

A liver that fails to secrete all the bile it should may be the cause of much of the misery of temporary constipation. It is important therefore that the laxative you take also helps stimulate sufficient bile flow to act on intestinal waste. This is why Beechams Pills are increasingly favored as a laxative. By helping stimulate bile flow, this purely vegetable compound helps drive away the headachy, tired feeling that comes from faulty elimination. Buy Beechams Pills at your druggist's—10¢, 25¢, 50¢.

INLAND STEEL VOTES SPECIAL $1.50 DIVIDEND

Mills Are Operating at Capacity.

Directors of the Inland Steel company yesterday declared a special dividend of $1.50 a share on the capital stock, payable Dec. 20 to stockholders of record Dec. 5. This brings total 1939 payments to $4 in comparison with $2.50 paid in 1938.

L. E. Block.

L. Block, chairman of the company, told directors it appeared likely that Inland's November production and shipments would equal the record figures established in October, the announcement said.

Inland Steel, the largest independent producer in the Chicago area, has been operating its plants at capacity for several weeks.

Illinois Bell Votes $2.50.

Illinois Bell Telephone company declared a dividend of $2.50, bringing total 1939 payments to $8.50. The dividend is payable Dec. 15 to stock of record Dec. 4. Dividends of $2 a share were paid in previous quarters this year, and in 1938 a total of $8 was declared. Virtually all of the company's stock is owned by the American Telephone and Telegraph company.

Union Pacific railroad announced a dividend of $1.50 on common stock, payable Jan. 2 to holders of record Dec. 2. A total of $6 has been paid on the stock both in 1939 and 1938.

Directors of American Home Products corporation declared an extra disbursement of 25 cents, payable Dec. 23 to holders of record Dec. 14. This raises the 1939 total to $2.85, compared with $2.40 in 1938.

Salt Company Extra.

International Salt company declared an extra payment of 25 cents and a regular quarterly disbursement of 37½ cents on the common, bringing total 1939 payments to $1.75, compared with $2 paid in 1938.

Directors of the New York City Omnibus corporation announced a special dividend of $1.25 and a quarterly payment of 75 cents, both payable Dec. 22 to stock of record Dec. 14. The payments bring the year's total to $4, the same as in 1938.

A special dividend was also declared by the Omnibus corporation, amounting to 30 cents a share of common stock. A quarterly payment of the same amount was also declared, bringing this year's total to $1.20. A 30 cent initial payment and a special disbursement of the same amount were paid on Sept. 30.

Anaconda to Pay 50 Cents.

Anaconda Copper Mining company directors announced a payment of 50 cents, payable Dec. 21 to holders of record Dec. 5. This brings dividends for the year to $1.25, against 50 cents paid in 1938.

Congoleum-Nairn, Inc., a leading linoleum manufacturer, authorized an extra dividend of 50 cents as well as a usual payment of 25 cents. Both are payable Dec. 15 to holders of record Dec. 2. This raises 1939 payments to $1.50, compared with 75 cents in 1938.

A regular quarterly payment of 25 cents, declared by directors of the Pet Milk company, brings this year's total to $1, the same as was paid in 1938.

Directors of the Perfect Circle company announced a quarterly payment of 50 cents, payable Jan. 2 to stock of record Dec. 15. A total of $2 has been paid in 1939, compared to $1.50 in 1938.

SAND AND GRAVEL MEN INDICTED IN ANTITRUST DRIVE

Washington, D. C., Nov. 22 (AP).—The justice department announced today that a federal grand jury in New York had indicted a trade association, seven corporations, and 12 individuals engaged in the sand and gravel industry on charges of viloating the Sherman anti-trust act.

The association indicted was the Long Island Sand and Gravel Producers' association. The department charged that since its organization in January the price of sand had increased 35 per cent and the price of gravel 20 per cent.

The indictments were the fifth set in a series which began at Washington early in October, when the justice department announced a nationwide investigation of alleged anti-trust activities in the building industry.

Among those indicted [mostly New York men], were the Metropolitan Sand and Gravel corporation and its president, William A. Atkins of Indianapolis.

Sterling's Fall Spreads to Other Foreign Moneys

September quarter earnings totaled $656,052, against $590,691 in 1938.

Earnings of the Northwestern Public Service company for the twelve months increased $419,329, from $364,447 in the preceding twelve months. During the September quarter net income amounted to $103,417, against $104,925 in the September quarter of 1938.

Motor Wheel Earns More.

Motor Wheel corporation, manufacturer of automotive equipment, oil burners and other products, reported net income of $391,504, or 46 cents a share, for the September quarter. In the corresponding period last year earnings totaled $171,979, or 20 cents a share. Nine months' earnings climbed to $1,091,770, or $1.28 a share, from $87,524, or 10 cents a share, in 1938.

Earnings of Melville Shoe corporation, operator of a nation-wide chain of retail shoe stores, had profit of $1,453,556, or $3.53 a share, in the nine months ended Sept. 30. No comparable figure was available. For the full 1938 year, the corporation reported profit of $1,484,061, or $3.59 a share.

Public Service corporation of New Jersey and subsidiaries showed net income of $2,163,817 for October, compared with $2,160,350 in October, 1938. Net income for the twelve months ended Oct. 31 increased to $26,930,550, from $22,335,103 in the preceding twleve months.

ENGLAND HALVES PRICES PAID FOR AMERICAN FILMS

LONDON, Nov. 22 (AP).—Oliver Stanley, president of the Board of Trade, announced today an arbitrary cut of 50 per cent in the dollar revenue which may be remitted to United States producers for the rent of American motion pictures.

In a letter to Sir F. White, films council chairman on wartime arrangements for United States film renting companies, Stanley said, "during the period Nov. 1, 1939, to Oct. 31, 1940, companies will be authorized to remit in dollars an amount representing 50 per cent of their past remittances based on the average of the past three years."

Oil Men Prepare to Fight Control by Government

Austin, Tex., Nov. 22 [Special].—Railroad Commissioner Ernest O. Thompson, chairman of the interstate oil compact commission, today called a meeting of the state compact representatives in Wichita, Kas., Dec. 14. A summary of results achieved by the states in conservation of oil and gas to offset claims of the necessity for federal oil production control will be made at the meeting, Thompson said.

Principal Markets Are Closed Today

The country's principal security and commodity exchanges and banks will be closed today in observance of Thanksgiving. Minneapolis and Duluth grain exchanges, however, will remain open. TOBACCO CONTROL VOTED BY 90,000; BINDS 160,000 MORE

Washington, D. C., Nov. 22 [Special.]—Approximately 90,000 burley growers voted for quota control on the 1940 tobacco crop. Thru their action, approximately 160,000 other growers are bound to comply with the quotas issued by the government or pay 10 cents a pound penalties.

The votes were cast in the Agricultural Adjustment administration's tobacco grower's referendum. Virtually complete returns showed 89,123 in favor of the quota and 17,710 opposed. Only an approximate half of the growers eligible, voted. Last year the quota measure was defeated when a total of 217,000 growers voted.

Only 19 Illinois growers voted or were expected to vote. Out of that number, 13 voted for and 1 against, and 5 growers were yet to be heard from.

The growers' action is expected to increase the tobacco prices on this year's crop at markets opening early in December. The largest crop in history, 354,000,000 pounds, was raised this year. Experts said the resultant low price influenced quota voting by the growers.

DECLARES RIGHT TO TRADE DESPITE WAR IN EUROPE

Washington, D. C., Nov. 22 (AP).—Sumner Welles, acting secretary of state, made it clear today that this government believed its citizens had a right to carry on bona fide trade with neutral countries despite the war in Europe.

Welles disclosed yesterday that the United States had advised Great Britain that it was not indorsing any principle involving interference by belligerents with trade of a genuinely neutral character.

Asked today to define genuinely neutral trade, Welles replied that it would consist of bona fide transactions between the citizens of one neutral country and the citizens of another neutral.

Welles made known this government's declaration to Great Britain after the British embassy announced a new system of preshipment examinations designed to expedite American exports to a group of neutral European countries.

NEW YORK CITY TRACTION DEAL NOW EFFECTIVE

New York, Nov. 22 [Special].—The city transit commission announced today that the city's agreement to purchase the Interborough and Manhattan Rapid Transit systems for $151,248,187 has become effective. The announcement meant that deposits of Interborough refunding 5s and of Manhattan railway combined stock issues had been brought over the required percentages during the last week.

Actual transfer of the lines and operation by the city are still some way in the future, however, because the interborough and Manhattan are both in federal receivership.

The next step will be for the trustees for underlying bonds to apply to the district court to decree foreclosure and sale of the properties to purchasing committees, at upset prices to be fixed by the court. The committee then will sell to the city at the fixed price.

Red Caps Sue to Collect $500,000 in Back Wages

Three railroad companies were named defendants in suits filed yesterday by the International Brotherhood of Red Caps, which seeks to collect back wages totaling more than $500,000 allegedly due 425 of its members under the wage and hour law. Defendants are the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific railroad, the Cincinnati Union Terminal company and the Washington Terminal company. The suits were filed in the federal district courts of northern Illinois, southern Ohio and Washington, D. C.

It's an Early Thanksgiving; Will It Work?

Washington, D. C., Nov. 22 (AP).—If an earlier Thanksgiving doesn't boom Christmas buying, some people's faces will be redder than cranberry jelly.

Retail merchants assured President Roosevelt that it would, that at least a million people would be employed for an extra week, and he changed the date. Now, both government and business are watching the outcome anxiously. A 10 per cent gain is hoped for.

The fact that about half the states are celebrating the new Thanksgiving and half the old, while a few are observing both, will give a basis for comparing the longer shopping season with the shorter.

Day Earlier than 1938.

Other bases of comparison may be nebulous. The new Thanksgiving, after all, is only a day earlier than last year's date, and a department of commerce statistician said today that the average difference of three days in the date previously had caused little change in trade.

On the other hand, Dr. David R. Craig, president of the American Retail federation, said: "We have noticed that Christmas business was better when Thanksgiving came earlier."

However, he acknowledged that the new holiday comes at a time when the market is rising anyway, and that it might be difficult to distinguish the normal business rise from any Christmas spurt.

With that in mind, the National Retail Dry Goods association is planning to allow for such factors in calculating the effect of an earlier Thanksgiving.

Washington experts hesitate to risk an estimate on the amount of new business. Dr. Craig said a billion dollars in additional national income would be a "wild guess."

Half a Billion Normal.

The normal Christmas business of the 5,700 retail stores in the dry goods association is half a billion.

Normally, December buying is one and one-half times that of the average month, said Dr. Craig. What it will be this year, he added, may depend on such a vagary as the weather.

"By all the rules of retailing, stores should add to their total sales volume," said Nelson A. Miller of the commerce department's marketing research division.

Customers will not buy Christmas goods until after Thanksgiving, he said, and it is an axiom in the retail business that a day lost during a sale can never be recovered.

SHIP SINKINGS CAUSE BOOST IN INSURANCE RATE

New York, Nov. 22 [Special].—The recent sinking of ships by mines in the North sea has resulted in an increase in London open market insurance rates for neutral vessels, it was announced today.

Shipments from the United States to Tallinn, Estonia, are quoted at £8 per £100 valuation, or $31.52 for each $394 valuation, against an old rate of £5, or $19.70. Shorter trips between Great Britain and nearby continental ports are quoted up to £3, or $11.82, per £100, against an old rate of $3.94.

The government war risk office has issued a new schedule which is largely a codification of the previous list with two new classifications in the east and far east sections. Rates for these are as follows: Canada and United States Pacific ports, 10s, or $1.97, for £100, and British North American Atlantic ports and Central and South American Atlantic and Pacific ports, via cape or Panama, 20s, or $3.94.

BUTTER PRODUCTION SCHEDULED TO BREAK RECORDS THIS YEAR

Another record year of butter production was predicted yesterday by the American Butter institute in a compilation of figures to be presented at the institute's 31st annual convention at the Palmer house Dec. 5 and 6.

"Production of creamery butter for the first nine months of this year was practically unchanged from that of the 1938 period," the institute reported.

"Production for all of 1938 reached an all time high of 1,786,152,000 pounds. The 1939 nine month total is 1,406,408,000 pounds, or 7 per cent higher than the eight year [1930-'37] average."

Figures for the final three months will bring 1939 output above that of 1938, the report indicated.

Butter futures sagged slightly in dull trading on the Chicago Mercantile Exchange yesterday, altho some deliveries made gains at the close. December closed at 27.45 cents a pound, 0.05 cent higher than on Tuesday, and the current month dropped 0.05 cent to 27.45 cents. Egg futures rallied from early declines, most deliveries closing unchanged.

ASSOCIATED GAS DIVIDEND UNDER PROBE BY SEC

Washington, D. C., Nov. 22 (AP).—The securities commission ordered the Associated Gas and Electric corporation today to show cause why it should not be prevented from paying further dividends on its capital stock.

Hearing on the proposed order was set for Friday. The SEC said that it would hear evidence at the same time on a recent application of the corporation to pay certain interest on its debentures.

The commission said that it had reasonable cause to believe that the firm was about to declare dividends out of capital or unearned surplus which would "impair the financial integrity of subsidiary public utility and holding companies" and also would "impair the working capital of public utility companies" in the system.

All of the corporation's capital stock is held by Associated Gas and Electric company, top unit in a system having more than $1,000,000,000 assets.

CONTRACTS MADE FOR ENGINEERING PROJECTS DROP

New York, Nov. 22 (AP).—Engineering construction awards for the week ended Tuesday totaled $47,655,000, less than half the extraordinarily high volume of the previous week and 4 per cent below a year ago, Engineering News-Record reported today.

Private awards continued their excellent showing, however, topping a year ago by 82 per cent. It marked the 11th consecutive week that private awards had exceeded their respective 1938 values.

Public construction dropped 63 per cent below the previous week and 34 per cent under a year ago. Comparisons follow:

FAIR LABOR ACT HELD LEGAL BY FEDERAL COURT

Rules Congress May Control Wages.

The fair labor standards act of 1938 was held constitutional yesterday by Federal Judge William H. Holly in a 15 page opinion covering a Montgomery Ward & Co. case. The judge declared that congress has the power to prescribe minimum wages for the protection of the health and good order of society.

He said that "certainly it cannot be maintained now that congress may not, in the interests of the general welfare of the country, prohibit the shipment in interstate commerce of the products of underpaid and sweated labor. Regulation of the wages and hours of labor is a proper exercise of police power."

Judge Holly's opinion was described by Alex Elson, regional attorney for the wage and hour administration, as the first broad interpretation of the law made by a federal court.

Failed to Heed Subpena.

The case grew out of the refusal of the Chicago mail order and chain store company to heed a subpena of Elmer F. Andrews, former wages and hours administrator, to produce records in connection with alleged violation of the act by its Kansas City, Mo., branch.

The judge ordered Stuart Ball, secretary of the company, to produce the records as requested by the board.

One of the contentions of the company in refusing to heed the subpena was that interstate commerce was not necessarily involved because some of its employés at Kansas City were engaged in purely local business.

"Employer and employé do not stand on the plane of equality," Judge Holly said. "Wages, especially of unskilled employés, tend toward the lowest point at which the laborer can subsist. The resulting conditions are of interest not only to the wage earner, but to the whole community.

View on Regulation.

"Certainly, if it is within the power of the state to regulate the commissions that may be paid to insurance agents, it is not an unwarranted exercise of police power to prescribe minimum wages for the protection of the health and good order of society."

Judge Holly said it was not necessary for him to determine whether all the provisions of the act were within the power of congress. He said that doubtless it will be difficult to determine which of the employés whose cases were brought up in the Kansas City action were subject to the act and which were not. Consequently the only reasonable method of investigation open to the government is to have all records so the administrator may determine for himself who is covered and who is not.

"I am of the opinion that congress has the power to require the keeping of records, and that the administrator may, at his pleasure, require the production of such records," he added.

Imposes $20,000 Fine.

In another action under the wages and hours act Judge Holly imposed total fines of $20,000 on the Allied Golf corporation, 4528 Fullerton avenue, and Edward C. Raffel, its treasurer. The defendants were ordered to pay $2,500 each, the remainder to be suspended pending the payment to employés of back wages estimated at $5,000.

The defendants last Monday pleaded guilty to an indictment charging falsification and failure to keep required records and failure to pay overtime.

Federal Corn Loan Program Is Maintained

Washington, D. C., Nov. 22 (AP).—Midwestern farmers who have coöperated with the federal crop control program this year may store their corn and borrow on it from the government at a rate ranging from 5 to 15 cents a bushel above local market prices now prevailing. Provision for such loans was made today by Secretary Wallace under terms of the farm act of 1938.

Corn sealed in a farmer's crib or in commercial storage facilities by coöperating farmers in the commercial corn area will be eligible for a government guaranteed loan of 57 cents a bushel. Farmers will be required to pay 3 per cent interest on the loans. The former rate was 4 per cent.

Corn is being quoted at local markets in this area at between 42 and 52 cents a bushel, depending largely upon its location in reference to terminal markets and upon local supply and demand conditions.

Altho 80 per cent of the corn growers in the commercial area coöperated with the 1939 AAA program, officials predicted that not more than 300 million bushels of this year's big crop of 2,591,000,000 bushels would be stored under loans.

They said that about 253 million bushels of 1937 and 1938 corn has been resealed under previous loan programs and that consequently there are insufficient storage facilities to accommodate a larger amount of grain.

Includes 586 Counties.

The commercial area comprises 586 major corn producing counties in Illinois, Indiana, Ohio, Michigan, Wisconsin, Minnesota, South Dakota, Iowa, Nebraska, Missouri, Kansas, and Kentucky. Outside of this area loans will be made at 43 cents a bushel. However, since the noncommercial area produces no corn in excess of its feeding needs, little grain is expected to be placed under loan in this area.

Farm officials said the loan program was designed to bolster farm prices by enabling growers to place unneeded grain under loan and thereby hold it off the market until prices improved. If at the expiration of the loan the market price is below the loan rate, the borrowing farmer has the privilege of surrendering the grain as full payment of his obligation.

Loans Have Been Renewed.

However, the government has been following the practice of renewing the loans so that farmers might continue to hold title to the grain and be in a position to benefit from any advance in prices above the loan rate.

Loans will not be made on corn with a moisture content greater than 20½ per cent because of the danger of spoilage in storage. Farmers may obtain loans thru their banks or other local lending agencies. Such loans would be guaranteed by the Commodity Credit corporation. Loans will be available from Dec. 1 to March 31, 1940, and will be due Aug. 1, 1940.

190 MILLION FOR ILLINOIS

Urbana, Ill., Nov. 22 [Special].—A potential $190,000,000 in ready cash is made available to Illinois farmers on their 1939 crop, it was estimated by agricultural experts at the University of Illinois, by virtue of a federal corn loan rate of 57 cents a bushel announced today by Secretary Wallace.

Approximately 80 per cent of the state's 1939 crop of 416,790,000 bushels, or 333,432,000 bushels, is eligible for loans, it was estimated.

The loan rate on mixed corn, as compared with the 57 cent basis for yellow or white corn, is 55 cents, according to details of the program received by Lee M. Gentry, chairman of the state AAA committee at Decatur.

OIL DISMISSALS ARE UPHELD BY SUPREME COURT

Regarded Big Blow to Trust Drive.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 22.—The United States Supreme court today upheld the dismissal of 11 of the defendants in the Madison, Wis., oil conspiracy case.

Judge Stone, whose ruling was upheld.

The court's refusal to grant a government motion to set aside and expunge from the record the order of dismissal entered by Federal Judge Patrick T. Stone was regarded as a severe blow to the justice department's campaign against large groups of individuals and corporations for alleged violation of the anti-trust laws.

The government had sought to show in a lengthy trial at Madison, in 1937 and 1938 that oil operators in the midwestern states banded together to raise and control gasoline prices artificially.

Evidence Lacking, Says Judge.

After a jury had found 46 defendants guilty, Judge Stone dismissed 11, granted new trials to 18, and sustained the conviction of 17. He ruled that there was a lack of evidence against the 11 dismissed.

Judge Stone's action was upheld by the United States Circuit Court of Appeals last February. The government then carried the case to the Supreme court. The eight judges were divided 4 to 4 on the government's petition. A tie vote automatically upholds the decision of the lower court.

Chief Justice Hughes, in announcing the decision rendered no opinion and there was no announcement of the manner in which the judges were split. Court observers speculated that Justices Frankfurter, Reed, Black, and Douglas probably favored the government's motion and that Justices Hughes, McReynolds, Stone, and Roberts voted the other way.

May Seek Reconsideration.

The government may seek reconsideration of the decision after the vacancy caused by the death of Justice Pierce Butler is filled. If Attorney General Frank Murphy is appointed the ninth member of the court by President Roosevelt, as seems likely, the same observers wondered if Mr. Murphy would, for ethical reasons, refrain from voting on a question affecting the department over which he had presided.

The tie vote may affect the President's choice of a new justice, according to speculation. The four Roosevelt appointees were reportedly lined up against the four justices appointed under previous administrations. To obtain decisions unanimously consistent with his ideology, Mr. Roosevelt must apparently choose a ninth man as staunchly New Dealer as a Black or Frankfurter, it was said.

No Encroachment on Jury.

The Supreme court decision tacitly upheld the Circuit Court of Appeals' holding that Judge Stone's dismissal of 11 defendants was no encroachment on the province of the jury.

Let Us Give Thanks

Let us give thanks for our national abundance in the face of world-wide scarcity. ❦ Let us give thanks that America is at peace. May God strengthen her resolve to keep clear of Europe's endless wars. ❦ Let us give thanks, too, for the strides we have made within our own borders against disease, fear and death. ❦ In particular, let us be thankful that the trend of one important cause of fatalities—the traffic accident—again has been downward. We at Lumbermens are especially happy in this, for the "Not-Over-50" Club, a group of 250,000 motorists voluntarily pledged to drive under 50 miles an hour, has helped make this possible.

Stocks, Bonds

New York Stocks.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Nov. 22.—Stocks receded further today in continued quiet trading. Fractional losses ruled, altho several high priced issues dropped as much as 2 points. Volume was 567,160 shares. Most trading was ascribed to evening up operations for the Thanksgiving holiday.

Representative industrial shares were soft thruout, altho selling pressure was not heavy at any time. United States Steel, Bethlehem, Chrysler, Montgomery Ward, Westinghouse, and Anaconda gave ground.

General Motors hardened a fraction. Low priced motor stocks also made a fairly good showing. Aviation shares ruled close to previous finals, with Curtiss-Wright taking volume honors. Rubbers maintained an even keel, United States Rubber bulging a fraction. General Electric met support to add ⅛ point. American Can and Allied Chemical, among high priced shares, lost 2 points each.

New York traction shares pointed higher on the announcement that deposits under the interborough unification plan were above the required amount. Brooklyn-Manhattan Transit and Manhattan Railway Guaranteed stood out.

Rails held to a narrowly lower course. There were some bright spots among power and light shares. Commonwealth Edison and North American company were active and firm. American Power and Light 5 and 6 per cent preferreds rose 2¼ and 3 points respectively.

Pathe Film, among specialties, again moved higher on relatively good buying. Commercial Solvents added nearly a point on improved demand.

New York Bonds.

New York, Nov. 22 (AP).—Pre-holiday profit selling in recently strong speculative issues put many minus signs in today's bond market. Low yield loans generally remained on firm ground. Rails were well represented in the weak group.

Trading volume rose to the highest total since Oct. 26 at $8,244,700 face value contrasted with $6,836,275 Tuesday.

Some United States government loans rose 1-32d to 10-32ds in slow dealings. A few slid back a little. Foreign loans were as uneven as domestics.

Chicago Stocks.

Losses exceeded gains on the Chicago Stock exchange yesterday. Trading continued at a low ebb. Aro Equipment reversed the trend, finising ⅝ point higher at 15.

Fractional declines were registered by Chicago corporation, two Midland Utilities preferred issues, and Schwitzer-Cummins. Rollins Hosiery, most active issue; Commonwealth Edison, and Consolidated Oil held steady.

Arrangements were made for the sale of a membership at $1,900. This was $400 higher than the last previous sale.

Bank Stocks.

First National gained 2 points, closing on a bid price of 229, in bank stock trading yesterday. Chicago Title and Trust gained a point to 124. Others were unchanged.

MARK TRAIN'S ANNIVERSARY.

The first anniversary of the Capitol Limited of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad as a streamlined Diesel-electric powered train will take place today. The train runs between Chicago and Washington. W. G. Brown, traffic manager of the road, said that since the train has been streamlined its business has increased considerably.

SET FUR WAGE HEARING.

The wage-hour administration will conduct a hearing Dec. 7 on a request for a seasonal exemption from the wage-hour law for the raw fur receiving industry. The request was filed by the Raw Fur and Wool association, St. Louis.

RAILWAY INCOME 6 TIMES LARGER THAN LAST YEAR

September Total Passes 41 Million Mark.

Class 1 railroads showed September net income after fixed charges of better than six times the total for the 1938 month, the Association of American Railroads reported yesterday.

The railroads' combined total was $41,078,000, compared with $6,395,000 in September, 1938. Net income before fixed charges totaled $86,435,000, against $50,406,000 a year ago.

Deficit Is Reduced.

According to the association, class 1 railroads had a combined deficit of $3,267,000 after fixed charges for the first nine months of the year, compared with a deficit of $175,570,000 in the corresponding 1938 period.

Altho the Union Pacific railroad's October gross increased over last year, net income before fixed charges showed a decrease because of increased maintenance expenses, the company stated. Net operating income for October was $2,680,327, compared with $3,223,251 a year ago. October gross totaled $17,565,907, compared with $16,203,743 last year.

HOLIDAY TRIMS GRAIN TRADING; WHEAT LOWER

Preholiday dullness prevailed in American grain markets yesterday. Prices held within narrow limits, with speculative interest at a minimum. Dry weather reports from states west of the Missouri river were ignored as a market influence. Closing trades on wheat futures in the Chicago market were unchanged to ¼ cent lower.

Announcement that the government would loan farmers 57 cents a bushel on their 1939 corn crop failed to attract much attention, being in line with trade expectations. Corn futures were unchanged.

Condition of winter wheat shows improvement in the states east of the Mississippi river due to recent rains, the weather bureau reported. No change was noted in the condition of the crop west of the Missouri river, where the drouth continues unabated.

Western Union Employes Appeal Ruling by NLRB

A. F. Schmidt, general secretary and treasurer of the Association of Western Union Employés, said yesterday the association has appealed a ruling of the National Labor Relations board of Nov. 2 ordering the union disestablished. Pending a decision of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals, the union is continuing in operation, Schmidt said. An article which appeared yesterday incorrectly gave the impression the association had disbanded.

GRANGE URGES CONGRESS TO END TRADE BARRIERS

Peoria, Ill., Nov. 22 (AP).—The national grange convention took cognizance of a "tendency to erect trade barriers between the states." It adopted a resolution urging congress to assume its constitutional duties and regulate commerce between states on a fair trade basis insofar as is possible.

The Grange expressed its opposition to "any general sales tax" and asserted that all taxes should be based on ability to pay. The tax resolution also suggested taxation as a means of halting further increase in farm tenancy by institution of a graduated tax to bring about dissolution of large holdings of agricultural lands. The Grange for many years has sponsored the family sized farm as the ideal agricultural unit.

STEEL OPERATING RATE TO CONTINUE AT HIGH LEVELS

Steady Trend Is Forecast by Iron Age.

Present indications are that the steel industry's rate of ingot production, unchanged this week at 93.5 per cent of theoretical capacity, will continue to the end of the year with little variation, the magazine Iron Age said yesterday.

"New orders, as distinguished from specifications being received against old commitments, apparently are heavy enough to support operating rates ranging from 65 to 80 per cent," the magazine said.

High Rate Predicted.

"When the heavy backlogs piled up in the last few months are taken into account, strong mill schedules for the early part of the first quarter of 1940 seem assured."

The publication expected a decline during the remaining weeks of the year in the volume of fresh steel orders, but said that tonnages will be larger than the mills anticipated a month ago.

Delivery periods have been shortened on structural materials, tubular goods, and other products, but backlogs have not been reduced appreciably in sheets and strips, bars and railroad material, according to Iron Age.

Await Chrysler Orders.

A factor in mill schedules during the next few months, the publication predicted, will be steel requirements at the Chrysler plants where a settlement of a strike is expected. Part of Chrysler's needs may be filled from steel in storage.

"During the last few days," the publication reported, "agitation over first quarter steel quotations has subsided, with many observers in the steel industry looking for an early reaffirmation of prices which would show only minor adjustments."

The Iron Age scrap composite declined to $19.58, compared with a 1939 peak of $22.50 reached Oct. 3.

LUCIEN A. EDDY HELD GUILTY OF TRUST LOOTING

New York, Nov. 22 [Special].—A verdict of guilty was returned today against Lucien A. Eddy, former vice president of the Equitable Trust company, and three other individuals and two corporations in a $1,000,000 investment looting case. The federal court jury was out 26 hours.

The defendants were charged with mail fraud, conspiracy, and violation of the Securities and Exchange act. In addition to Eddy, those convicted—all of New York, except one—are Edward E. Embree, investment counselor and publisher of an investment weekly; Samuel Sobel, lawyer; Ernest K. Schwartz, sales promoter, of Brownsville, Pa., and the Weil Management Company, Inc., and Kenyon & Co.

SELL SANITARY DISTRICT LOAN AT $26,099 PREMIUM

Redeem Old Issue to Save Interest.

A group of Chicago banks headed by the Northern Trust company was the high bidder yesterday on $4,661,500 of series C Sanitary district of Chicago refunding bonds. The banks offered a premium of $26,099, or 100.55 for a 2¼ per cent coupon. Proceeds from the sale will be used to redeem on Jan. 1, 1940, a like amount of bonds bearing interest at 4¼, 4½, and 5 per cent due Jan. 1, 1955.

The new bonds mature 1946 to 1954. The banking group, which also includes the First National Bank of Chicago, the Harris Trust and Savings bank, the City National Bank and Trust company, and the American National Bank and Trust company, is reoffering the 1946 to 1954 maturities at prices to yield 1.90 to 0.995 per cent. The 1941 to 1945 maturities are not being reoffered.

Saving Is $1,514,756.

Ross A. Woodhull, president of the sanitary district board, said the refunding operation would save taxpayers $1,514,756 in interest charges in the next 15 years.

First Boston corporation heads a group which was the high bidder for $1,800,000 of Chicago and North Western railway 2½ per cent equipment trust certificates on a bid of 102.14. Second high bid was 102.014 by the Northern Trust company. The notes, which mature at the rate of $180,000 annually from Dec. 15, 1940 thru 1949, are being reoffered at prices to yield 0.45 per cent to 2.35 per cent.

Haskell, Scott & Jennings, Inc. reported that more than half of the 24,000 shares of $2 par common stock of Skilsaw, Inc., Chicago, offered early this week, have been sold. The offering price was $8.25 a share.

Telephone Stock Offered.

Bonbright & Co. headed a group which offered 46,292 shares of $2.50 cumulative preferred stock of the Pennsylvania Telephone corporation at $55.25 a share. The telephone company, which has its headquarters in Erie, Pa., disclosed that it will sell privately to 12 insurance companies $5,200,000 of 3¼ per cent bonds, due 1969, at 101¼. Proceeds from the sale of the bonds and the stock will be used to retire an outstanding 4 per cent bond issue and to redeem 23,146 shares of 6 per cent preferred stock.

American Gas and Electric company, one of the Electric Bond and Share group, plans a $63,000,000 financing operation involving the sale of new preferred stock and debentures, it was learned yesterday. Proceeds will be used to retire existing issues. Stockholders are expected to be asked to approve the new financing within the next two weeks.

Utility to Finance.

The Public Service Company of Colorado revived its registration statement covering $40,000,000 of bonds and $12,500,000 of debentures by filing an amendment with the Securities and Exchange commission.

First Boston corporation purchased an issue of $5,000,000 of city of Boston, Mass., tax notes on a 0.32 per cent interest basis, plus a premium of $34. The notes, dated Nov. 27, will fall due on Nov. 1, 1940. They were reoffered to yield 0.25 per cent.

COTTON

German submarine and mine warfare is commencing to have a far reaching effect on England and France in the way of reducing supplies of cotton, it was reported yesterday. The Liverpool cotton futures market advanced the permissible daily limit of 25 English points as the result of buying induced by a reported shortage of ocean freight room and increased war risk insurance rates.

Prices in American cotton markets were higher with early aggressive buying attributed to spot firms a factor, but the upturn was lost later on selling by the south and hedging pressure. Closing trades were 0.01 to 0.09 cent a pound lower.

Spot cotton closed 0.03 to 0.10 cent lower with New York, 9.88 cents; New Orleans, 9.78 cents; Galveston, 9.40 cents and Houston at 9.25 cents a pound. Prices follow:

OIL DISMISSALS ARE UPHELD BY SUPREME COURT

Regarded as Heavy Blow to Anti-Trust Drive.

Justice Otto Kerner, Roosevelt appointee, declared in his decision at the time that it would be a monstrous penalty on the defendants if the government were allowed to bring them to trial again after it had failed to prove its case in the first instance.

"The creation of a right in this case would come very close to violating the ancient doctrine codified in our constitution that the accused shall not twice be put in jeopardy of life or limb for the same offense," he asserted.

Judge Stone's rulings were made in July, 1938, six months after the end of the 111 day trial. Indictments were returned originally against 72 individuals and corporations.

During the course of the trial Judge Stone dismissed 16 individual defendants, 7 of the corporation and 3 trade publications, leaving the cases of 46 defendants to go to the jury.

Names of Defendants.

The defendants freed in the dismissal order were: Henry M. Dawes, Chicago, president of the Pure Oil company; Edward G. Seubert, Chicago, president of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana; Allan Jackson, Chicago, vice president of Standard Oil of Indiana; C. L. Jones, New York, vice president of Socony-Vacuum Oil company; Bryan S. Reid, general manager, Chicago division, Socony-Vacuum Oil company; Dan Moran, Ponca City, Okla., president of the Continental Oil company; Frank Phillips, Bartlesville, Okla., president of the Phillips Petroleum company; W. G. Skelly, Tulsa, Okla., president of the Skelly Oil company; Jacob France, Baltimore, Md., president and general manager, Mid-Continent Petroleum corporation; A. V. Borque, Tulsa, Okla., secretary and treasurer of the Western Petroleum Refiners' association, and the Globe Refining company, Kansas.

Defense Against Charges.

In their defense against the conspiracy charges, the defendants brought out that they had consulted government officials on their efforts to stabilize the oil industry and had received apparent approval.

No date for the new trials granted 18 of the defendants has been set, according to the law firm of Kirkland, Fleming, Green, Martin & Ellis, which represented Judge Stone. Government attorneys will have to appear before Federal Judge Walter C. Lindley of Danville, Ill., to have a date set, if the government decides to prosecute the charges again.

Oral arguments will be heard in February on appeal by the government from a Circuit Court of Appeals reversal of the conviction of 17 other defendants in the case.

WAR AND GILLETTE.

I understand Gillette Safety Razor company has a large foreign business. What effect will the war have upon its foreign sales? Kindly give me a report on the company.—G. T.

Answer: Foreign sales of the Gillette Safety Razor company represented in 1938 about one-half of its total sales of 16 million dollars. The foreign sales accounted for most of the net income in 1938. Gillette has depended heavily upon its foreign trade. With less competition abroad, its foreign division has operated to better advantage than the domestic branch.

Gillette has plants in London, Paris, Berlin, Montreal, Rio de Janeiro, as well as at Boston. The large London factory was completed in 1936 and the new plant in Berlin opened late in 1937. Gillette depends less on an export trade from this country to Europe because of its foreign plants and, therefore, will not be seriously affected by the disturbance of shipping by the war.

Adverse factors cutting into foreign earnings, however, are the military demand for steel, which is an essential raw material for Gillette, increasing costs of labor, and the rising burden of war taxes. Restrictions on foreign exchange also impede the transfer of foreign profits into American currency.

The company has been faced with broader domestic competition since the expiration in 1921 of its basic patents covering the safety razor and blades. Gillette has acted to maintain its dominant position in the industry by developing new types of razors, a shaving cream, and recently an electric dry shaver.

Costly litigation over patent rights has eaten into this company's earnings in recent years. Declining sales reduced 1938 net income to the lowest level since the present company was formed in 1917. For the first nine months this year, however, net profit rose to $2,418,360, or 65 cents a common share, from $2,061,723, or 47 cents a share, in the corresponding period of 1938. Earnings in the last five years follow:

	Total income.	Net income.	Earned per share.
1934	$6,051,000	$4,229,000	$1.34
1935	6,324,000	4,509,000	1.51
1936	6,739,000	4,976,000	1.72
1937	6,501,000	4,500,000	1.50
1938	5,080,000	2,942,000	0.72

The company has outstanding 300,000 shares of $5 cumulative preference stock and 1,998,769 shares of no par common stock. There is no funded debt.

CHICAGO LIVE STOCK

The hog market was under pressure of increased receipts yesterday. Prices weakened mostly 10 cents and closed as much as 15 cents lower, with final rates at new five year lows. Eleven markets received 70,000 head, an increase of 12,000 over Wednesday of last week and 33,000 more than a year ago.

A small lot of selected lights reached $5.95, but the best price for load lots halted at $5.90.

Colder weather and broader consumer demand for pork bolstered the wholesale trade. Some of the best light cuts sold as much as 50 cents a hundred pounds above Tuesday's levels.

Steers and yearlings ruled strong to 25 cents higher. The $11.15 top was paid for two loads averaging 1,075 and 1,110 pounds.

Fed westerns topped the lamb trade at $9.40.

[All prices are in dollars per 100 pounds.]

WARN EXPORTERS TO GUARD TRADE IN NEW ZEALAND

Chicago exporters were warned yesterday to take immediate steps to protect their trade in New Zealand, which is part of the British empire. The warning was issued by George C. Payne, Chicago district manager of the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce.

Payne announced that the American consulate general in New Zealand had cabled that all applications for importation of merchandise into New Zealand during the first six months of 1940 must be made before the end of next week.

Payne said no announcement had been made in regard to restrictions on motor vehicles, which were said to be receiving special consideration. Greater preference will be given products of the empire next year, Payne said he had been informed.

LOST AND FOUND.

TO FINDERS.

Local Loan Gives You SERVICE

Our aim is to offer you whatever plan will enable you to borrow most easily. LOCAL LOAN makes liberal Furniture and Auto Loans, but if you are steadily employed we prefer to make you a loan On Your Signature Only without mortgages or endorsers.

75% of our loans are Signature Only Loans to employed men and women. LOCAL LOAN originated and perfected this service because employed people—young or old and regardless of occupation—are entitled to a simplified loan method. You may obtain $25 to $300—

Salary Loans
On Your Signature Only

You make your own repayment terms [repaying any time within 20 months], and you are charged only for the actual time you have the money.

When you deal with LOCAL LOAN you borrow without the knowledge of your employer, friends and relatives.

We cannot tell you all about our service in our advertisement. Just phone one of the following offices. Your loan request can be taken over the telephone so you can obtain the money more quickly when you call in person.

CHICAGO BEAUTY SKYROCKETS TO MODEL SUCCESS

Unknown Month Ago, She Reaches Top in N. Y.

Gay Hayden [top], Dorothy Temple [center], and Beatrice Imhoff.

New York, Nov. 22 [Special].—A Chicago girl who was unknown in New York a month ago is known today as one of this city's leading beauties. She is Miss Marion Savage, a red haired girl endowed with good looks, intelligence, and determination.

Miss Savage is a model. Her rise to top ranking in a field where beauty, charm, and general loveliness are basic and common qualities is the talk of the modeling world. Already she has signed to make screen tests for two motion picture companies.

An orphan, Miss Savage was born in Chicago and educated at St. Leo's school and at Longwood academy there. Two aunts, Mrs. Elizabeth Buckley and Mrs. Catherine Quirk, live at 6808 Indiana avenue, Chicago.

Career Begun in Chicago.

It was in Chicago that Miss Savage began her career as a model. A little more than a month ago, while she was in Detroit modeling for illustrations for several automobile manufacturers, she mailed a scrapbook of her illustrative work to John Robert Powers, head of a model booking agency. He sent for her at once, and since then Miss Savage has been in demand at studios, advertising agencies, and elsewhere, where beauty of her kind is wanted for decorative purposes.

Other Girls Make Good.

She is one of a number of Chicago models who have made good in New York. Among them are Gay Hayden, Beatrice Imhoff, and Dorothy Temple, whose features are familiar to magazine and newspaper readers.

It is estimated that only about one model in 20,000 achieve first rate ranking. But for those the reward often is considerable. Hollywood sometimes is the goal. Among top flight models who have been lured to Hollywood are Paulette Goddard, Barbara Stanwyck, Joan Blondell, and Anita Louise.

Society to Give Benefit for Crippled Childrens Camp

The Chrysalis Society for the Advancement of the Handicapped will give a benefit party in the South Side Masonic temple, 64th and Green streets, at 8 p. m., Saturday, for the Happy Haven Camp for Crippled Children in Plymouth, Ind. Alumni of Chicago's schools for crippled children, their friends, and relatives have been invited. The party is in appreciation of the services of Mrs. Florence Prouty Robinson, who operates the Plymouth camp.

CRA TO MERGE 2 OFFICES INTO NEW DISTRICT

The Humboldt and Union district offices of the Chicago Relief administration will be consolidated into a new district No. 4 on Dec. 4, Leo M. Lyons, CRA head, said yesterday. He also said the Irving Park district, which serves most of the northwestern part of the city, will be combined next Monday with the present district No. 2.

The Union district extends from Paulina street to the west boundary of the city, and from Arthington to Lake streets. The Humboldt district is bounded by Lake street, Crawford avenue, Armitage avenue, and Damen avenue.

District No. 2 was formed recently from two former districts serving the northeastern part of the city. These consolidations, which involve 11 district offices, leave eight offices not yet consolidated.

RARE BOOKS FILL PART OF 14 MILE LIBRARY SHELF

Back to Gutenberg They Go, Spanning 600 Years.

Most Chicagoans know that the Chicago Public library has a fine collection of contemporary literature, text, and reference books. Few, however, know that the library's collection of rare and early books is equally fine.

The library recently displayed some of these treasures, including an original page from the Gutenberg Bible, earliest of all printed books; a page from the Catholicon, a Latin dictionary printed in Mainz in 1460, probably also the work of Gutenberg; the complete Nuremberg Chronicle, printed in 1493, and other specimens of incunabula, or cradle books, as all books printed prior to 1501 are known.

Value Single Page at $350.

The library values its single page of the Gutenberg Bible at $350. Less than 30 copies of this Bible are known to exist, and nearly all are in public libraries. A single copy of the Bible sold for $50,000 in 1911.

The Nuremberg Chronicle is of interest because it is one of the first histories of the world. The book contains one of the earliest maps of Europe and more than 2,000 woodcuts. Since economy apparently was of more importance than accuracy, however, less than 100 cuts were used to represent more than 600 different persons. This makes the resemblance of Cleopatra to that of several other queens rather startling at first glance.

In an English book of 1640 a London apothecary and herbist, John Parkinson, listed a number of plants and their properties. His list includes our present tomato, which was variously known as the love apple, amorous apple, and raging love apple.

Early books for children, known as horn books, also are among the library's collection. Some were made of wood and shaped like an old-fashioned butter paddle of great-grandmother's day. The lesson to be learned was printed on paper and fastened to the wooden paddle under a thin transparent layer of split horn.

Library officials say it is hard to mention a subject or a period in the last 500 years about which an original account, either in book or magazine form, can't be found somewhere on the library's 14 miles of shelves.

A Miss No Longer

MRS. IRVING SQUIRES.

New York, Nov. 22.—One of the happiest persons among the thousands of elated passengers aboard incoming passenger liners and freighters which in recent days have brought vivid stories from the war zones of Europe, was a vivacious, blonde English girl, whose main thought was that she did not want to be known as Jill Lee, of Surrey, England, any longer than necessary.

Miss Lee arrived on the liner Manhattan.

She was met at the pier by her fiancé, Irving Squires, a New York clothier. And the couple didn't tarry in New York. They hurried to a plane which sped them to Hot Springs, Va., where the wedding bells were in readiness—and now the English girl isn't Jill Lee any more.

TALKING BOOKS AVAILABLE FOR ILLINOIS BLIND

Braille Volumes Enjoying Wide Circulation.

Springfield, Ill., Nov. 22 [Special].—The 11,126 volumes in the Braille library of the Illinois School for Blind achieved a circulation of slightly more than 18,000 during the year ended June 30, 1939, according to a report by the state department of public welfare. These books are available to any blind person in Illinois upon written request to the school in Jacksonville.

The school for the blind also has 437 talking books, which are recorded readings of entire volumes, for circulation thruout the state. During the year the talking books had a circulation of 5,700.

Libraries of the state welfare institutions now contain a combined total of 94,000 volumes, an increase of approximately 5,500 since last year. The libraries also subscribe to 414 magazines.

These books during the last year had a total circulation of 924,183 of which 550,000 represents circulation of the Joliet-Stateville penitentiary library.

"Circulation varies with the type of population and size of the library," Mrs. Blanche Fritz, assistant director of the state department of public welfare points out.

1938 DEATH AND BIRTH RATES OF CITY LOWER THAN FOR DOWNSTATE

Last year Chicago had fewer deaths and births, and lower death rates per 1,000 population than downstate, according to vital statistics from the state health department.

In the entire state there are 84,769 deaths and 121,898 births—rates of 10.7 and 15.4 per 1,000, respectively. Downstate the birth rate was 16.3 for 70,238 births, compared with 14.4 for 51,660 births in Chicago. The compared death figures were 49,552 and 11.5 downstate, and 35,217 and 9.8 for Chicago.

East Moline with 24.1 per 1,000 had the highest death rate among cities. The lowest was 3.1 in Elmwood Park, with Winnetka 3.3, and Cicero 3.6.

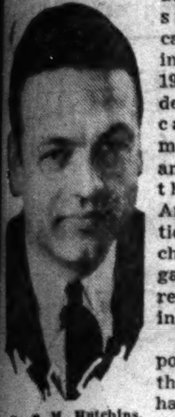
HUTCHINS TELLS OF EDUCATION'S CRITICAL DECADE

Cites Studies Showing Drop in School Income.

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.



Dr. R. M. Hutchins.

The decade embracing the presidency of Robert Maynard Hutchins at the University of Chicago, beginning in November, 1929, generally is described by educators as the most confusing and critical in the history of American education. Mr. Hutchins yesterday gave many of his reasons for sharing such a view.

Dr. Hutchins pointed to what the last decade has done to educational benefactors and to endowment income. He also discussed the effects of a lowering birth rate and the rise of tax supported higher education, including the organization of hundreds of junior colleges and the expansion of state colleges and universities.

Endowment Drop Cited.

Citing studies made by Trevor Arnett of the general education board of New York, Dr. Hutchins showed that in the year 1936-'37 the universities of the country received $23,146,000 in new endowment compared with $48,186,000 in 1928-'29. This, according to the Arnett figures, is a decrease of nearly 52 per cent during the decade. The study showed that new endowments were smallest in 1933-'34 and 1934-'35, when they totaled less than 10 million dollars each year.

Studies by Arnett of 20 representative privately controled institutions showed a decrease of income such as dividends from stocks, bond income, and rentals of real property since the year 1925-'26. That year the institutions received an income of 5.08 per cent on their endowments. This slumped to 4.99 per cent in 1929-'30 and continued downward. In 1934 the return was 3.80 per cent.

Chicago Plan Developed.

Dr. Hutchins is credited as being among first of the country's university administrators to view these economic trends in terms of educational effect. His administration is marked by the development of the "Chicago plan" for general [liberal arts] education, with vastly increased sizes of freshman and sophomore instructional groups, and a notable attempt to effect a consolidation of the University of Chicago with Northwestern university. He said the latter was in the educational interest as well as in that of economy thru the merging of competing departments and activities.

Dr. Hutchins said yesterday that such mergers are difficult if not impossible to effect and that the Northwestern merger proposal probably is gone without possibility of revival. In a recent popular magazine, however, Mr. Hutchins argued in favor of educational mergers where there is competition and overlapping of educational functions.

Economy requirements give clews to what many educators consider a principal, Hutchins contribution to present day higher education. This is the large survey lecture course studies in basic fields aimed to speed the student's progress thru his liberal arts preparation for professional or advanced studies. This method is used extensively elsewhere in the country.

Large Classes Fought.

The plan includes the overthrow of the small instructional classes for freshmen and sophomores and the substitution of large classes.

"There is no evidence," said Dr. Hutchins, "that the small, unselected class is better than the other extreme. Reorganization on the basis of the large lecture class is with the idea of fewer but better professors teaching more students. Our large lecture courses are successful.

"When I was teaching in Yale there was a rule that no class for freshmen could have more than 25 students. But there were not enough good instructors to carry such a program. In 1923 the University of Chicago had 155 graduate students teaching freshmen and sophomores. In many cases these were not good instructors. They merely were being given subsidies for teaching when there were not enough graduate fellowships to go around. With our reorganized instruction we can put our most distinguished men before freshmen and sophomores."

Use of Assets Advocated.

In his recent magazine article Dr. Hutchins advocated the use of endowment assets to tide over tight spots in fiscal operations. He referred to the example of the Rockefeller foundation, which used both endowment capital and income for its educational leadership.

Dr. Hutchins said that none of the university's capital assets would be used in that way. While he admitted the university faces many perplexing financial problems, he explained that the alumni, in expectation of the 50th anniversary of the university to be observed in 1941, has formed a foundation which will seek gifts to offset the recurring differences between income and expenses. Reserve funds and a three million dollar unrestricted gift from the general education board, he added, have balanced the university budget so far.

While stating that the falling birth rate is having its effect on educational institutions, Dr. Hutchins said he believed that from now on a larger percentage of children born in this country will go to college or to university. He explained that 4,000 elementary schools were closed in the two year period of 1934-'36 as a result of birth rate decline.

While defending privately endowed universities and colleges against those supported by taxation, Dr. Hutchins said there are many state universities which are better than some privately controled schools.

"It is not enough to be an endowed university to be a good university," he said. "There are several state universities that are better than some of the endowed universities, but the endowed universities are freer to be better than state universities if they want to be and know how to do it."

Dr. Hutchins said the growth of tax supported institutions would continue.

Ruth Rubens, whose mother was principal figure in Russian spy mystery, in classroom at Miami, Fla.

Miami, Fla., Nov. 22 [Special].—Ruth Rubens, 9 years old, may never see her mother, Mrs. Ruth Marie Rubens, again. Mrs. Rubens, who with her husband was a principal figure in the bizarre Rubens-Robinson fraudulent passpost case which had repercussions in the United States and Russia, has renounced her American citienship and become a soviet citizen. She was only recently released from a soviet jail, where she had served 18 months for espionage. The girl is living with her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Boerger, in Miami.

DROP EXPECTED IN COUNTY TAX PENALTY INCOME

50 Millions Paid in the Last Seven Years.

Cook county has been able to keep its operating fund out of the red in the last six years by the penalties collected on delinquent taxes. The county is faced, however, with a prospective drop in penalty income in the next few years.

Altho general tax receipts collected by the county treasurer are divided among the various county governments, by law the penalty payments belong exclusively to the county corporate fund.

In the last seven years the county has taken in more than 50 million dollars in penalties from persons who were late in paying their tax bills. This is almost as much as the county's share of tax receipts other than penalties for the same period.

Comparison of Revenues.

Here is a comparison of the county corporate fund revenues from penalties and from tax receipts for the period 1933-'38:

Fiscal Year [Ended Nov. 30].	Tax Receipts.	Penalties.
1938	$ 8,834,680	$ 8,405,112
1937	6,891,981	8,423,940
1936	7,919,270	7,697,491
1935	10,209,667	5,855,980
1934	8,487,410	5,989,402
1933	7,534,919	7,395,607
Total	$49,877,927	$43,676,532

The penalty income for 1939 is estimated at $7,200,000 and it is expected that it will decline further in 1940.

From 1924 to 1931 penalties collected averaged less than a million dollars a year. The change to the situation of the last few years has resulted from the taxpaying habits of Cook county residents.

Few Penalties in Middle Twenties.

In the middle twenties taxpayers had a peculiar habit of paying their tax bills on time. The result was that there were few penalties. The county was designated by law as the sole recipient of the penalty payments on the theory that it was the agency charged with the duty of collecting taxes and was entitled to keep something for its trouble.

In recent years the system has placed county officials in a peculiar position, however. Civic organizations seeking to push tax collections have reported that the county is not overanxious to collect all current taxes when due. For if all taxes or most of them are paid on time, the county will lose a source of revenue that is now supplying one-third of its operating costs.

The county already is levying the legal limit on its tax rate and so it cannot appropriate more funds from this source.

Revenues Top Expenditures.

Boosted partly by the large penalty payments, the county's corporate cash revenues, excluding borrowings, have exceeded expenditures since 1933. The surplus cash has been used to reduce current debts, which dropped from $36,007,000 Nov. 30, 1932, to $10,062,195 Nov. 30, 1938.

Corporate expenditures, which were cut sharply in 1933, have turned upward since that time, altho the increase has been gradual. The number of employés has likewise been moving steadily higher.

Here is a tabulation of the expenditures and the number of employés in the last 10 years:

Year Ended Nov. 30.	Expenditures.	No. of Employés.
1929	$18,799,707	3,640
1930	20,868,492	3,548
1931	21,885,629	3,499
1932	21,407,662	3,663
1933	17,521,300	3,263
1934	18,815,542	3,389
1935	19,080,870	3,578
1936	21,157,697	3,579
1937	19,235,633	3,631
1938	22,341,199	3,902

Further Rise Expected.

The county's appropriation for 1939 was $21,858,759 and the number of employés was placed at 4,207 in the appropriation bill.

The tentative budget for 1940 has expenditures estimated at $25,936,452. It further is estimated that penalties will decline to $5,500,000, leaving the county with a potential deficit of more than six million dollars.

The tendency of penalty revenues to decline in the last two years is because most of the taxes for the years 1928-'32 that are collectible have been paid with penalties by this time. It was during those years that collections were at a low level.

STATE JOB BUREAU WANTS TO SEE LOTS OF SANTA CLAUS NOW

The Illinois State Employment service is looking for Santa Claus. Lots of him. Their offices are receiving many calls from stores, charitable organizations, and chambers of commerce asking for men to play the part daily from Thanksgiving until Christmas. Pay is from $25 to $30 a week. Potential Santas should be rotund, jolly, and ruddy-faced. It helps, too, if they are even tempered. The ideal Santa never spanks little children who pull his beard.

10 NEEDY GIRLS GET THRILL; THEY HELP NEEDIER

The fact that they haven't much to give did not deter the Girl Scouts of Mercy center, 1539 South Springfield avenue, from filling a Thanksgiving basket for a family whose needs are even greater than their own. Each brought something saved from one of her own meals—an egg, a potato, an apple, a can of corn—and the leaders have added fresh meat to make a hearty Thanksgiving feast.

Another settlement troop, No. 134, is taking part in a traditional community celebration, a Polish harvest festival, at the Northwestern university center. Many of the Scouts, being of Polish origin, have elaborate native costumes.

WEEKLY NEWSPAPER OF BENTON MARKS ITS 90TH BIRTHDAY

Benton, Ill., Nov. 22 [Special].—The Benton Standard, a weekly newspaper, is publishing a special edition this week in celebration of its 90th year. The Standard was founded in 1949 and printed on a press hauled by oxen from St. Louis, Mo. The Standard was for more than 50 years the only newspaper in Franklin county. Some years ago it was merged with the Franklin County Independent. Circuit Judge W. Joe Hill bought the Standard a few years ago and appointed Hugh McKone editor. The weekly has had only six editors in its 90 years of continuous publication.

SALES TAX YIELDS 377 MILLIONS IN LAST SIX YEARS

40 Per Cent Spent on Relief, Survey Shows.

Samuel L. Nudelman.

State sales tax receipts have amounted to $377,455,611 for the last six fiscal years since the tax replaced the general property levy. This is an average of $7,853,658 a month, according to a summary made last week by Samuel L. Nudelman, state director of finance.

Collectors for the year 1938-'39 were $81,472,719, one million dollars more than in the previous year. This figure is over three times as much as collections of $27,080,415 for the year 1933, when the tax was first put into effect and when it was 2 per cent instead of 3 per cent, as at present.

Nudelman said that from 40 to 45 per cent, or approximately $153,500,000 of all the money collected, has gone for relief purposes. When the sales tax rate was increased from 2 to 3 per cent in 1935, the legislature provided that the entire revenue produced by the increase was to be devoted to relief needs. Thus, one cent out of every three is now earmarked for emergency relief.

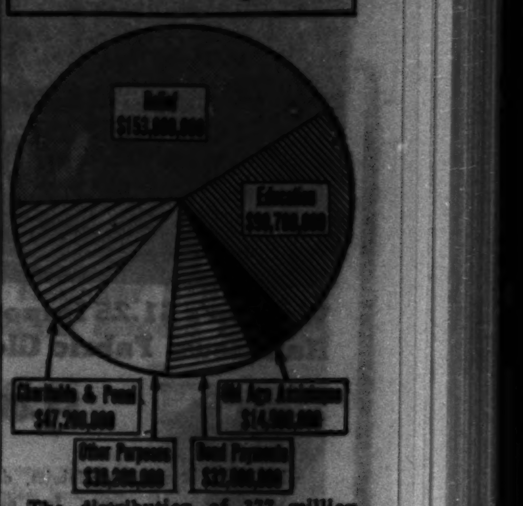
Other agencies in the six year period have received the following allotments:

Old age assistance	$14,900,000
Charitable and penal institutions	47,200,000
Education	90,700,000
Payments on bonds	32,000,000
Other purposes [court costs, legislative functions]	39,200,000

The sales tax accounts for more than a third of all the revenue of the state exclusive of trust fund receipts, Nudelman declared.

Illinois, Nudelman said, collects its sales tax at a lower cost ratio than other states.

Sales Tax Split



The distribution of 377 million dollars in sales tax collected in Illinois in the six fiscal years since this type of tax replaced the general property tax.

TEACH HOBBIES IN COLLEGE, N. U. EDUCATOR ASKS

Dr. Samuel N. Stevens, dean of the university college at Northwestern university, whose hobby is gathering photostatic copies of old Greek and Latin manuscripts, recommends that courses in the selection and pursuit of hobbies be made a part of the nation's college curricula.

"A hobby may keep a man broke," he said, "but it will keep him mentally alive. It drains off dammed up energies which could not be released in the business world. It stimulates him socially by contact with other enthusiasts. And it increases his mental alertness as new fields of knowledge become involved."

Dr. Stevens made a survey of the recreational interests of 1,500 students. He found that nearly half had no hobbies. Among the odd hobbies reported were collecting neckties, dancing the hula, lifting weights, weaving rugs, and ballet dancing.

STARS 60 TRILLION MILES DISTANT POSE FOR PICTURE

Amateur astronomers at the University of Chicago are taking great delight these days in shooting pictures of stars more than 60 trillion miles away. [A trillion is a million times a million.] The students use the new Schmidt telescopic camera, which was installed last year in the Hibse astronomical observatory, atop Ryerson hall. A prize of $10 has been offered for the best photograph made by a student in the next six months.

The camera is a reflecting telescopic camera, attached to the observatory telescope thru which the star fields are first sighted. The camera is three feet long with a speed of f:6. Prof. Thornton L. Page is in charge of the observatory.

Eat Your Turkey Dinner Backwards, and Feel Fit!

Portland, Ore., Nov. 22 (AP).—"Eat your Thanksgiving dinner backwards," Dr. Adolph Weinzirl, city health officer, yesterday advised in his annual anti-indigestion campaign. "Begin with the dessert and save the salad to the end of the meal if you wish to get up from the table feeling fit." You crowd the turkey in somewhere between.

Minonk Methodist Church to Celebrate Its 75th Year

Minonk, Ill., Nov. 22 [Special].—The 75th anniversary of the First Methodist church of Minonk, will be celebrated Sunday, with the Rev. H. H. McFall of East Peoria, former pastor, delivering the anniversary sermon. The church was founded in the fall of 1864, with the Rev. W. D. H. Young as pastor. Services were held in the Baptist church for two years, and in 1866 a church building was constructed, under the pastorate of the Rev. J. C. Hartzell, who later became a bishop of the Methodist church and was sent to Africa. The present building was dedicated Dec. 10, 1900. The Rev. Charles W. Sedgwick is the present pastor of the church.

'WIDOWS' OF POLE EXPLORERS TURN TO VARIOUS JOBS

But All Will Keep Tab on Expedition by Radio.

Boston, Mass., Nov. 22 (AP).—Short wave radio will enable the stay-at-home wives of Admiral Byrd's antarctic explorers—including two newlyweds—to check up on whether their ice bound husbands are wearing their winter undies during an 18 months' stay 12,000 miles from the home fires.

Interesting jobs, ranging from nursing to running a Norwegian restaurant in Brooklyn, will help some of the girls who are being left behind to keep their chins up while the men are busy putting new chunks of ice on the world's map.

Eight of the "veterans" in what might be called the Antarctic Women's auxiliary have been working for several weeks at expedition headquarters, attending to details that will add to the comfort of the adventurers.

Pack Christmas Baskets.

With the eagerness of young brides preparing a picnic lunch, they have packed pemmican and biscuits in cartons. They drive cars on hurry-up errands. They answer telephone queries on everything from the sailing date of the expedition to the present status of Admiral Byrd's penguins. They do secretarial work for ship commanders, scientists and dog trainers.

A few of them have prepared Christmas baskets, containing jars of preserves, cigarets and homemade cookies to be opened by the men on a Christmas day that may find them ducking icebergs in gale swept waters near Antarctica's great Ross ice barrier.

"But I'll bet they will open them long before Christmas," said Mrs. Vernon D. Boyd of Uniontown, Pa., wife of the expedition's master mechanic, who says she knows the worry of being married to an ice fighter.

Wait for Barking of Dogs.

"When Vernon went on the last expedition," she said, "my little boy and I used to wait for that radio broadcast every Wednesday night at 10 o'clock. We'd wait to hear the barking of the dogs, and then we'd know that everything was all right down there on the ice."

This time she has made arrangements with several radio amateurs to send personal messages to her husband.

"I'm going to try to learn radio code and try to talk to my husband that way," said Mrs. Herbert G. Dorsey, 20 years old, who is back at her studies as a Wellesley senior following her marriage a little more than a week ago to one of the expedition meteorologists.

When her bridegroom of a fortnight sails away, Mrs. Dorsey will knuckle down to an art course at Wellesley and plans to go to art school next year.

One Will Travel.

Mrs. Finn Ronne, wife of the man who has charge of the expedition's sledge dogs, will keep busy serving Norwegian delicacies in her restaurant in Brooklyn.

Mrs. Richard Black of Honolulu, wife of one of the base leaders in Antarctica, will do a little traveling herself, to study art in Mexico.

Back to their jobs as registered nurses will go Mrs. Lewis S. Sims of Augusta, Ga., wife of one of the expedition doctors, and Mrs. Harold Gilmour of Boston, whose husband is assistant supply officer for the polar outfit.

Indefinite are the plans of Mrs. Paul Siple of Erie, Pa., but she knows more than most what this antarctic business is all about. When her husband, another base leader, was 18 years old, he was selected from among youths from all over the country to go with Byrd's first expedition to Little America. He also was a member of the 1933-1935 expedition.

With Snow Cruiser.

Another of the wives who has been having herself a time is Mrs. Helen Poulter, wife of the man who coaxed the big snow cruiser overland from Chicago to Boston. She was in the party accompanying the big roadhog.

A second bride among the stay-at-homes is Mrs. Anthony W. Kelczewski of Passaic, N. J., and Schenectady, N. Y., but she has a little more time to see her husband, because he is a seaman of the old barkentine Bear, which won't sail for another week.

With 18 months to get all dolled up for it, at least three of the wives already are planning their next date with their husbands. It entails a little matter of sailing to New Zealand—to meet the homecoming ships from Little America.

Depend on Radio

(Story in adjoining column.)

Mrs. Paul Siple of Erie, Pa., who will be one of the "widows" of the Admiral Byrd expedition to the antarctic. She will keep in touch with her husband by short wave radio while he is on duty 12,000 miles from home.

Mrs. Lewis Sims, whose husband also will be with the Byrd expedition, will go on with her work as a registered nurse in Augusta, Ga. Her husband is a doctor.

Herbert J. Dorsey Jr., a weather observer, and Mrs. Dorsey, who, of course, also will be left behind.

TRUCKING BOOM CAUSES SCARCITY OF MECHANICS

A sharp upswing in trucking activities in Chicago during recent years has resulted in a shortage of skilled truck mechanics and maintenance men, Don Burrows, business manager of the Auto Mechanics' union, local 701, said yesterday. Burrows estimated that his union could put 300 mechanics to work within the next six months if skilled men could be found. He said that at present only twenty of the union's 2,500 members are out of work.

"In recent years several of the largest interstate trucking concerns have moved their headquarters and shops to Chicago," Burrows said. "This is one reason for the shortage. Another is that employers have not been training enough apprentices to fill the places of retiring veterans. Because of this, employers in many instances are keeping semi-competent men at work because they are unable to get skilled mechanics."

Burrows said that the union often receives as many as twenty calls a day for mechanics which it is unable to fill.

DEC. 1 DEADLINE FOR CHRISTMAS MAIL TO EUROPE

No Parcels Accepted for Germany.

Postal authorities warned yesterday that Christmas packages for Europe should be mailed before Dec. 1. And they urged that all Christmas parcels be sent off as early as possible to avoid congestion during the peak period which might delay delivery.

The usual list of mailing deadlines for European countries cannot be supplied this year because of the war and the irregular sailings of trans-Atlantic vessels, it was explained. Parcel post service to Germany, Slovakia, and Danzig has been discontinued until further notice because of the conflict.

Announces Closing Dates.

Postmaster Ernest J. Kreutgen has announced the following closing dates on which mail can be sent from Chicago to many foreign countries other than European:

SHOULD A DOCTOR ITEMIZE HIS BILL? THEY DISCUSS IT

Professional Men Can't Do It, Many Say.

Should physicians itemize their bills?

The question is one which has been raised by several readers of THE TRIBUNE. Few physicians, they point out, itemize bills. They proffer a statement laconically worded, "For services rendered ———"

The case for itemization presented in the words of a well established Chicago business man, is this:

"Why do they lump their bills? I get a bill from my coal dealer, 'Four tons of coal at $12 a ton—$48.' Why can't I get a doctor's bill saying, 'Three office calls at $3, two home calls at $5—$19'?

Simply Wants to Know.

"I realize he will itemize it if I ask him to, but if I do he might think I was protesting the amount or begrudging paying for the health of my wife and children. That isn't it. I simply like to know what I am paying for. Why can't doctors be businesslike?"

One prominent physician, interviewed yesterday, said, "You can't itemize a profession." Another countered with the story of the traveling salesman's overcoat. When the salesman listed a suit of clothes on his expense account his employer demurred and refused to approve it. Two weeks later the salesman asked the employer if he had noticed the listing of an overcoat on his new expense account. When the employer replied, "Why, no, I didn't see it," the salesman retorted, "Well, it was in there just the same."

Poor Business Men.

One physician said freely [but anonymously] that his fellow doctors are poor business men. Only those practicing in large cities have office bookkeepers, he said; of the others many make out their bills from memory. "It probably would be to the physician's advantage to itemize his bills," he added.

To the patient's complaint, beginning and ending with "why can't doctors be businesslike," physicians gave varying replies. Dr. Rock Sleyster of Milwaukee, president of the American Medical association and medical director of the Milwaukee sanitarium, said, "In 30 years of organizational work I never heard the question raised."

Custom at Sanitarium.

However, itemized billing is the custom at the sanitarium and in his private practice, he said, and he approves of it in theory, as opposed to what is known as blind billing.

"There is no reason why bills should not be itemized," he said. "I think many doctors do show in their statements what charges are for and what the charge is for special services. I am sure they all give itemized statements when requested, or when a question is raised over a bill."

The subject has never been considered by the American Medical association, for it confines itself exclusively to scientific and health problems, he said.

A Time Saver.

Dr. Nathan S. Davis, president of the Chicago Medical society, said the local group has never considered the matter. Physicians generally lump their bills "purely to save the time of the girls in the office who make out the bills," he said.

"Take a suite like mine," he said, "where there are 12 or 14 doctors and two girls who get out the bills. If they had to itemize each bill the bills never would get out. That is the real answer. And if the doctor makes out his own bill he would lump the charges to save time, too.

"I think the way a doctor ordinarily works on a case the patient soon knows what he charges for a call. That's so well understood that the only argument is whether there were quite that many calls that month. I don't know any doctor who won't go back to his records on the basis of that and give an itemized account.

In General, They Don't Itemize.

"But there are many things you can't itemize, such as surgery. I don't think lawyers itemize. The same thing is true of the architect. I think you'll find professional men in general do not itemize. They make a flat rate for so many calls. You divide it by $3 or $5 and come out even."

Dr. James Hutton, president of the Illinois State Medical society, said he thought it an interesting question, but one he had never heard discussed. When patients ask him to itemize a bill he does. Otherwise he does not.

"You can't put it on the same basis as a coal or department store bill," he said. "Here's a fellow who comes into the office and takes up five minutes or an hour. All he wants is to talk. That's all he needs. Specialists can charge for that. Others have to charge it up to experience and good will.

"During the depression I worked out my own system. I sat down and talked to the patient before treating him and found out what he could pay. Then he's satisfied because it's a mutual agreement. . . . It's purely a matter of personal practice."

Dr. Ralph P. Sproule, president of the Wisconsin State Medical society, said the subject has never been discussed by the Wisconsin society, but many Wisconsin physicians itemize their bills. "It is the invariable custom in industrial practice," he said.

"Confidence in the charge usually goes with confidence in the physician. If the patient loses faith in either, he is apt to change his doctor."

Dr. Cutter Comments.

Dr. Irving S. Cutter, health editor of THE TRIBUNE, dean of Northwestern university medical school, and superintendent of Passavant hospital, said that about a third of the doctors on the staff of Passavant itemize their bills.

"I approve of it, yes," he said. "If I were actually practicing I'd say, 'Well, do you want me to itemize this bill? Here it is. It's $100. I took your wife thru pneumonia. I don't care whether it's 6 days or 50 days. It's $100.'

"But I think people are less inclined to look upon professional services as groceries. I think it's pretty difficult to itemize professional services. I don't think it's feasible. You can itemize the number of calls, but that doesn't mean the service, or the mulling over a case and the use of judgment."

Barlow Named Director of Baltimore Symphony

Barlow, who is conductor of the Columbia Broadcasting Symphony, will succeed Werner Janssen, who resigned to become musical director for a Hollywood studio.

Stuffed Toys Will Fill 1939 Christmas Stockings

State street merchants this year are featuring wild animals—all harmless. Bears, gorillas, and even giraffes, stuffed and with velour hides are ready for Christmas shoppers. Of course, there will be the usual supply of cats and dogs, too, but the manufacturers have run the full list of zoo animals for this year's toy market.

TOYLAND JUNGLE LURES SHOPPERS, YOUNG AND OLD

Calico Cats and Bears Go on Parade.

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Wild animals [stuffed] in the jungle of State street toy departments are spell binders for adult shoppers as well as youngsters. The Martin Johnson menagerie is causing great excitement.

The honey bear, the gorilla, giraffes and some slate blue velour elephants are so skilfully copied from life that other animals appear a bit sissy. The elephants, for example, have a decided intellectual gleam in the eye—that remembering look, no less.

A pair of realistic giraffes gaze out with perturbing aloofness by sheer neck altitude. Gorillas in sooty black have mischievous beige faces and wicked shining eyes. The honey bear is almost as good a clown as the panda.

Monkeys by the Dozens.

Monkeys by the dozens come in beige or black. A special performance by one snow white monkey reclining on a white cushion nearly takes the show away from the rest of the rascals.

Teddy bears, beloved of youngsters from away-back-when, still take popularity records, from the tiny cuddlers to one spectacular fellow almost as big as a small pony. Also included on the toy list for youngsters are cats and kittens, domesticated pets hard to beat as bedtime company for the very young. Good old calico cats, fluffy white persians, black cats, and the nondescript printed cotton kitties—the like of which are found only in nurseries—come in all sizes and all degrees of good cuddly streamlines.

Dogs of Every Breed.

Dogs of every breed—from the pampered pets sold with a cushion, to the smart sealyhams, airedales, terriers, and ingratiating scotties, complete to the bright plaid wool blanket cover—never lose their ability to make small owners content.

There is plenty of whimsy in these super showings of stuffed animal comforts—a large beige velvet lion the same size as a big dog, a prowling panther showing a startling view of sharp teeth, and the funniest of red velvet frogs ready for a bass solo any moment.

New York Philharmonic Plays in Chicago Sunday

The New York Philharmonic Symphony orchestra is coming to Chicago next Sunday to give a concert under the auspices of the Children's Memorial hospital. This will be Conductor John Barbirolli's first appearance in Chicago. The orchestra made its last appearance here 11 years ago.

CITY'S PRIVATE CHAUFFEURS SET FOR 1939 PARTY

29th Annual Affair Will Be Next Wednesday.

The Chicago Private Chauffeurs Benevolent association will hold its 29th annual dance and automobile exhibit next Wednesday in the Merry Garden ballroom, 3136 Sheffield avenue. William Olson, three times president of the organization, is chairman of the managing committee. The dance usually clears $2,000 or more for the sick benefit fund maintained by the association.

Always a swank affair, with white ties, formal evening gowns, and employers' handsome limousines in evidence, the benefit is the social event of the year for the [illegible] members, their wives and sweethearts. Many employers make a practice of attending. Last year, for the first time, the rigid rule of formal attire was lifted.

At its peak the organization had almost 800 members. There are a few old timers, such as Otto Berg and Caspar Hallan, who were coachmen in the horse and carriage days. The president now in office is Arthur Swanson. Edward Thompson is secretary.

Showmens League to Hold Annual Charity Ball Dec. 5

The Showmen's League of America will hold its 27th annual charity banquet and ball in the Hotel Sherman Dec. 5. Proceeds will swell funds which the league has raised for charitable work among actors and other show people. The league has established a $15,000 fund toward a home for aged and infirm show people, and maintains hospitalization service at the American hospital.

WOMAN FILLS BIG JOB BY KEEPING 950 JOBS FILLED

Employment Manager in Oil Company Office.

(This is the first of a series on leading business women of Chicago which will be printed from time to time in The Tribune.)

BY DORIS LOCKERMAN.

Jane H. Eastburn, who thru her long career in business has striven to choose the right jobs for thousands of persons, lays her claim to success to one thing. She has managed to choose the right job for herself.

As employment manager and dean of women for the general office of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana, Mrs. Eastburn has 950 positions to keep filled and 950 persons to keep happy. She will retire next year, at 60, with a record of 18 years' service as a pioneer in the field of personnel, and a memory of at least 60,000 men and women who have come to her for employment and advice. She calls the ones she hires "my girls and boys."

The Secret of Her Work.

"The secret in my work is to like people," and Mrs. Eastburn smiles a warm, friendly smile that proves she does. "And get them to like you. It isn't hard, really, if you try to understand them."

Standard Oil's dean has tailored white hair that waves back in a silvery pompadour, a motherly figure and a comfortable, spacious presence. She has a way of asking questions instead of answering them, and young brown eyes that never miss a nicked fingernail, a smudge of dirt on a collar, or a shifty glance.

Mrs. Eastburn was reared in Rockford, and friends there may remember her as Jane Hunter, an imaginative little girl who spent one season pretending she was a French refugee entirely bewildered with America, and the next one yearning to be a great attorney. At the age that most girls are dreaming of a diamond solitaire she established an office as a public stenographer and a court reporter, and spurned romance as tiresome.

She Amends Her Ideals.

Later she amended her ideals and married Arthur Eastburn, a Chicago attorney and broker, and moved her office to Chicago.

"After a few years," she tells, "I gave it up and tried housekeeping. I endured it five years, but I couldn't keep my mind off business. I thought up all sorts of marvelous enterprises, and finally took a position as personnel director of an insurance company. Four years later, when I began at Standard Oil, my work was entirely new. I was the first manager of employment. It was a challenging opportunity in a new field."

Mr. Eastburn died in 1928, long after she had proved that a career and matrimony can succeed together.

Wed to Her First Beau.

This is Jane Eastburn of the business world. Privately, she is now Mrs. William Thornborrow of the Windermere West hotel. Her husband, associated with the Illinois Bell Telephone company, was her first beau. Together they spend long quiet evenings walking thru Jackson park, or listening to quiz programs, or reading.

She is a profound student of metaphysics, and reads Thoreau for pleasure. She cooks little, claiming some distinction for having served the most light lunches of any of her friends. Her tastes are modest, and she has refused to join any organizations.

Right now the Thornborrows are pretty busy. They are planning to build their first house next year in Colorado when they have both retired. And Mrs. Thornborrow has a new job. She is embroidering and hemstitching and sewing fine seams.

"For my hope chest," she explains.

JAPAN'S BRIDES STREAMLINE THEIR WEDDINGS

Wigs Enable Them to Catch Honeymoon Express.

TOKIO, Nov. 22.—Japan's picturesque weddings are being streamlined. No longer do brides ride to the shrines of jinrikshas. They go in automobiles or have the shrines bring their altars to the banquet halls.

Instead of having their hair done up in the quaint, traditional manner, the majority of brides of well-to-do families wear wigs that they fit over their permanent waved tresses. This enables them to make a quick change from Japanese to western clothing before starting on their honeymoons. Until wigs came into fashion recently, brides had a nightmare changing their coiffure from Japanese to American in time to catch the honeymoon express that leaves Tokio nightly for nearby resorts.

Europe's War Cuts Supplies.

The war in Europe is aggravating Japan's shortage of supplies and leading to stricter economic control measures. The only blessing to the masses is that the measures serve also to keep prices down so that it is possible to buy things still on sale at a reasonable price. But these products are vanishing one after another, or supplies are brought out sporadically to be gobbled up in no time.

These include tobacco, gasoline, rice, butter, sugar, eggs, cotton, and woolen cloth and clothing, rubber and leather products and metal goods. There is little hoarding for the penalties are extremely severe.

Drouth Brings Coal Shortage.

As a result of last summer's drouth there has been a shortage of hydroelectric power, Japan's principal power source. Some plants have been using coal, with the result that Japan faces a shortage of coal this winter. This, in turn, means curtailment in the supply of gas. The scheduled increase in coal shipments has been cut by shortage of labor and materials at the mines and by the using up of considerable quantities of coal by new industries in Manchukuo.

Another blow the drouth has dealt to Japan has been in cutting the production rice, the country's main staple. Corea was hit almost as badly as Japan. However, there is no immediate fear of a shortage as the government has enormous stores.

The Masks Are for Fishing

Europeans are familiar with masks, but that's because war is close to them every day. These Florida swimmers are wearing masks designed for their latest sport—underwater spear fishing.

Miami, Fla., Nov. 22 [Special].—Looking for something new, swimmers here have taken to underwater spear fishing, using a rubber sprung spear gun and underwater masks. The masks are water tight, give clear vision and allow a breath or two under water.

PRECIOUS TOOTH IS KEY TO MAN'S DAWNING HOURS

Neanderthal Molar Clew to Human Beginnings.

A yellowish little object more valuable than platinum or radium nestles inconspicuously in a case in the hall of the stone age at the Field Museum of Natural History.

No value ever has been set upon this little object. It could not be bought. It can not be sold. It is known in anatomical and anthropological circles as M-2-R. It looks like a tooth, and in fact is a fossil tooth, a second lower molar from the right jaw.

Some 50,000 to 100,000 years ago it nestled in the powerful, underslung jaw of a beetle-browed, short, thick set man, a man whose head sloped forward from his muscular shoulders, whose ears may have pricked up, as those of a dog, at sound.

Lies Intact for 500 Centuries.

From this arises its value, for its owner was a Neanderthal man who roamed near what is the Charente district of France long before the dawn of history. For more than 500 centuries his molar, fragile and prone to decay, lay intact in the ground. In 1911 it was found.

Was he the first prehistoric man? No. The Peking man lived some 500,000 to 1,000,000 years ago. Later, 250,000 years ago, came the Chellean man, rugged and ferocious, whose remains have been found in Germany and England. But the Neanderthal man, a distinct race apart, is particularly important, according to Dr. Henry Field, curator of physical anthropology at the Field museum, because he marked the beginning of family life and he believed in a future life—50,000 years ago.

"In the south of France," Dr. Field said, "a Neanderthal man was found who obviously had been deliberately buried. In his right hand was a very beautifully worked hand ax. Beside his left side was the leg bone of a bison.

All Bones in Place.

"The important thing was that all the bones of the bison's foot were in place in the ground, showing that the flesh must have been around that ankle when it was put in the earth. So there we have direct evidence of belief in a future life—a weapon to protect him, meat to sustain him. Even then, 500 centuries ago, man desired eternity.

"It is just by careful excavation that one piece of evidence was found, for a man's beliefs, when he does not write them, are pretty hard to record, but the fact that the earth around these bones was very finely grained meant that it could be pushed away and the exact position preserved.

"This may have been the dawn of religious consciousness. I think in later times they may almost have forgotten it, but it is easy to understand in the Neanderthal. Here was a man living close to nature. He depended on himself, on nature and on animals, and thus was a wonderful observer of nature.

Shown with Whole Family.

"He knew the stars, the birds, everything. He must have watched the sun ascend and disappear, always to return the next day. He must have had long times of being alone with his thoughts. Then it was that he began to wonder—'What of myself? Will I, too, return?'"

If you wish to see this thoughtful gentleman, he and his family are having a fine time in the hall of the stone age. With a club in one hand, hand ax of stone in the other, he is watching the sea, fearful of danger.

"You'll find his tooth, however, resting in a case apart. "More valuable," says Dr. Field, "than platinum or radium."

Gets Film Role

LILLIAN CORNELL.

Lillian Cornell, Chicago radio songstress, has departed for Hollywood and begun work in her first moving picture. Her photograph in a national magazine attracted the attention of a talent scout. He arranged a long distance audition and she was engaged by Paramount. Her first rôle will be that of leading lady to Jack Benny. Miss Cornell sang for two years on NBC.

LAKE CALUMET DOCK PROJECT IS NEAR FINISH

City Council to Get Plan for Testing Airport.

Next week the city will complete the major part of the $73,000 dock at the south end of Lake Calumet, Oscar Hewitt, commissioner of public works, said yesterday. At the same time the council will receive a tentative plan for another project at the opposite end of the lake—a testing airport to be built on 300 acres of filled in land in the hope of attracting aircraft companies to the area.

Oscar Hewitt.

The dock, built as a winter terminal for lake traffic bound down the Little Calumet river and eventually, by way of the Illinois river, to the Mississippi river, stretches its 752 foot length along a basin dredged in the south end of the lake as part of the federal government's $3,600,000 expenditures on improving the Calumet waterways.

The basin is 22 feet deep, 500 feet wide, and 2,667 feet long, and, according to estimates made by Hewitt, will provide winter accommodations for 50 lake vessels.

Warehouse Funds Sought.

Business organizations of the southside area have asked work project administration examiners in Washington, D. C., to approve funds for the construction of warehouses and other improvements along the dock. A roadway, Waterway street, connects the area with Stony Island avenue. Railroads run nearby.

If the city's plans are fulfilled the basin will be dredged the length of the two-mile lake.

Tonnage thru the river and its connecting channel to the Little Calumet has increased considerably in recent years. The federal department of commerce recently estimated that 512,101 tons moved thru the waterway in 1938. In 1933 the total was 34,850 tons. The river carried 350,949 tons in 1937, and the department estimated that 12,000,000 tons, with annual freight savings of $8,617,000, eventually might use the waterway.

Seaplane Use Expected.

Aldermen William A. Rowan [10th] and Arthur G. Lindell [9th] will present the plan to build a testing field for aircraft companies at the north end of the lake. They explained that seaplanes might easily use the water bed south of the field.

Under present plans the airport would be built by filling in the north end of the lake with city refuse, covered with dirt dredged from the lake bed.

In August the Chicago Association of Commerce sponsored a request that the council authorize $12,500 to be spent in providing an airport as well as seaplane facilities in the area.

The association said aircraft companies might be attracted to the area if they were provided with an adequate testing field. The Howard Aircraft company, one potential user of the field, uses the crowded facilities of Municipal airport for testing purposes.

CLOSER CHECK ON RADIO SOUGHT TO FRUSTRATE SPIES

Washington, D. C., Nov. 22 [Special].—Determined to prevent, if possible, the unlawful use of any of this country's ether waves by belligerents or their agents, the federal communications commission is preparing to enlarge its monitoring activities.

An appropriation for the purchase of seven mobile monitors will be asked of the next congress so that a closer check may be made on shortwave stations, especially in the amateur field.

While the commission has assurance of wholehearted support from the American Radio Relay league in tracking down any "piracy" on the amateur frequencies, reports of unlawful operations have increased since the outbreak of the European war.

The relay league has set up a key network of 150 stations to keep constant watch on the air waves and report any irregularities. Commission officials are convinced that the 55,000 amateurs are loyal and trustworthy citizens, but at the same time they are afraid that unlicensed operators may use their frenquencies.

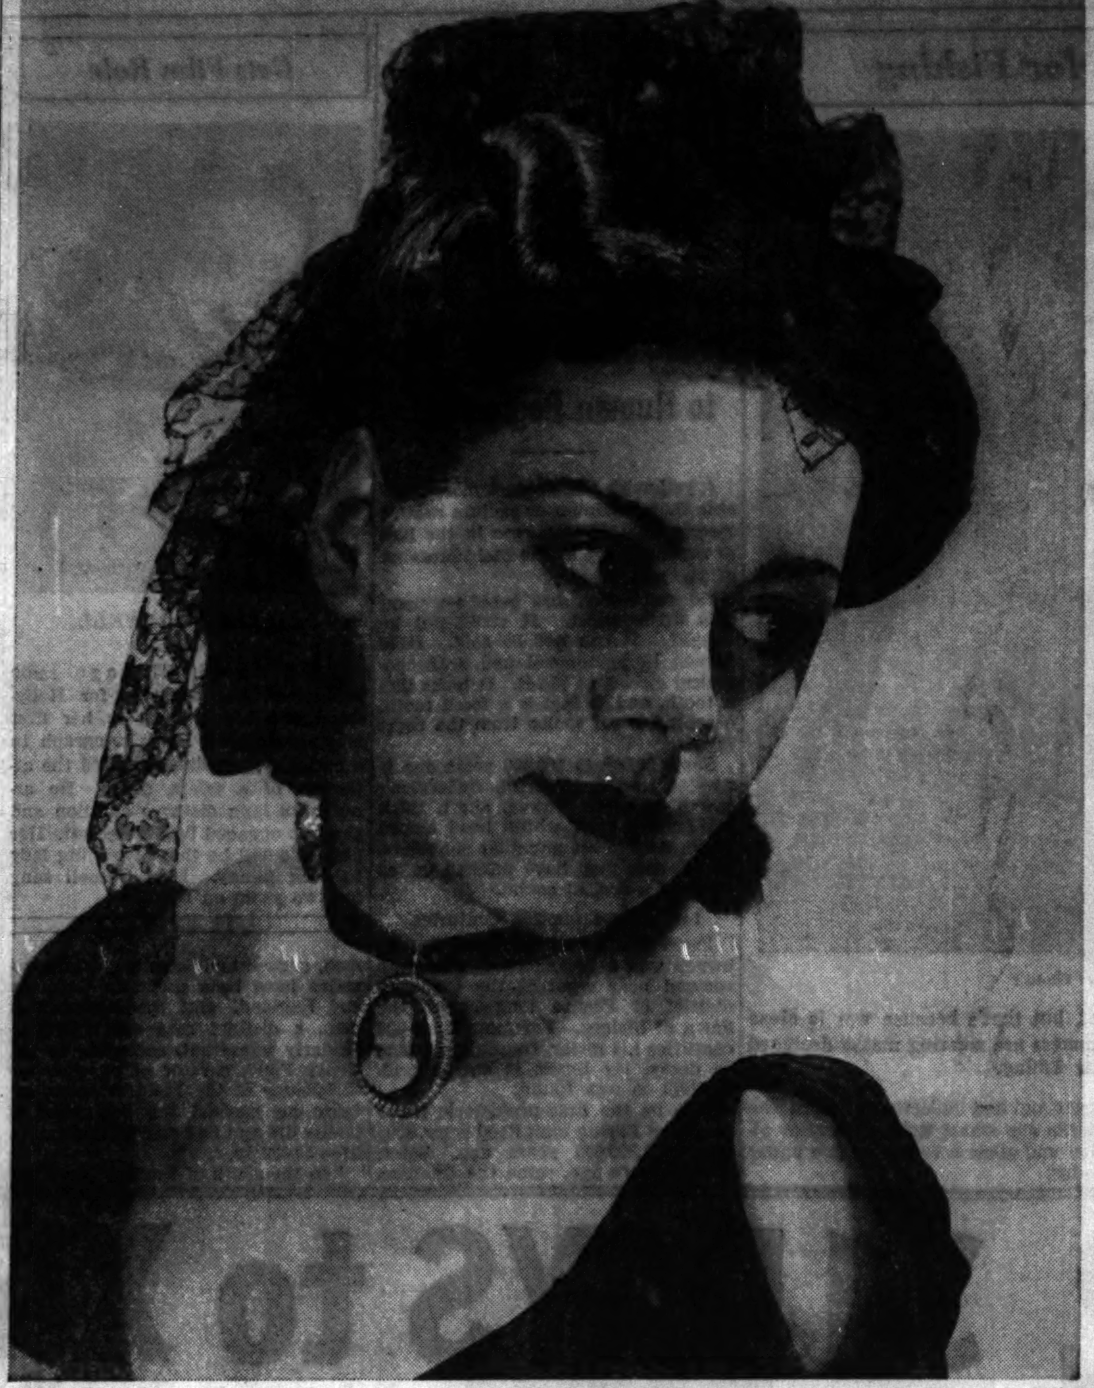
The commission explains that the seven mobile monitors are not needed solely for tracking down "radio spies" but are wanted for the peacetime checking of transmissions as well. They were requested of the last congress, but were refused as unnecessary at the time.

HODES APPROVES LOOP 'L' PILLAR PAINT PROJECT

The city has the power to sponsor a WPA project to paint the loop elevated pillars white, Corporation Counsel Barnet Hodes informed Commissioner of Public Works Oscar E. Hewitt yesterday. In September Hewitt asked the Work Projects administration to organize such a project in the interest of safety on the streets under the loop structure. The request was prompted by the downtown council of business men and property owners.

The WPA questioned the project on the ground that the elevated structure is private property. In his opinion, Hodes said, the elevated franchise no longer exists and the ordinance under which it was granted and under which the elevated company assumed risks is invalid.

Coiffure Created for Romantic Fashions



This coiffure after Velasquez has been created for the new romantic fashions. Artful puffs give a built-up, square effect to the front hair arrangement. Back hair is gathered into a chignon of plump curls. For ornamentation a miniature mantilla of spidery black lace. (For information telpehone Eleanor Nangle, Superior 0200.)

YOU NEEDN'T BE DENSE ON SMOKE NUISANCE ISSUE

Free Booklets of City Tell How to Save.

No furnace need belch forth a lot of smoke—and grief for a householder and his neighbors. Every furnace can be fired scientifically, to reduce the smoke nuisance and make living more pleasant for everybody.

Frank A. Chambers.

So says Frank A. Chambers. He's head of the city smoke abatement department and, as one who specializes in smoke and how to fight it, he knows whereof he speaks.

Mr. Chambers not only warns home owners against coal smoke, but is ready and willing to help them solve their problems. He announced yesterday that a series of bulletins describing proper firing for all types of heating systems have been prepared and will be given free upon request at his office in the city hall. In addition, stoke engineers are available to explain the bulletins to home owners.

Here's the Basic Principle!

The basic principle to be observed in firing all coal burning equipment, according to Mr. Chambers, is not to place green, or fresh coal, on top of the already burning red coals. That only causes the fresh coal to give off gases which go up the chimney.

"A fire in any type of coal burning heating plant, except the rare downdraft boiler system," Mr. Chambers said, "should be started by first placing coal on the bottom of the fire box, with ashes below it when possible. Kindling material should then be placed on top of the coal and ignited.

"In this way the coal is ignited from the top and burns downwards. This is so that, as the green coal beneath becomes heated and gives off combustible gases, these gases must pass thru the already burning top layer of coal. The gases are thereby burned before reaching the chimney.

"To charge, or refire, such a fire, the red coals or red coke should be pushed either to one side or to the rear of the fire box and the fresh or green coal piled up on the other side or in front. Then the green coal will gradually ignite along the surface and repeat the same action folllowed by the original charge."

Early Inspections Urged.

Heating plants, Mr. Chambers warned, should be inspected thoroly and cleaned before the weather becomes severe and they cannot be shut down.

Persons who burn garbage in their furnaces should not throw the moist waste material directly on top of the fire, he said. Rather, the garbage should be wrapped well in paper and placed in the furnace against a side wall so that it will dry out before being pushed over the live coals. This keeps from smothering the fire with wet garbage and also avoids having the liquid from the garbage run down thru the live coals.

The Question.

Do you approve of women on juries?

Where Answered.

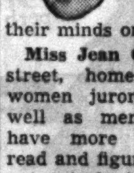
Michigan avenue and Randolph street.

The Answers.

Edward Orum, 11414 Normal avenue, a material checker.—Yes. I think every voter should. Women have so much to say about different cases that they should be given the chance to get in there and do a little pitching.

Mrs. Carl Johann, St. Louis, Mo., a housewife.—Yes. They have a different point of view than men and more understanding of things. In my opinion women should make good jurors. We have women jurors in St. Louis.

Mrs. Helen Silverthorne, 8245 Ridgeland avenue, housewife.—Yes. They are not so easily affected by personalities as men, especially the personalities of women. Then women have a lot of time to think about various things while doing their housework.



Benedict Dobrow, 11341 Edbrooke avenue, commercial artist.—No. I do not think the average woman is suited for jury service. They are unstable. From what I read in the newspapers, some have a hard time keeping their minds on the case.

Miss Jean Cummings, 9702 Loomis street, home girl.—Yes. I think women jurors do as well as men. They have more time to read and figure things out. And then serving on a jury gives a woman a chance to wear her new clothes.

MONTH OF GUN DRILLS PLANNED OVER LAKE AREA

Waters off Fort Sheridan to a distance of 8½ miles will be closed to lake craft during two periods of gunnery drill, beginning next Monday and continuing for almost a month, it was announced yesterday.

Capt. R. L. Anderson of the 61st coast artillery [antiaircraft] warned that from Nov. 27 thru Dec. 1, between 7:30 a.m. and 4:30 p.m., the 202d coast artillery [antiaircraft], Illinois National Guard, will engage in practice firing of 3 inch shells, supplemented by machine gun fire.

From Dec. 4 thru Dec. 23, during the same hours, the 61st coast artillery will subject offshore waters to similar fire.

Offer High School Pupils a Chance to Go on Radio

The radio council of the board of education has announced plans for providing auditions for all high school youths who may have radio talent. Youths wishing auditions are to apply to the radio chairman in their school. The chairman then will make arrangements with the radio council for a hearing at its downtown studios. Harold Kent is director of the council.

RADIOEDUCATORS MEET HERE DEC. 6 FOR CONFERENCE

Better Utilization Aim of Parley.

More than 800 leaders in educational broadcasting will attend the third school broadcast conference in the Congress hotel for three days beginning Dec. 6 under auspices of the radio council of the board of education, which handles the broadcasting activities of the Chicago public schools.

Experts in educational broadcasting from coast to coast will discuss how better to utilize radio in schools and colleges and how to make broadcasting more effective as an educational medium. Kent said that at least one teacher from each of Chicago's 400 public schools would attend the conference.

Stage Actual Broadcasts.

Actual broadcasts will be a feature of the sessions. The Columbia network's "American School of the Air" on Dec. 8 is to originate at the conference. Those attending will have an opportunity to see how this program, heard by thousands of schools thruout the nation, is presented.

Several of the radio council's programs, which are broadcast during school time for grade school pupils, will give model presentations before the educators. Among these programs will be "The Hour of Magic Boots," "Pieces of Eight," "Let's Tell a Story," "Milestones of History," and "The Science Story Teller."

Clifton Utley to Speak.

Clifton Utley, W-G-N commentator on foreign affairs, is to be the chief speaker at a banquet Dec. 8. He is to discuss "Controversial Issues in the News."

Among other speakers will be Dr. James Rowland Angell, former president of Yale university, now educational advisor to NBC; Franklin Dunham, educational director of the same network; Sterling Fisher, director of education and talks for the Columbia network, and William Guenther, director of facsimile and television for WLW, Cincinnati, O.

The National Broadcasting company is also holding a conference of all of its educational directors from its various affiliated stations from coast to coast.

THE HEIRLOOMS OF TOMORROW—KRALL CUT GLASS

Work of Bohemian Artist and Sons Described.

BY EDITH WEIGLE.

Cut glass—the old, massive, glittery Victorian cut glass of our grandmothers' day—is as dead as a herring. It's as completely out of the style picture as the portiere of beads that used to hang in the archway between the dining room and the "parlor."

But the modern version of this tableware is very much in style again. The cut glass of today is a distinctly new type, much lighter and finer and minus the sharp, ridged lines that were characteristic of the old pieces. It is worthy of being the heirloom of tomorrow. On the finest of this glass exquisite pictures have been wrought, pictures worked out with instruments so fine that the lines are not visible to the naked eye.

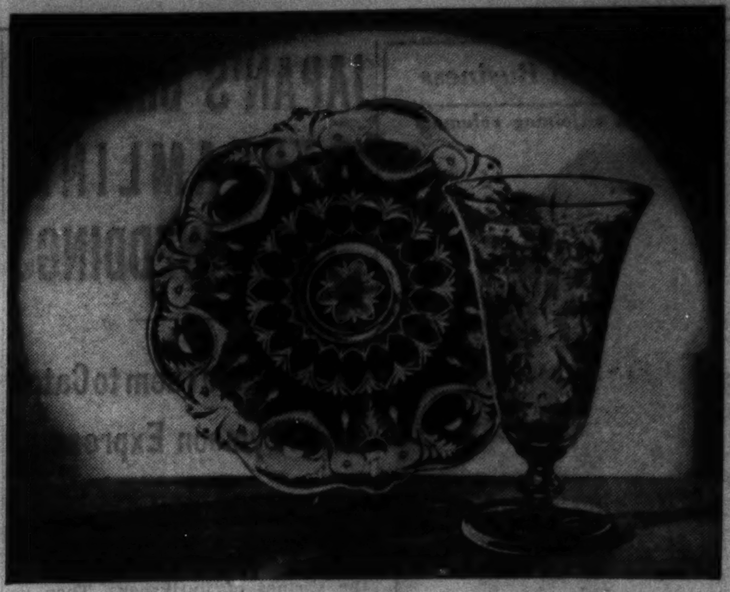
A great artist in this field is Emil Krall. A collection of his work is now to be seen in Chicago. Mr. Krall is one of the dozen artisans in this country who are capable of producing these graceful lines and scrolls which cannot be done by acid etching. All of the dozen learned the art from the same master in Bohemia, one of the centers of the glass industry.

Following years of training in the glassworkers' school, Mr. Krall was sent to Austria's royal house, where he was craftsman to the Austrian court of the former Emperor Franz Josef. In 1909 he came to this country and for several years did exhibition engraving for a number of leading glass factories. Now he and his sons, whom he has trained, produce their pieces independently.

The element of time, which enters into modern production, is disregarded by these artisans. As much as 186 hours has been spent upon one piece of work. Lovely nymphs, birds, and exotic flowers are cut free hand into the glass. There is no drawing, no transfer of line from paper to crystal.

Modern Version of Cut Glass

(Story in adjoining column.)



These beautiful examples of the glass engraver's craft were designed by Emil Krall represent some of the finest crystal available today.

A CITY CONTROLER TURNS BUTCHER AT BUDGET TIME

City Controler Robert B. Upham has been doing his annual butchering for the last four weeks. The job involves the cutting and hacking of requests by city department heads for 1940 appropriations.

These requests, the first step in the preparation of the budget, totaled about $64,000,000 when they reached the controler's desk more than a month ago. It was up to him to cut them down to $57,800,000, the 1940 corporate budget appropriation. The corporate budget is the operating budget of the city and does not include bond funds.

Upham announced yesterday that he will present his estimates for the 1940 budget, along with the requests of department heads, to the city council Nov. 29. The estimates then will be referred to the council finance committee which will draw up a budget in December.

Work on the budget started in September when Upham asked department heads to prepare their estimates and submit them to him by Oct. 1.

Upham said no salary raises were included in the $64,000,000. The increase over the 1939 corporate appropriation, he said, was due to requests for new equipment and more men in various departments.

EARTH DIVULGES NEW SECRETS OF MAN'S BEGINNING

Ice Age Deposits Tell Story 400,000 Years Old.

Dr. Helmut de Terra.

Philadelphia, Pa., Nov. 22 (AP).—A new calendar of the great ice ages which goes back one million years and changes the picture of man's beginnings was described to the American Philosophical society in its sessions here last week.

The calendar divides the past million years into seven great days and shows that man was already widespread on the third day, nearly half a million years ago—a time when scientists have thought him just beginning.

Gravel Tells the Story.

The calendar is made of the gravel deposits of the four ice ages and three warm periods between them that have marked the earth in the last million years. Human relics appear in the gravels on the third of these days, the time when the second great ice age covered many parts of the world with ice hundreds of feet deep.

These discoveries were reported by Dr. Helmut de Terra of the Philadelphia Academy of Natural Sciences and the American Museum of Natural History, New York. They were made in the last two years with aid of the Peabody museum of Harvard, the American Philosophical society, the Carnegie institution of Washington, and Harvard university.

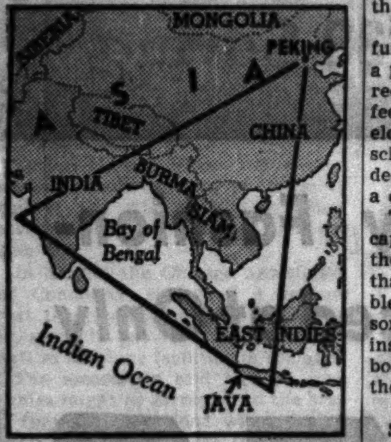
Dr. De Terra said they enable scientists to visual the life pattern of Asia's earliest known inhabitants. This pattern, he added, is an unbroken story of improvement.

A Winning Race.

The seas invaded early man's homelands and drove him out, changes of climate starved some of his civilizations, but the great human race never faltered in beating all obstacles to rise to higher standards.

The new calendar covers a triangle of southeastern Asia, more than 2,000 miles on a side, from Peking, China, to India, to Java.

Part of this area was always warm or tropical. But the ice masses in its northern region and on the Himalayan plateaus made clock-like changes in the rainfall and gravel deposits of rivers in the warm regions.



Triangle in southeastern Asia, more than 2,000 miles on a side, described in scientific findings of Dr. Helmut De Terra of Philadelphia.

This is the first time that the effects of great ice ages have been mapped in tropical regions. To complete the ice age calendar Dr. De Terra worked in Burma, near the middle of the triangle.

Result of Erosion.

In all the areas the river terraces were the same in number. These terraces are ancient deposits of gravel eroded from highlands during the periods of high rainfall.

At the north tip of this triangle is the recently discovered home of Peking man. At the south is that of Pithecanthropus. At the east are Indian relics. These had been thought to be isolated groups of primitive men.

The gravel calendar shows that the Peking men were making the same kind of tools as Pithecanthropus, at the same time. And that other men, whose bones have not yet been found, were making similar tools all over the great area at the same time.

All Made of Stone.

The tools were all stone. Most characteristic of them is the hand chopper. It is made from a river stone, worn to the shape of a miniature football, and sharpened on one side by flaking. One of these ancient tools, Dr. De Terra said, can dissect an antelope in 21 minutes.

At the same period, around 300,000 or 400,000 years ago, other primitive men were making hand axes, a slightly different shaped stone tool, in Europe and Africa.

The new evidence may mean that man originated more or less simultaneously in several parts of the earth.

Nation's Largest 2 Engine Air Liner Nearly Complete

St. Louis, Mo., Nov. 22 [Special].—The largest twin engine air liner ever constructed in the United States, the new 36 passenger Curtiss-Wright substratosphere plane, is nearing completion at the corporation's factory here. The fuselage of the all-metal, 19 ton monoplane is now in the final assembly section, where the retractable landing gear, wing panels, and tail surfaces will be attached. Powered by two Wright double-row cyclone engines and with pressurized cabins, it will transport passengers and cargo at a speed of nearly 240 miles an hour at altitudes up to and over 20,000 feet, it is contended.

Entered in Cat Show

Silver tabbies owned by Mrs. Agnes Rickel and entered in cat show to be held here early next month.

Mrs. Agnes Rickel, 433 West 61st street, is preparing her silver tabby kittens, a basketful of them, for the 29th annual championship cat show which will be held Dec. 3 and 4 by the Beresford Cat club in the Skyline club, 188 West Randolph street. Mrs. Rickel's kittens, of course, will be after authentic prize ribbons of blue.

TEST NEW DEVICE TO THWART PERIL OF FLYING IN FOG

Use Infra-Red Rays to Peer Thru Mists.

Glendale, Cal., Nov. 22 [Special].—A new aviation safety device designed to defeat fog—the airman's worst natural enemy—is being tested here by Guy Ball, who has invented other successful gadgets to take the peril out of flying. The new device makes it possible for a pilot to "see" the ground below him thru fog.

Ball explains that his invention is based upon the fact that all objects in nature—including the earth, bodies of water, and even ice—give off heat ray eminations. These heat rays are in the portion of the light spectrum below the visible red rays and adjacent to electric waves.

These invisible heat rays penetrate fog, snow, rain, dust, cloud, or smoke, as tho these obstructions to ordinary vision did not exist.

Known to Photographers.

The science of photography utilizes these infra-red heat waves in taking photographs thru cloud or smoke. In photography, film sensitive only to the infra-red waves is used.

Ball says his device goes a step further. The key to the apparatus is a photo-electric cell sensitive to infra-red rays. This cell, he said, was perfected by W. L. Cummings, a pioneer electrical manufacturer, after many scientists and electrical engineers had declared it impossible to create such a cell.

The photo-electric cell, Ball said, captures the infra-red rays and starts them on their way thru amplifyers that transform these waves into visible light. This light is thrown on a sort of television screen that can be installed on an airplane instrument board so the pilot sees a picture of the terrain as it passes below him.

Rays Caught in Camera.

Specifically, the plane will be equipped with an iconoscope camera lens that covers a wide angle. The infra-red rays that enter the lens are directed to the cell where they strike a silver plate and travel on electrical impulses thru an amplifying system to a regulation cathode ray tube. The image is thrown from the tube upon the screen.

Tests already have been made and have been highly successful, Ball said. Accurate pictures of the ground have been transmitted to the screen in airplanes flying in dense clouds, at night, and in severe rainstorms. None of the more usual forms of light are required and the instrument now only awaits a little more laboratory work to make it practical for daily use.

At this time, Ball said, he is working to make the device foolproof, compact and light in weight. Presumably, with planes thus equipped, airmen will be able to "see" clearly when ordinary vision is obscured. Thus it will be possible for them to make precision landings and takeoffs in the worst weather conditions.

MARITIME BOARD AND ARMY AIR CORPS JOBS OPEN

Officials of the United States civil service commission announced yesterday that competitive examinations will be given within the next few weeks for posts in the army air corps technical schools and in the United States maritime commission.

Positions in the technical schools which will be filled are those of instructor, at $3,800 a year; associate instructor, $3,200; assistant, $2,600, and junior, $2,000. Applicants must be between 21 and 53 years old, officials said.

The maritime commission posts are those of assistant inspector of ship construction, at $2,600. Experience in the inspection of marine machinery is required, and the applicants must be between 25 and 53 years old. Civil service examinations also will be given for principal editorial clerks, at $2,300, and editorial clerk, at $1,800. Applications from states east of Colorado must be filed with the commission in Washington not later than Dec. 11, and from states west of Colorado not later than Dec. 14.

Priest to Talk on Dictators at Knights of Columbus

The Rev. Vincent Herr, S. J., will speak on "Life Under a Dictator," next Tuesday evening at the Columbus council of the Knights of Columbus in the club rooms at 6930 Clark street. The Rev. Mr. Herr recently returned from three years in Europe, eighteen months of which were spent in Germany. All Knights and their friends are invited to attend.

Gives Up Daughter

Agnes Ayres, silent film star, and her daughter, Maria.

Hollywood, Cal., Nov. 22 [Special].—Agnes Ayres, star of silent film days, yesterday voluntarily relinquished custody of her 13 year old daughter, Maria Eugenia Reachi, for the next 13 months to the girl's father, Manuel Reachi, film producer.

"I have been ill during the best part of the last year and I think it best that my daughter go with her father until I recuperate," the actress told the court.

Reachi now is in Mexico City. The court order provided that the child should remain with the father in Mexico City, where she will attend school, until Dec. 31, 1940.

The daughter had been in the mother's custody since the actress and Reachi were divorced in 1927.

NEW TYPE LIGHT TO PERMIT NIGHT SEAPLANE HOPS

Buoy Appears Steady, Even on Rough Water.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 22 [Special].—A new type of light marker for use at seadromes, giving the illusion of a stationary light, altho it bobs on the surface of the water, is expected by its developers and the Civil Aeronautics Authority to go a long way toward making night seaplane operations safe.

The floating marker, tested and accepted by the navy within the last 10 days, is regarded as the first successful attempt to develop a water surface marker which looks stationary at night on a wave-tossed seaplane basin.

It is said to have important implications, not only in the development of commercial night flying over water, but for naval air purposes as well.

Night Operations Banned.

At present CAA permits no commercial seaplane landings or take-offs at night, except in emergency situations, and altho the coast guard and navy necessarily make seaplane landings and take-offs at night, officials of these services long have sought some way of permanently marking seaplane basins for safe night flying.

Now that the navy has accepted the new marking lights, it is expected the CAA can pass upon their feasibility for night commercial operations.

The markers, developed by the Firestone Rubber company and the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company, with the coöperation and suggestions of the CAA, are placed in two lines in a seaplane landing basin to mark the runway.

Float Made of Rubber.

The light weighs about 185 pounds and is about four feet in diameter. It consists of a doughnut-shaped float of heavy rubber with a thin pipe passing thru the hole. The light is on the upper end of the pipe, three feet above the water level. Dry cell batteries are placed in a waterproof metal case at the bottom of the pipe, under the water.

The light is a fluorescent or gaseous electric light bulb enclosed in arismatic or fresno lens. The covering lens is clear, but the light ray is greenish in color.

Lens Adds to Effect.

The manner in which light is diffused by the prismatic lens produces the effect of a stationary light, even when swells more than four feet high are running. The light does not do all the compensating for the swells, the flotation unit being designed to make a considerable contribution to the stable effect.

Experts said the markers, which are chained permanently to the bottom, have long life dry cell batteries and require servicing only once every three months.

INVENTS A WAY TO REFUEL GIANT PLANES UP IN AIR

Expects to Revolutionize Distance Flying.

New York, Nov. 22 [Special].—Trans-Atlantic planes will transport bigger pay loads, army bombers will carry more bombs and all the other big, long flight aircraft everywhere will be refueled in the air if Richard L. Hemlay's dream comes true.

Hemlay is a California inventor who has come east to tell aviation experts about his device patented to revolutionize distance flying. It is an apparatus permitting a large ship to rise easily from the ground with a light fuel load and then to take on a large supply of fuel from a fuel plane, and do it almost automatically.

Hose Connection.

Hemlay's plans show a fuel plane with a hose extending from its tank into the air beneath the plane. They show the receiving plane with a slot-like device on one of its wing tips.

As the fuel plane, in the plans, draws near the receiving plane, the hanging hose line is caught by the extensible slot so that its nozzle fits into an airtight unit allowing a flow of fuel from one ship to the other. Automatically, too, the flow stops when the tank is filled, and the nozzle disengages itself.

"Refueling in the air is going to be routine work for giant planes in the future," said Hemlay. "It's obvious now that if they are to carry their capacity loads they can't take off with a huge fuel supply, and it's equally obvious that once they're in the air they can take on the fuel without trouble."

Pick-a-Back's Disadvantages.

His plan, he said, has none of the disadvantages of the pick-a-back's procedure tried by the great seaplane Mercury when it undertook its trail blazing flight across the Atlantic with another plane fastened on its back. The purpose of that undertaking was to allow the heavily loaded Mercury to benefit from the lifting power of its lightly loaded helper ship, the Maia, to which it was engaged, which shortened the take-off period and kept down the take-off speed.

"In the pick-a-back plan, with the ships disengaging in air after the take-off, there are many disadvantages," Hemlay said. "The close association of two large planes during the first few moments of flight increases instead of lessens the take-off hazard. Besides, a big crane or some other lifting apparatus is needed to hoist the helper to the back of the heavily loaded transport. Flexibility in the take-off is restricted to the locality of the crane."

Criticizes Catapult.

Hemlay does not look with favor on the catapult idea, either—the idea behind the operation of the 19 ton German seaplane Nordmeer, which was catapulted into the air at 110 miles an hour from the deck of its mother ship, the Schwabenland, anchored off the Azores. This, he said, was merely another way to help a heavily loaded plane to take off.

Such efforts, Hemlay believes, substitute a problem of their own for the essential problem, which is how best to refuel in the air.

He has left his plans with navy authorities, who are considering them, and now is consulting private industries. His home is in Orland, Cal., where he is employed by the Shell Oil company, which obtained patent protection for his apparatus.

RECRUITS FIND SOLDIERS HAVE OWN LANGUAGE

Not only does the soldier lead an entirely different life from his civilian colleagues, but he virtually speaks a foreign tongue, as the recruits of the 6th corps area are learning. To aid these "Johns," Maj. Leland W. Skaggs, recruiting officer, has composed a glossary of army slang.

"Battin' the breeze," the rookie learns, means holding a longwinded conversation. "Cabbage" is American money. A soldier who likes his food is a "chow hound." "Goldfish" are canned salmon, and "circus water" is iced drinks with meals, while the army cook is libelously known as a "hash heater" or "slum burner." To get coffee with cream and sugar the recruit says: "Java with sidearms."

He learns that a horse is a "hay burner," while a mule is aptly termed a "jug head." The bugler is a "wind jammer," the first sergeant is the "top-kick," the second lieutenant a "shave-tail," while the commanding officer is known as the "old man." Any soldier is "dogface," an infantryman is a "doughboy," an artilleryman a "red-leg," and a cavalryman a "yellow leg."

HOBBY RUNS TO FIREPLACES.

CLEVELAND, O. [U. P.].—Charles E. Rush, new head of the Cleveland public library, has as a hobby the collecting of chimney and fireplace descriptions. After 20 years, Rush has a collection of 1,000 fireplace figures.

Legless Beauty Drives Auto

Jessie Simpson, who lost both legs in railroad accident, seated beside Harry Barclay, motor vehicle inspector at Hackensack, N. J., when she passed driver's license test. [Acme Photo.]

Hackensack, N. J., Nov. 22 [Special].—Miss Jessie Simpson, 21 years old, of Teaneck, N. J., who lost both legs in a train accident here in April, 1937, has passed an automobile driver's test and received a license to drive.

Miss Simpson, who wears artificial legs, apparently had no difficulty in operating the car's brake and accelerator pedals. The car was equipped with an automatic clutch. Miss Simpson is an experienced driver and formerly held a driver's license. The test was given by inspectors of the state motor vehicle department.

Miss Simpson, who operates a beauty parlor, is to be married on Jan. 19 to James Steward, a Hackensack advertising man.

1,000 Miners Get Turkeys for Year's Safety Record

Iron River, Mich., Nov. 22 (AP).—It will be a royal Thanksgiving Thursday for 1,000 families of this district whose breadwinners are employed at iron mines. Two of the largest operators, M. A. Hanna Co. and Pickands Mather Co., have announced that each employé would receive a turkey as a reward for the safety record of the last year. Hanna employés in Michigan total 670, of which 520 are here, 113 at Wakefield, and 37 at Palmer, near Negaunee.

PRINCETON PICKS 50 OF ITS BEST TO LEARN FLYING

10,000 Student Airmen Being Trained.

Princeton, N. J., Nov. 22 (AP).—The most ambitious experiment in civilian flight training for nonmilitary purposes ever undertaken by any nation is getting under way this month in the United States, and if Princeton university's experience is typical, the student flyers are the cream of the crop.

Allotted 50 students under the Civil Aeronautics authority's program for training more than 10,000 flyers this school year, Princeton picked from its best.

High Standards.

They had the best physiques and the best marks in their classes. The university administration proceeded on the theory that only men with high academic standards could carry on an extra-curricular activity such as flying and stand up under the special study required.

Forty of the fledglings have taken their first flights after a fortnight of intensive ground school preparation. An additional ten will go aloft on Saturday.

"Our flying program," said Dr. G. A. Brakeley, financial vice president of the university, "is based on its acceptance as a civil activity of the government. We made that clear the applicants for training first meeting with them.

Brakeley is credited with pushed hardest the inaugura the flying instruction.

"We find the flying stud serious," he commented. "The that they are taking this up the classroom, without college testifies to their attitude. So far the university is concerned, we interested in aviation only as a means of transportation and of munication."

Faculty Likes the Idea.

The enthusiasm for flight training has had its effect on the faculty least three members of the faculty have shown an interest in the In charge of the flying training the university is Dr. Wilbur H. He helped weed out the final the original 300 men.

EARLY THANKSGIVING DATE CORRECTS ERROR IN SCHOOL'S CATALOG

Lewisburg, Pa., Nov. 22 [Special]. Thanks to a catalog editor's Bucknell university students will be the only ones in the beginning their Thanksgiving tion on Nov. 22 without any tion of the prearranged schedule the school year. Dr. Floyd G. tine, editor of the school's catalog, listed Nov. 23 at the Thanksgiving when the 1939-40 tion was compiled last spring. editor's error, which escaped notice of printers and was "vindicated" later by Roosevelt's proclamation.
